Beach councilmanic politics head for a hot finish

Ray Hinson of Janke Road stands before his $1000 contribution to the candidates of his choice. "I can't afford it," he said, "but I'm concerned with the city of Virginia Beach." He poses at a rally for candidates Sunday. (more photos on page B-4 and B-5)

Low voter turnout expected for May 2

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

Virginia Beach voters can pick six persons out of 15 candidates running for city council in the May 2 election.

No matter what borough you live in, you may vote for one candidate from each of the four Virginia Beach boroughs up for election, along with two at large candidates.

You must go to vote in the precinct in which you live. There are 36 precincts in the city.

Mrs. Clea Liverman, Virginia Beach voter registrar explains, "If a person has moved since the election last November and hasn't notified this office, he can vote in his old precinct."

"If anyone has any doubt as to where they should vote, they should call this office at 427-4667," she said.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

When asked how the voter turnout is expected to be on May 2, Mrs. Liverman replied, "If new voter registration is any indication, then this election will have a low turnout. We've only had about 1,000 new registrations since the last update, and that number is very low."

Police appeal to council for pay hike

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

A Virginia Beach police officer, charging intimidation by City Manager George L. Hanbury, complained to city council Monday afternoon that police personnel will receive a pay raise during 1978-79 of less than five percent. The police want a 10 percent increase.

Douglas W. Aydtette, who said that he did not come as a police officer but as president of the Fraternal Order of Police, Princess Anne Lodge No. 8, asked for permission to speak at Monday's meeting rather than wait for the public hearing on the budget which has not been scheduled. He said that he felt that "I have the same rights as other citizens" and asked for permission to speak.

Hanbury apparently thought otherwise, Aydtette said that in a recent phone call from Hanbury, Hanbury said that he would be speaking as Detective Aydtette, not FOP president Aydtette. Aydtette feared losing his job because Hanbury said on the telephone that he would take disciplinary action. Aydtette said that one department head had been fired for taking part in political activities. Hanbury later denied the charge.

The police wanted to be heard before the May 2 Councilmanic election so that they would know where council members stood on the salary question.

Councilman J. Curtis Payne told Aydtette to continue speaking since he had already begun, but no assurances were given concerning his job.

A public hearing on the 1978-79 $152,635,881 budget will be held next month after the Councilmanic election.

Following Aydtette's presentation Reid Ervin, former council member and a candidate in the coming election, said that he defended Aydtette's "right to speak." He added that he could recall no budget which was changed, once at the public hearing stage, to grant anyone a salary increase.

Aydtette said he felt that "I have the same rights as other citizens" and asked for permission to speak.

Aydtette said the city's plan to give police a 4.7 percent pay raise on Oct 1 and another 4.7 percent increase on April 1, 1979, will add up to less than a five percent increase during the year. He asked that the police budget hearing be moved up "so we'll know what to expect." He said the police had understood they would get a 10 percent increase in July 1, 1978.

Councilman John R. Griffin asked, "Who told you?"

Aydtette answered that Mayor Clarence A. Holland did at "the FOP meeting the night the candidates spoke."

Griffin said that the police may have gotten the wrong impression from the media, but that it was clear to him from the beginning that the increase was five percent.

Dr. Holland said that it was not his intention to give that impression.

Hanbury said that with the reclassification plan adopted by council, police officers with six years tenure who pass the master police officer's or sergeant's exam may get as much as a 10 percent increase. Some police officers, with a combination of increases, may get as much as 25 percent more during 1978, he said.

Hanbury said he tried to take into consideration all employees. Hanbury said he told Aydtette he would prefer having the police appear at the public hearing. He said he told Aydtette that if he did appear, he should conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner, which, he said he did.

"All employees should be covered by rules and regulations," Hanbury said, "and no group of employees should be treated differently than anyone else."

Hanbury has recommended salary increases for all city employees of five percent starting on Oct 1. and another five percent starting on April 1, 1979.

Life in the fast lane for Robert White Jr. is tooting down Atlantic Avenue in a 1977 Cadillac limousine.

Or going from concert to concert with John Denver.

Or partying with the likes of Charlie Daniels and Boz Scaggs.

But it's all in a day's work for the 22-year-old 24th Street resident. White works for his father, Robert E. White, and Robert L. Davis who own Celebrity Limousine, a service which provides rented transportation for weddings, funerals, and VIP's.

The service owns a fleet of six standard 1977 and 1978 Cadillac limousines as well as vans and busses.

The shiny, black limousines are mighty plush. They have separate stereo systems, plush carpet and seats and a couple have phones. And all have lots of room.

"It's the only one in the area," White said. "And anybody can rent them." According to White, the service cost depends on the amount of time the limousines are rented for. And the farther the limo goes from the Tidewater area, the more the fee is.

The service usually books two or three concerts a month and sometimes books as many as five. Celebrities rent the limos for one concert or can get them for their concerts throughout the state.

The service has only been operating since last fall and does no advertising. Yet, somehow the word is getting around. White drove Art Garfunkel from his concert in Norfolk to his concert in Washington, D.C. and chauffeured Dan Fogelberg, Wet Willie, Ted Nugent and recently Little Feat.

"The utmost thing for being a driver is providing and keeping safety for the client," White explained. Routes are mapped out ahead of time, quick exits are made, and above all, discretion is absolute.

"We provide the finest in discriminating taste," White noted. "We have to keep their privacy."

When White was in Roanoke with Shawn Cassidy, the problem was getting Cassidy away from "all the little girls trying to find him as he came out. Head security saw what was going on and decided on a side exit. He radioed ahead of time to us and we got him out without any problems."

Fans can sometimes be a real problem, according to White. When he was driving Bootsy's Rubber Band, a fan "offered me $100 to tell her which hotel Bootsy was in." Of course, White didn't.

White enjoys his work. He not only drives but he handles the business transactions as well. "It's a lot of driving," he said, "... plus you have a good time."

"We have people yell at us all the time, but it's usually some failure in communication. Some are prima donnas, but most have been pretty nice."

White takes pride in his work and is constantly on the lookout for other limousines in the area. By now, they're in his blood.

"We've been told by John Denver that we've got the best limousine service on the East Coast," he said with a proud smile.

With White at the wheel, they go in style.

A friend remembered

The last year has flown by. Last year I was in the mountains and now I'm at the Beach.

He was there, as friends so often are. Constant. We shared a good deal together . . . close friends, parties, secret jokes, memories.

But he was a lover of life, a fast paced lover. He thrilled to the glories of life, sunsets, heights, speed, danger . . . the "highs" of life.

Always living for the moment. Yet barely stopping to glance at the now, he was always looking forward to the new and exciting.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

Up on the mountain peak, when the sun finished the day, he was at home. The closeness of friends and the joy of sharing an experience that meant so much to all, was a time when he found peace.

Being young and free, he skipped through life with a special caring. His friends were scared and he treated them so. They were his priority.

He loved the Beach . . . the sun, the surf, the sand, and the life.

He was young yet he lived fully and strongly. He had a lot to give to those he left behind.

And on the anniversary of his new life, I remember what he was . . . and is.

Up in a puff of smoke

The locals appeared to be having a great time at the Azalea Festival "Friendship of Nations Night" held last week at Scope.

And who wouldn't? There was plenty of good food, good drink, good music, and good company.

The event was held to benefit the American Cancer Society, a fact that ended up to be more significant than I had at first imagined.

We were sitting at our table finishing up some delicious cheese, when the woman seated next to me leaned over and confided to me.

"I am just dying to smoke a cigarette, but I don't dare, since this whole thing is for the Cancer Society," she said.

Pam Vandever

SUN News Editor

It wasn't until then that I noticed how clear the air was in that large room. No one was smoking.

I wondered how long it would last. Throughout the evening, several people commented on how they'd like to smoke, but they felt guilty about it.

As the hours passed, however, the resistance slowly wore down, and one by one the crowd began to light up.

Of course, they were discreet about it, holding their cigarettes low and making furtive glances to see who was watching before every puff.

By the end of the evening everyone had pretty much relaxed and were smoking as they pleased. But the air had stayed remarkably fresh due to the smokers' late start.

If you like to socialize, but also like to be able to breathe while you're doing it, you should attend next year's Friendship of Nations Night.

National Secretaries honor a week of service

The National Secretaries Association services as the sole sponsor of Secretaries Week. This year Secretaries Week runs from April 23 - April 29. Secretaries Day falls on Wednesday, April 26.

According to the NSA, the "purpose of NSA's sponsorship of Secretaries Week is twofold: The first intent is to remind secretaries of their responsibilities to their profession; the second is to bring recognition to secretaries for their vital role in business, industry, education, government and the professions."

The NSA was founded in 1942 to fulfill a "spokes-authority role" for professional secretaries. Currently the association is involved in numerous ongoing projects.

The Certified Professional Secretary program (CPS) introduces a professional course of study and the CPS candidate must pass a comprehensive two day certifying examination. Three Tidewater chapter members are presently sitting for the CPS exam.

To help provide better trained personnel in business the NSA sponsors the Future Secretaries Association (FSA). Scholarships are available to outstanding members of the FSA. Other activities the association is continuously engaged in are the NSA Research and Educational Foundation and the publication of the "Secretary," the association's official magazine.

The professionalism promoted by the NSA is of enormous benefit to the functioning of offices across the country and Secretaries Week is a fitting tribute to these professional "executive assistants".

Cancer Society gets patients "back in swing"

There are more than 3,000,000 Americans who have had cancer and most are active and free of any symptoms. To help new patients "get back into the swing" the Virginia Beach unit of the American Cancer Society has some very special rehabilitation programs.

"We try to make the added life that medical science can give as enjoyable and active as possible," said Dr. Norma Magpoc, service chairman for the Virginia Beach unit, "and we do this through rehabilitation programs that make use of people who have had cancer and adjusted well, and can truly encourage and motivate someone just going through the cancer experience."

For example, in the ACS "Reach to Recovery" program, a woman who has had a mastectomy (breast removal because of cancer) visits a new patient in the hospital. The visitor is well groomed and is able to offer living proof of how normal a woman can look after breast surgery.

The volunteer brings exercise equipment, bathing suit and a temporary breast form to be worn in the hospital. She is well prepared to discuss personal matters - for example, how to discuss breast surgery with a teenager daughter.

"All of our rehabilitation programs are done under medical supervision, and each "Reach to Recovery" visit, for example, has the written permission of the patient's physician," Dr. Magpoc said.

In some communities, the ACS has a similar personal rehabilitation program using volunteer visitors for patients who have had surgery for bladder or colorectal cancer. In this type of surgery, a new opening is created in the abdomen for the elimination of bodily waste.

"Here again, our volunteers demonstrate the fact that a person can look perfectly fine despite surgery. As they tell patients about their lives, they make it clear that it is absolutely possible to work hard, travel, engage in sports - or romance - despite cancer," she said.

For the man or woman who has lost a voice box (larynx) to cancer, the ACS can help in re-training a patient to speak again through another method of breath control. The ACS sponsors the International Association of Laryngectomies which comprises very active clubs of people who have had this surgery. Here again, it is a matter of patients helping each other.

"Each year, the ACS offers rehabilitation services to more than 175,000 patients nationwide. The services are provided free of charge thanks to the dedication of volunteers and thanks to funds provided so generously by the public.

We are now holding our annual educational and fund-raising crusade in Virginia Beach" Dr. Magpoc said, "and we are asking our friends and business associates to contribute generously so that we may continue to help today's patients while supporting the research that will find tomorrow's answers to the cancer problem."

from the Highway Safety Division

Clocks move forward on April 30 as daylight savings time returns

With the return to daylight-saving time reducing early morning visibility, Virginia Beach motorists need to be especially watchful for pedestrians, joggers and school children.

"On Sunday, April 30, clocks will be set ahead one hour, reducing light during the early morning hours," said John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Virginia. "Since motorists are used to driving in the bright morning sun they must now be particularly watchful for other highway users."

Pedestrian clothing does not reflect enough light to allow motorists to see the pedestrians until it is too late. According to Hanna, "At today's high speeds, even white clothing is not bright enough to warn motorists of a pedestrian in the roadway."

Pedestrians can improve their visibility by wearing reflective clothing. Reflective material comes as either tape or sew-on strips. "The reflective material returns headlight beams directly to the driver, is reflective up to 500 feet, which allows the motorists time to avoid the pedestrian," said Hanna. The reflective strips can be purchased in fabric or department stores.

Reflective strips are very important for the jogger, who must follow the same rules of the road as pedestrians. "If jogging before or after work, try to find a road that is not heavily traveled," advised Hanna. "If you must jog on a road without sidewalks, try to find a road with wide shoulders and jog facing the traffic."

Children waiting for the school bus frequently do not pay attention to traffic. "Often children begin playing while waiting for the bus and run into the street or dash across the street without looking when they are late for the bus," said Hanna. "Motorists should drive with extra caution when passing school bus stops."

You'll never believe what I saw a Virginia Beach public servant do last week.

On Virginia Beach Blvd. a trashcan had fallen over on its side and into the street. The trash was bundled up in a plastic bag.

A city policeman stopped traffic by putting on his blinker and proceeded to move the trash can out of the street. Apparently, so he wouldn't have to touch the trash, he kicked the bag out of the street. The bag busted open and the trash flew all over the yard, . . . and street.

Thanks for the litter.

Job file available

The Summer Job Exchange File sponsored by the Virginia Beach Public Library is currently available for use by members of the community who are searching for interested youth to perform jobs around the house.

The Summer Job Exchange File is available at the Windsor Woods and Great Neck Branch Libraries and have listings of jobs persons ten years old and over have registered to perform throughout the spring and summer months.

There are currently over 150 persons registered in the file and jobs to be performed range through the following: babysitting, car washing and waxing, dog walking, housekeeping, garage cleaning, gardening helper, ironing, lawn mowing and raking, music lessons, pet sitting, plant sitting, sewing and mending, tutoring, weeding and trimming, painting, silver polishing and window washing.

The libraries are responsible only for providing the file of information and assisting in its use. The library is not responsible for scheduling, determination of salaries, quality of work performed or any injuries relating from the work.

It is hoped that many members of the community will make use of this job file so that young people, who have taken an affirmative step to indicate their willingness to work at odd jobs, will have the opportunity to spend a constructive and useful summer.

For further details on this program and for information from the file, interested persons should call the Windsor Woods Branch at 340-1043 or the Great Neck Branch at 481-6094.

The file is still open to any interested young people who wish to register for jobs. However, they must go into the libraries to register as no registrations will be taken by phone.

Country life could mean having pigs as neighbors

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Having pigs as neighbors is a part of country living some country lovers don't bargain for.

Aside from esthetics, there's the matter of pollution. In any event, the North Bay Citizens for Conservation want the City of Virginia Beach to enact some zoning regulations which would protect the residents and the pigs alike.

At present under the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, pigs are permitted in areas zoned agricultural. Changes suggested by North Bay Citizens and being studied by city planning include reclassification of some areas to include heavy agricultural sections to permit swine or the provision of a use permit procedure to raise swine.

James Morrison, representing North Bay Citizens for Conservation, Monday afternoon presented council petition containing 148 names of residents opposed to the feed lot planned for 3568 Muddy Creek Road.

Morrison plans to move next week to his home on 21 acres at 3501 Muddy Creek Road, near to his home on 21 acres at 3501 Muddy Creek Road, near the projected "Nutrena Hog System," an enclosed feed lot on concrete floors, which is partly roofed with an open lagoon for containing waste.

The State Water Control Board approved a permit for the lagoon for Michael Meiggs to have pigs on the 75 acre parcel. Meiggs does not live on the farm.

Morrison also presented a letter from the Sandbridge Beach Civic League opposing the farm for environmental reasons and a copy of a letter from the Virginia Wildlife Federation complaining about permitting animals so close to Back Bay.

Morrison said he understands that about 1,000 hogs will be kept on the farm.

Morrison said that he didn't think that the Water Control Board did its duty of protecting the Back Bay and Sandbridge sports fishing and wildlife preserve. The citizens believe that the run-off from the pig farm will pollute the bay.

Morrison said that he had a letter dated September

1976 from city planner Robert Scott referring to contemplated changes in zoning, but nothing has been done.

Morrison said that approximately 22 families live within a half mile of the farm. The area is not a farmette type of community, Morrison said, and most of the land is under cultivation.

The waste of the thousand hogs is equivalent to the waste of 18,000 people -- all going into an open pool. He said he thinks the farm will definitely be a health hazard.

E. Gray Simpson of Sandbridge said that "we are talking in terms of zoning as restriction proposed to protect people from hogs. Some protection needs to be given to protect hog owners from people who are opposed." Feed lots are permitted anywhere zoned agricultural, he said, but added that principal and conditional uses should be considered.

Operators of feed lots have been in business for a long time and are part of the industrial base of the city, he said. "They must know where they may operate without having us harass them," he said.

Saying the city was working on ordinances, Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. said that "being a rural area, there's some justification for having feed lots here."

Mrs. Maxine Graham of Sandbridge said that the Sandbridge Civic League supported the North Bay Citizens Group. She said that there seems to be little that can be done about the Meiggs farm, but that the city should take steps to eliminate future problems.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the Health Department reported that animal waste was not as dangerous to human health as human waste. He said that the Health Department would on request test the wells in the area to determine whether they have been polluted.

Councilman John A. Baum saw some irony in the situation that some people who build houses and restaurants in Sandbridge on Marshes have also polluted.

North Bay Citizens are also considering action to get the Water Control Board to reconsider its approval of the lagoon.

Dogs become victims of discrimination

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Dogs and dog owners at the south end of the beach in Virginia Beach are being discriminated against.

Or so believes Janet S. White of 341 Lake Drive, as she opposed passage of an ordinance banning dogs on the Boardwalk and adjoining grassy area from May 15 through Sept. 30 of each year.

Since the area runs from Rudee Inlet on the south to 42nd Street on the north, Ms. White considered it discrimination against dogs in that end -- the south.

Unfortunately, Councilman Robert R. Cromwell, Jr., has memories of jogging where dogs have been, causing him to "feel like O.J. Simpson."

"I don't think joggers like dogs on the beach," he said.

Mrs. White said that the ordinance, considered Monday afternoon, also reads as though it would be all right for dogs to walk along the forbidden path if the owner carried a shovel and doggie bag.

Cromwell said that he spends time on the beach summer and winter and he has "yet to see a person following a dog with a bag."

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the Lifeguard Patrol recommended the ordinance because of the congested condition of the boardwalk in the summer. People use the grassy section to lie on, Hanbury said.

Councilman John R. Griffin said that there were sufficient areas to walk dogs without using the boardwalk.

The ordinance was approved unanimously.

VIRGINIA BEACH ALMANAC
CORRECTION

On Wednesday, April 26, 1978 the City of Virginia Beach in a supplement to the Virginia Beach Sun distributed at 24 page booklet of facts and figures entitled The Virginia Beach Almanac. The wrong copy was inadvertently run regarding Courts. The correct copy is as follows:

Virginia Beach is in the 2nd Judicial Circuit of Virginia. There are three categories of the judicial system, these include the Circuit Court, General District Court, and the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

The Circuit Court is the City's only court of record, with jurisdiction in cases involving criminal law, civil law, and chancery. The Circuit Court has final authority in the affairs of all other courts. There are five Circuit Court judges each appointed to an eight-year term by the General Assembly. Court sessions begin at 10:00 a.m. Monday through Friday.

The Office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court maintains all court records. Office hours are 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The General District Court is not a court of record, with jurisdiction in cases involving misdemeanors, violations of city ordinances, minor civil suits and preliminary hearings in felony cases. The Traffic Division hears all cases involving traffic violations. In some civil suits, the General District Court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court. There are three full-time judges, appointed to six year terms by the General Assembly. One judge serves the Civil Division, one the Criminal Division and Traffic Division. Substitute judges are appointed by the judges of the Circuit Court.

The General District Court schedule is as follows: Civil Court, Monday through Friday beginning at 9:00 a.m., Criminal Court, Monday through Friday beginning at 9:00 a.m. and Traffic Court, Monday through Friday beginning at 9:00 a.m. The Clerk's Office for the General District Court is open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

The Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court has jurisdiction in some cases related to domestic problems, including child custody and child support awards, and over all cases involving persons under eighteen years of age. Proceedings are open unless the defendant does not desire for it to be a public hearing. There are two full time judges appointed to six year terms by the General Assembly. Substitute judges are appointed by the judges of the Circuit Court.

Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court is in session Monday through Friday beginning at 9:00 a.m. The Clerk's Office is open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

All courts and supporting offices are located in the Princess Anne Municipal Center.

The XXV International Azalea Festival

Beach residents support Cancer Society...

Laura and Amy Dantonio (left) of Virginia Beach had just as much fun as anybody during the evening and didn't mind waiting in line to order Cokes.

After the food was gone, the crowd began to drift toward the dance floor. Queen Azalea XXV was one of the first persons to dance.

Bart Roper, chairman of the Friendship of Nations Night, joined by Evelyn Lamb (left) and Carol Walters (right), of Virginia Beach, enjoyed the evening's festivities and the opportunity to see friends old and new.

Terrie Snyder and William Harrison of Virginia Beach paused to sample some appetizers before moving on to the next restaurant's hooth.

There was food and fun galore for Beach residents last Wednesday night at the 25th International Azalea Festival Friendship of Nations Night held at Scope.

Over 2,200 people were on hand to sample everything from appetizers to desserts, all donated by 30 area restaurants. A $10 admission fee entitled each participant to all the food he could eat and made him eligible for one of 40 door prizes.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Paul Hennings of WTAR radio and live entertainment was provided by Boh Jones and the New Directions, Gary de la Vigne, Dan Bledsoe and Pete Ross.

Special guest of honor at the event was Queen Azalea XXV Henriette Charlotte Aleida van der Klauw.

After the food was gone it was time to dance, with Queen Azalea being the first one on the dance floor.

The event was a great success, according to honorary chairman Mrs. David Howard of Virginia Beach. "Proceeds from the event will help in the continuing programs of research, education, service and rehabilitation of the American Cancer Society, Virginia Division, Inc.," she said.

Nina Newby and John Parsons couldn't make up their minds what to try next. Meatballs or sausage?

They could have danced all night. Jim Butt and Jo Ann Boers of Virginia Beach had energy to spare, putting on quite a performance on the dance floor.

Linda Allen, left, donated her time to work as a hostess during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. C. Roy Kelley donated the tickets for the event. All are from Virginia Beach.

Marilyn Copeland held eight year old son Eric's plate while he relished a tasty treat.

...delight in Friendship of Nations Night

Myrte Scholten, Femke Scholten and Kieke Kernkamp (l to r) represented the Dutch Contact Club of Tidewater at the event. All three live in Virginia Beach.

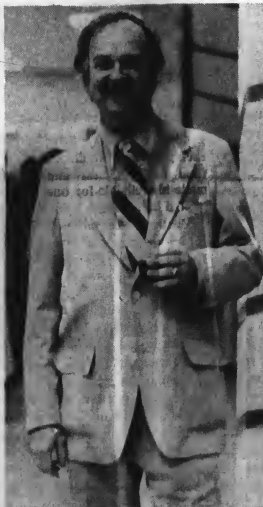

Gary de la Vigne of Virginia Beach provided the musical entertainment as guests arrived for the evening.

Rex Harper of Virginia Beach didn't get a moment's rest working as a bartender for the evening.

Pete Costanza made sure everyone put their ticket stub in the basket in order to be eligible for one of the many door prizes given away during the evening.

Johnny Wilson, Glen Hodges and Diane Sijera, (l to r) were busy all evening preparing plates of food from El Toro restaurant.

Sandra and Jim Crocker (center) and Marion Gordon (right) just couldn't get enough of the fresh fruits and vegetables offered in a beautiful display presented by Farm Fresh.

Sugar Ray Leonard spars in exhibitionSell out crowd electrified by Dome boxing

Leroy Boone psychs himself up for his final decision over Speedy Jordan

"Termite" from the Beach was a crowd pleaser at the Dome Boxing last Thursday night.

By Eric Stevens
Special to the SUN

Beach residents Leroy Boone and Bobby Acey did it again...bigger than ever.

Boone decisively won Norfolk's Speedy Jordan to become the Virginia State Heavyweight Champion. Acey kayoed Ron Pettigrew in the sixth round of the semi-windup.

Promoter Ed Owens, of Indian Lakes, gave us virtually a quadruple feature. In addition to the exhibition by Sugar Ray Leonard, 1813 people watched heavyweight David Johnson of Bowie, Md., take a six round decision from Richmond's Doc Spellman. Both now have 7-2 records and bear watching.

Leonard, the Olympic champ, now 10-0 as a pro welterweight and ranked sixth in the world, wore a Martian-like blue headgear. His middleweight cousin, Odel Leonard, is 9-1, and ranked 13th. Sugar has incredibly fast hands, but I would like to see Odel engage in a real bout here, for he is no slouch himself.

In the 4th and final round, they exchanged fake knockdowns, and hammed it up to the delight of the crowd. Equally humorous was the 3rd round exhibition between two ten year olds, who looked more like age six. One was called "Termite."

The opening six rounder saw Wilbur Crews of Bowie battle Norfolk's Jesse Carter to middleweight draw. Crews tickled the audience by sticking out his tongue at Carter.

Speedy Jordan displayed a lot of savvy, a splendid physique, an aging face and a misleading nickname. Although he had Lake Edward's pride bleeding from the nose for several rounds, Jordan lost the ten round feature to the tank-like Boone. The bout was dull at times, causing referee Fred LaVelle of Princess Anne Plaza to remind them that this was a championship fight. At one point someone yelled, "We want Termite!"

Dozens of would-be patrons were turned away, missing an extremely exciting match in which the veteran Pettigrew gave Acey his first real test. Ron was elusive, and displayed a two-fisted attack. He can also take a punch. All judges had him ahead on points when the Norfolk policeman caught him at 1:44 of the sixth round of a scheduled eight. The pair will have a rematch on May 18.

Knowing that Ron had battled many contenders, I asked him how Acey compared. He replied that "He's pretty good, but he got lucky with me. It'll be different next time."

The feature fight was an anti-climax, for anything is dull after seeing Acey fight. The air is tinged with electricity as he relentlessly stalks his victim. Even watching him miss is exciting, for his punches possess awesome velocity. He missed quite a few, and absorbed quite a few, but this is part of a slugger's strategy.

A few months ago Ken Norton was repeatedly peppered by a little-known Italian, Lorenzo Zanon. After many rounds of this semi-humiliation, Ken got his opening, and that was all he needed. The slugger doesn't mind taking five medium punches to land one good one. In physique and in action, Acey reminds me of my childhood favorite, Rocky Graziano. But I recently saw a photo of the young Rocky, and Acey makes him look like a 98 pound weakling.

During the bout, someone yelled, "Give him a ticket, Bobby!"

Speaking of tickets, it might be a good idea to get yours early next time.

A SUN review

Symphony performance sets audience toes tapping

By PAM VANDEVEER
SUN News Editor

The Virginia Beach Pops Symphony's recent concert at the Dome was the answer for anyone looking for a good, relaxing Sunday afternoon of entertainment.

Conducted by Walter Noona, the orchestra performed a varied program that included works by Strauss, Bach, Copeland, Prokofiev, Bernstein and Duke Ellington.

Congressman G. William Whitehurst was present, making his "cultural debut" as narrator in the symphony's performance of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf, Op. 67."

This delightful children's tale featuring musical characterizations of the young boy Peter and his animal friends brought many a smile to the faces in the audience.

The playful chattering of the flute and oboe really did sound like an argument between the bird and duck, and the horns projected a convincing image of the mean, fearsome wolf.

The work was well executed by Whitehurst and the orchestra, with Noona leading the interplay between narrator and instrument with excellent timing.

The "Brandenburg Concerto No. II in F Major" by J.S. Bach was one of my favorite pieces on the program. This light, airy Baroque work featured four soloists, Patrick Nultemeier, violin; Frank Jones, flute; Daniel Smith, oboe; and Mark McGovern, French horn.

The solos were well handled, especially in the andante movement where they joined to weave a tapestry of beautiful contrapuntal harmony.

Even intermission had plenty to offer the crowd of concert-goers. Wine and cheese were for sale, served at your table by members of the symphony auxiliary.

Midge Mahler, auxiliary president, presented a plaque to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Doudera, making them honorary symphony patrons, in thanks for them allowing their home to be used as the site of the auxiliary's recent open house fund raising project.

Mrs. Willis Watson, auxiliary chairman, was also recognized for her dedicated work to the group.

A performance of Bernstein's "West Side Story" followed the final intermission and featured the Walter Noona Trio along with the orchestra.

The most outstanding feature of the performance was Noona's brilliant display at the piano, which he was able to execute while still conducting the orchestra. The beautiful, spine-tingling melodies of "West Side Story" were all the more enhanced by the sensitivity and depth of feeling apparent in Noona's performance as a pianist.

The trio was also featured in the final program number, "Satin Doll" by Duke Ellington, and in the first encore number, Gershwin's "I Got Rhythm."

The final encore, Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," brought the audience to its feet with cheers and sent them home with toes still tapping.

Rebecca Plummer, winner of the Virginia Music Teacher's Association state music festival, will be guest soloist with the symphony during its next concert on May 21, when they will perform Beethoven's Concerto No. 2, in B flat Major, Op. 19."

Walter Noona, left, conductor of the Virginia Beach Pops Symphony, looks over a score with Congressman G. William Whitehurst prior to the symphony's performance of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf." Congressman Whitehurst performed the narrator's section of the work.

The Virginia Beach Pops Symphony tunes up before the lights go down, while the audience enjoys wine and cheese at their tables.

Summer art program scheduled at VWC

For the fourth consecutive year, Virginia Wesleyan College is offering a special summer program for rising high school seniors and 1978 graduates.

The course will encompass painting featuring professor Barclay Sheeks and ceramics with assistant professor Britton.

"The painting sessions will explore various techniques of paint application on a variety of including watercolor and oil type experiences," said Sheeks. "Students will be encouraged to use their ideas and interests in selecting subject matter for exploring style and technique."

The ceramic sessions will include creative experiences in hand building, throwing on the wheel, glazing, kiln building, firing and raku, according to Britton. "Students studying ceramics will be encouraged to expand their concepts and knowledge of ceramics and its possibilities as well as to learn techniques," he said.

The program will run from June 19-July 14, and classes will meet Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m.-noon daily. The cost is $90 which includes tuition for three semester-hours of college-level academic credit.

Additional information regarding the summer art program can be obtained by contacting the Virginia Wesleyan admission office.

CANDIDATE FOR CITY COUNCIL
Lynnhaven Borough

What a difference an election year makes when you want to cut tax rates while assessed valuations climb. No matter what you hear or read or how often you are told taxes will not go up this year OVER 60% of the citizens WILL PAY more taxes! You will not be told of the purchase of another private utility company or how much it will cost until after election but it will be purchased before July 1. Frankly, I believe it is time to stop playing politics with the budget and bring the cost of running the city of Virginia Beach under control. We need to guarantee the citizens now living in the Beach adequate and essential services. I NEED THE VOTE OF EVERY CITIZEN IN EVERY BOROUGH ON MAY 2ND TO WIN.

I PLAN TO RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE.

Special to the SUN

"Outstanding" was how club president Robert Forester described the inaugural tour of the Cape Henry Model "A" Ford Club. The outing took place Sunday, April 16.

According to Forester, twelve club cars and three non-member cars made the trip from Princess Anne Plaza to the Cape Henry Lighthouse for a picnic lunch and back.

This was the club's first outing since its formation in January. Another tour is planned for May 14 to Carter's Grove Plantation near Williamsburg.

The club, which presently has twenty members, is open to anyone in the Tidewater area with a Model "A" Ford. The goals of the club are to maintain the Model "A" in its original state and to act as a source of information and help to members.

The club's formation coincides with the golden anniversary of the Model "A", five million of which were produced between 1928 and 1931.

A technical session will be held by the club this Saturday, April 29. For additional information contact Forester at 340-0226.

Shirts sold locally are recalled

San Francisco Shirt Works is voluntarily recalling and refunding the purchase price on four styles of ladies' sweatshirts sold in the Tidewater area because they fail to comply with a federal flammability standard. If exposed to an ignition source such as a cigarette ash, an open flame, or any spark, they could ignite and burn with a rapid and intense flame. (No injuries have been reported to date.)

Some 22,500 of these ladies' sweatshirts were imported by San Francisco Shirt Works, Inc., from a Hong Kong manufacturer and distributed nationwide to retailers during October and early November 1977. Shirts which appear to be identical but which were delivered to retailers in approximately July of 1977 have passed the flammability test required by the standard. Only those shirts sold to retailers during and after October 1977 fail to comply with the standard.

All the ladies' shirts are 100 percent cotton, fleecy side out, with long sleeves. Sewn-in labels at the back of the neck say "SAN FRANCISCO TEA PARTY" with a cablecar woven in the label. The identifying labels also say "Made in Hong Kong." These sweatshirts were available in winter white, pink, yellow, peach, blue and chambray.

The company will refund to consumers the purchase price of suspect garments. Persons who believe they have these sweatshirts should write for refund procedures to:

San Francisco Shirt Works, Inc.
111-17th Street
San Francisco, California, 94107

Or they may call CPSC's toll-free Hotline (800) 638-2666.

Yaple earns scholarship

Leigh Yaple, daughter of Malcolm and Ruth B. Yaple of Virginia Beach, is attending Virginia Wesleyan College with the aid of a Robert Provine scholarship for the 1977-1978 academic year.

Leigh, a 1976 graduate of Maury High School in Norfolk, has not yet formally declared a major. She is a sophomore.

The Robert C. Provine memorial scholarship was established in memory of the first dean of the college, Dr. Robert C. Provine. This annual award of $100 is made to the student with the highest academic average during the freshman year.

Leigh tied with another student for this honor.

Former teacher now trains 1,200 reservists

By Scott Hessek
Special to the SUN

Last spring Brenda E. Blackwell was teaching Spanish at Mallonee Junior High School in Hopewell, Va.

This spring she's responsible for the training of 1,200 Naval Reservists from a five-state area, supervises a staff of more than a dozen people, and serves as executive officer, second in command, for the largest Naval Reserve military installation in Virginia.

Brenda Blackwell, a resident of 2572 Reagan Avenue, Virginia Beach, is 26 and an officer of the Navy.

Her change in careers took the Virginia native from her home on Armfield Road in Richmond to Newport, R.I., for officer candidate school, through intensive management training in fields as diverse as nautical engineering and office administration, and immediately into a position of significant responsibility.

It was a desire for challenging work that first led Miss Blackwell into Longwood College in Farmville, Va. When she earned her degree in Spanish, she entered the teaching professions.

"I loved teaching," she said. "It was challenging, worthwhile and a real 'people' job. A friend once quit school at age 16 because she believed that no teachers cared about her. I wanted to be a caring, concerned teacher and I think I achieved that," she said. "But after a few years, I was ready to move on to new challenges."

The challenge came when, "just out of curiosity," she talked to a Navy recruiter and learned that, because of her degree, she might qualify for officer candidate school. She took the required test, passed and was ordered to O.C.S.

"The work there was tough," she said. "I didn't know anything about seamanship and engineering and naval warfare. But I learned. And somehow I managed to pass the 19-week course."

Brenda Blackwell earned her commission as ensign, U.S. Naval Reserve, and received orders to serve as training officer and executive officer of the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Center in Norfolk. According to Captain Avin H. York, the center's commanding officer, Ensign Blackwell is regarded as a "dedicated, well-liked and respected woman officer who is enthusiastic about her work."

"I had hopes of getting challenging work," she said, "but I never thought it would all come about so quickly."

"I really came anxious to learn more about people, and to do something significant with my life," she said. "This is the kind of work where you can meet those goals. My people here at the reserve center are devoted, honest, and really try to do the best job they can for the Naval Reserve. Their responsibilities are to handle all the administrative and training details for Naval Reservists who come here from several surrounding states. They have a real sense of mission, pride in their work and desire to help."

Ensign Blackwell shares their sense of mission and the George Wythe High School graduate enjoys all of her Navy responsibilities.

"The Navy has saved me from futility," she said. "I really feel as though there are virtually no limits on my future; my potential is my own. The people have been friendly and cooperative. This job is exciting and can be the springboard for many new assignments and travel in the future."

How does Ensign Blackwell feel the opportunities are for women entering the Navy?

"This is one of the best career fields a woman can enter," she said. "You have a sense of independence, and you feel you can make many of your own decisions. You don't have the frustrated feeling of being trapped in a dead-end job. And when you finish work for the day, you feel satisfied, as though somehow your work counted for something," said the native Virginian.

"I guess that's the best feeling of all."

Ensign Brenda Blackwell

Eight cows sold through SUN ad

"We sold eight cows from our ad in the Virginia Beach SUN," says Mrs. E. Warren of Jolliff Road, Chesapeake.

"We are going to keep our ad in the paper to help people out the middleman in buying beef."

Grain fed cows for beef are only one example of the way things go with the classified ads.

"People call because the price is so good and to find out how much it costs to buy a cow."

"Most people split the cost and the meat with friends."

"Most of our customers call us back because they are so pleased with the meat."

The Warrens plan to keep their SUN classified ad running because they have lots of cows to sell.

Whatever needs to be sold, do it better with the SUN classified at 486-3430.

Reid Ervin Believes....

The quality of our lives depends on our ability to properly manage our growth.

The impact of growth is not always felt immediately. Reid Ervin believes the quality of our lives and the features that make our city desirable can only be protected by managing growth carefully, and providing essential services as needed. Special attention must be given to the preservation of agricultural lands and open spaces and to the abatement of all forms of pollution.

A political analysis

By Joan Coates
SUN Editor

In this final week before the May 2 Virginia Beach City Council election, many political observers are speculating the outcome of the hotly contested race.

Although the 15 candidates would not attest to the forming of tickets, the sides are clearly divided.

On one side is the incumbents plus at-large candidate Betty Romulus.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland is seeking re-election to his Bayside Borough, as is John Griffin in the Lynnhaven Borough and Floyd Waterfield in the Pungo Borough. Vice-mayor Patric Standing is seeking re-election.

Dr. Henry McCoy is unopposed in his Kempsville Borough seat, although last week civic leader Art Ridell, announced a major write-in campaign when McCoy endorsed the incumbent ticket.

There have been rumors as to the reason McCoy endorsed the incumbents late in the race. Some say that with his endorsement and the subsequent re-election of the incumbents, Holland would step down as mayor and McCoy would take his place.

On the other side of the coin is the shadow of Meyera Oberndorf. In endorsing Don Merrick in his bid for the Lynnhaven Borough seat and Barbara Henley for her bid to the Pungo Borough seat, Mrs. Oberndorf has stopped short of advocating a ticket. At-large candidate Reid Ervin and Knox Burchett, who is opposing Dr. Holland, are of the same populist philosophy as Mrs. Oberndorf and James Fralix, also opposing Holland, has endorsed Henley, Merrick and Ervin.

The incumbents have continually credited the present city council with the desirability of Virginia Beach. They have been charged with evading the issues and side stepping controversial issues before council until after the election. Some sources in city hall have admitted some issues have been delayed.

The challengers have centered their campaigns on the Freedom of Information Act, Oceana Naval Air Station and the "unresponsiveness" of the present council.

And the trips to Kitty Hawk last August and the one to San Francisco in December are also issues which the challengers have continually brought forward.

James Fralix recently noted that Virginia Beach was a desirable community "in spite of the incumbents instead of because of them."

The incumbents have conducted their politicking mostly in open and large rallies and the challengers have relied on open forums at civic groups, which they contend the incumbents have evaded.

Beach voters rally councilmanic support...

Pat Standing, Beach vice-mayor, welcomed the crowd to the party at his farm for partying and politticking Saturday.

Bob Boettig did his part by passing out Romulus bumper stickers.

The crowd came out Saturday for good fun, food, and candidate support.

These ladies weren't looking for Beach candidates ... maybe some potential candidates. Pictured are Kathy Muka, Karen Banhardt, Donna Dufault and Kim Garnett.

He's a might young to vote but Demian Smith was joining in the pre-election fun with mom, Berta.

...for the incumbant ticket at Aldo Farm

Robin and Floyd Waterfield III made no bones about who their favorite candidate is.

The Bluegrass Swingers were belting out some swinging tunes for the crowd gathered at Aldo Farm Saturday.

Rallying for support, the Virginia Beach City Council incumbants plus Betty Romulus were out in style last Saturday afternoon at Aldo Farms, near Oceana Naval Air Station.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland, Vice-mayor Patrick Standing, Floyd Waterfield, John Griffin, and Mrs. Romulus sponsored a pig roast for supporters and voters.

The crowd danced to the bluegrass music provided by the Bluegrass Swingers and filled their bellies with beer and good food.

In the final week before the election, the candidates were shaking a lot of hands and patting a lot of backs in hopes of adding up votes for their bids to re-election May 2.

Mary Barraco and Mayor Clarence Holland smile for the SUN birdie.

It's Judy Haddock, Bob Hicks, and Al Wilder enjoying the company at Aldo Farm.

City treasurer John Atkinson, wife Betsy and Mike Standing talk politics.

A Sunday yard party in Kempsville...

Mrs. Don Merrick was talking it up in support of her husband, Lynnhaven Borough candidate Don Merrick.

Write-in candidate Art Riddell sponsored a "meet the candidates" rally at his home in Kempsville.

Kempsville residents Mary Tall and Viola and Ralph Preston came out for a chance to meet and talk with some candidates Sunday at Art Riddell's.

Even though Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Sirazio aren't from Virginia Beach, the Lawrence, Mass. residents came to the festivities.

Gwn Wood, of the Pinewood Gardens and Eureka Park Civic League, talks with Margaret Ridell.

The Barbero family came across the street to rally for the candidates. Pictured are Pearl Barbero, Carolyn Ball, Rick Barbero, and Frank Barbero.

...brings Beach support to council hopefuls

Candidate Knox Burchette and Shriey Marlowe enjoy the hot coffee and baked goodies amid the politicking Sunday.

Civic leader Art Riddell, of Kempsville, sponsored at "meet the candidates" rally at his home Sunday afternoon.

Riddell announced a major write-in campaign last week against Dr. Henry McCoy when McCoy endorsed the incumbents.

Candidates Don Merrick, Knox Burchette, Barbara Henley and Reid Ervin were in attendance at the rally as well as Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf.

The candidates fielded questions from the crowd gathered.

Amid refreshments and personal contact, the candidates shook a great many hands in hopes of gathering votes for the May 2 election.

Joe and Mary Baracco join the fun at the Riddells.

It was a handshake from write-in candidate Art Riddell for Gary Forrest, of Cape Story by the Sea.

Chuck and Linda Merrick came out to help Dad with his politicking last Sunday.

After hitting the golf course, Reid Ervin was hitting hard for support at Sunday's rally.

Birdneck, Lakeville need water systems

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

It will cost over a million dollars to install new water systems in Birdneck Point and Lakeville Estate two of Virginia Beach's older subdivisions. In presenting a report on the Birdneck system Monday afternoon, City Manager George L. Hanbury said that if improvements are made in Birdneck Point, there is a strong possibility that Lakeville Estates would ask for water service. Both programs, if started immediately, would cost well over a million dollars, he said.

In the meantime, Birdneck Point representatives will study alternatives presented to update their system. Residents complained last week that the water was rusty, the pressure low and the fire hydrants inadequate.

Hanbury said that an improved system with fire hydrants and larger lines would cost $758,000 while a replacement of the existing system with the same design used in 1927 would cost $316,000 less or $442,000.

Hanbury said that he would not recommend a replacement of the existing system, but said that if the system were improved he would recommend property owner participation in the cost by paying the normal line fee. However, no charge would be made for tap or meter fees.

The alternatives are:

Replace the system with an improved system. Start a phasing process at no cost to the citizens, but the cost would be increased by inflation over a four-year period by $100,000.

Replace the existing system without any improvements at no charge to the citizens.

Wait for the new installation of the 36-inch line on Laskin Road that will improve pressure and thereby increase flushing capabilities to remove high iron deposits.

Catholic church plans to build

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

The Catholic church, which has been sharing the church pavilion of the Episcopal church at Sandbridge will build one of its own at the northeast intersection of Painters Lane and Sandbridge Road.

Virginia Beach city council recently approved a conditional use permit for the church on the 7.9 acre parcel at the request of the Catholic Diocese of Richmond through the Star of the Sea Catholic Church in the Virginia Beach Borough.

The first phase of the development will consist of an open pavilion to be used for religious services during the summer. The remainder of the site is to be used for church-related facilities to be constructed later.

Long range plans are to start a parish at Sandbridge, according to Attorney R.L. Simpson Jr., representing the church.

Sewage contract awarded

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Two contracts totaling $1,204,195.95 have been awarded for the construction of a sewage pumping station at 19th Street and roadwork/utilities construction on 19th Street, Parks Avenue and the Norfolk/Virginia Beach Toll Road.

Virginia Beach city council Monday afternoon awarded the pumping station contract to Crowder Contracting Company, for $132,700, low bidder of five and to Ashland-Warren, Inc. for the roadwork/utilities for $1,071,495.95, low bidder of three. The engineer's estimate for the two jobs was $1,104,722.

The vote was 9-1 with Councilwoman Meyera Oberdorf voting against the award. Councilman J. Henry McCoy was absent.

Services for handicapped

Ninth grade English students at Bayside Junior High School were informed of special services available for the visually handicapped in the Tidewater area.

Mrs. Wicher and Miss Midgett, representatives from Special Services at Bayside Public Library were on hand at the school to tell students about materials and equipment available for the blind. Miss Midgett, blind since birth, demonstrated the optacon, a portable machine which allows the blind to read print.

During a drama study, the students read "The Miracle Worker," the story of Helen Keller's struggle to overcome blindness. Interest in the blind was an outgrowth of this study.

Hermann wins award

Kathryn Hermann of Kempville, secretary of the Althene Toastmistress Club, placed first in the club's annual speech contest. The title of her speech was "Around the Bend."

Micki Tyndall of Portsmouth who is a member of the Virginia Beach club, placed second in the contest. Also participating were Sarah Saunders of College Park and Fran Magill, a member of the club from Norfolk.

Judges were: Diana Barnett, vice president of the Blue Ridge Region of Toastmistresses; Cmdr. "J" Dick Pensyl of the Navy Public Works Center's Operation Office; and Lola Wilson, vice president of Council 7 of Toastmistresses.

The contest is one of the highlights of the club year and winners will now compete with other council winners at a regional conference in Petersburg.

New trains arriving for Beach boardwalk

Virginia Beach will have two new boardwalk trains this summer.

City Council appropriated $50,000 for the trains which will replace the eight-year-old trains which city officials said have deteriorated beyond economical repair.

The money for the trains is provided for in the upcoming budget but the purchase was requested immediately to save the city $16,500 to repair the existing trains for operation during May and June.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the revenues are greater than the cost. The trains brought in over $30,000 last summer.

Cat fancier award

Sue Blankenship is the first American Cat Fancier Association Specialty Judge to qualify in the state of Virginia. She has completed a five-year apprenticeship that included clerking, completing two judging schools and qualifying under five teaching judges.

Mrs. Blankenship raises and shows her own Siamese and Cornish Rex cats.

Pyramid is a solid sounding trio

PYR-A-MID (pihr-uh-mid) n. A solid body having triangular sides meeting at a point. v.-To pile up.

A silver pyramid dangles above the bandstand at The Roaring Twenties as a constant reminder that you are listening to a group called PYRAMID.

They fit the definition. Solid. Triangular (basically a trio, plus guest artists). Meeting in a point (their point is to make good jazz, and the three men work as a unit). To pile up (they pile a good repertoire, fine musicianship, a swinging beat, tasteful restraint, and imagination to quite an apex.)

PYRAMID is a co-op unit consisting of John Chapman, electric piano, Ernest Smith, electric bass, and James Tanner, drums. You might have heard them at The Stage Deli on Laskin Road. Now they are at 35th Street and Gosnold, near ODU, Thursdays through Sundays, 9 to 1 except Sundays, when things are moved up 30 minutes.

Thursdays and Fridays they are supplemented by the outstanding sax playing of Jack Todd, recently discussed at some length in this column, and profiled in Metro Magazine by this writer. Saturdays and Sundays the guest is singer Debby Taylor, whom I had the pleasure of hearing before a mellow Sunday evening crowd. Oh yes, The Roaring Twenties even has jazz for luncheon, via a disc jockey on the premises.

The dangling pyramid was fashioned by drummer James Tanner, who makes his living in graphics. Recently parted from the Navy, Tanner will probably finish college at Norfolk State. He completed two years at Florida A & M, alma mater of Cannonball Adderley. Tanner is a Scorpio, originally from Cleveland.

Tanner's replacement as music librarian for the Cincant Fleet Orchestra is pianist John Chapman. The bearded Aquarian looks like flute-star Herbie Mann. John comes from upstate New York, and majored in Greek and Latin at Ithaca College. His favorite pianists include Bill Evans and Andre Watts.

Chapman and bassist Ernest Smith have the sound judgment to keep the volume on their amps low. Hampton Institute student Smith was described March 15th in this column: "He may well be the best in metro." Smith is an Aries.

The trio opened with an original, "Opening Night." Then came "Now's The Time," which sounds so much like "The Hucklebuck" that I'm amazed that no plagiarism suit was instituted. Fats Waller's "Jitterbug Waltz" was a refreshing surprise. "Broadway" and "Autumn Leaves" swung. Lee Morgan's rock-jazz classic, "The Sidewinder" moved the crowd. For a "break tune" they use the bop masterpiece, "Straight, No Chaser."

There are many pop-jazz singers locally, but Debby Taylor may well be the only unadulterated Jazz singer in the area. Her raw sound and her liberties with "time" qualify her for that distinction. Sometimes she lags so far behind that you think she'll never catch up, but a fusillade of words invariably brings her out right on the button, freeing herself from self-imposed entrapment.

Ms. Taylor was a school chum of Barbara Stant, starting out in gospel groups, but her junior high teacher, Reginald Walker, insisted she learn jazz. A Cancer, Debby was discovered at Bob's Lounge by a promotion man for Decca, and spent 1966-68 in New York as an "R" n' "B" shouter. She was managed by Gerry Purcell, husband of Monique Van Vooren, and manager of Eddie Arnold and other stars.

Her record, "Never Gonna Let Him Know," made the charts, and launched a nationwide tour, which included several regional TV shows. The magazine, "Record World," chose her as the Most Promising Singer of 1969.

As a result of disillusionment she returned home. Debby appeared on the same bills as Bill Deal at "The Peppermint" and Jr. Walker at the Virginia Beach Dome. She worked at "McGinnis Flint's" in 1971, and has worked with Joe Jones at the "Cascades" in Williamsburg. She also sang with Joe on Becky Livas' Show, and was on Calvin "Shakespeare" Perkins' TV show, "Gig."

The dictionary also describes a pyramid as a tomb. There is nothing dead about THIS pyramid!

Editor's Note:

Eric Stevens is active in the area as a bandleader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit record, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show, worked as a disc jockey and floorshow act, and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers.

If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Virginia Beach, Va. 23454

The quest for the perfect bagel has finally ended. BAGELWORKS, located at 608 First Colonial Road in the Hilltop-Glidden Center, not only offers the best bagels in Tidewater, it also provides bagel-buyers with a "Bagelworks Bulletin" full of hints, recipes, poetry, and bagel-lore to make sure the customers enjoy their bagels to the fullest.

Seven varieties of bagels (onion, sesame, plain, salted, poppy, pumpernickel, and cinnamon-raisin) are baked several times daily to insure freshness. Also available at BAGELWORKS are assorted bagel toppings from cream cheese to smoked fish.

BAGELWORKS, which has been in operation for two months, is open Monday through Saturday from 8 to 6:30, and on Sunday from 8 to 2.

Bill Hanwit, the Bagelworks Baker, invites everyone to come in and see how the bagels are made. And while you're touring, enjoy a free bagel with the coupon on page 3, section A.

Being a Compendium of Facts, Figures, and Information Relating to the City of Virginia Beach
Since its Establishment in 1963 to the Present

A Virginia Beach ALMANAC

Since Benjamin Franklin perfected the American almanac form, such compilations have become increasingly popular. The primary reason for this acceptance is that an individual is able to find in one publication all basic facts, figures, and information regarding one subject. Accordingly, in this fifteenth year of the existence of the City of Virginia Beach, a Virginia Beach ALMANAC is offered for your perusal. In this ALMANAC, attempts have been made to compile a complete set of basic facts and figures pertaining to Virginia Beach. This information begins in 1963—the year of the merger—and includes data as current as March 31, 1978, to be exact.

Merger information and a historical chronology are contained in the Introduction. Population figures and demographic facts follow. Concepts underlying the Council-Manager plan of government then are presented. Continuing is a section outlining the basic structure and responsibilities of each of the seventeen city departments.

Constitutional officers and their primary functions appear next. Courts and schools then receive attention. Voting and registration is focused upon, accompanied by maps of locations and districts.

Appropriately enough, a section on state and federal officials representing Virginia Beach is coupled with voting. Rounding out the ALMANAC is information regarding what you need to know if you're a new resident (or an old one who has forgotten) and a list of current and past city officials. Last, but not least, is everything you wanted to know about city finances.

INTRODUCTION: HISTORY AND CHRONOLOGY

Virginia Beach is celebrating its 15th birthday this year. It was in 1963 that the resort city of Virginia Beach merged with surrounding Princess Anne County to form the new 310 square mile City of Virginia Beach. But the story of Virginia Beach doesn't begin in 1963. Even though the city is a teenager in one respect, in other ways its history goes back as far as the settlement of North America by the British.

Virginia Beach is rich in history of the Colonial period, as evidenced in the prevailing architecture and in the names of streets and residential areas. Virginia Beach marks the site of the first landing of British colonists in 1607. The first settlers put ashore at Cape Henry before moving on to establish Jamestown. The Cape Henry Cross at Fort Story memorializes this event for future generations.

The Colonial period was a busy one for the area that is now Virginia Beach. Princess Anne County itself was established in 1691; the following year construction of a court house and jail were authorized, and by 1702, every constitutional office in the county had been filled.

Not all of Virginia Beach's Colonial period was calm. In 1697 a woman named Grace Sherwood was accused of being a witch and brought to trial. In 1706 she was tried and convicted. Virginia's only witch was sentenced to ducking, and the sentence was carried out in the area of the city now known, appropriately, as Witch Duck.

Princess Anne County forefathers played an active role in the Revolutionary War, and in 1781 Cape Henry was again the site of a historical event. A battle in the waters off Cape Henry resulted in the defeat of British troops, preventing them from aiding Cornwallis at Yorktown. This victory contributed to his defeat and the subsequent independence of the colonies.

In 1791 historic Cape Henry became the site of yet another important event—the erection of the first federally funded lighthouse, now a symbol of the City of Virginia Beach, and the focal point of the city seal.

The nineteenth century brought many events that enriched the city's heritage. The War of 1812, for example, is responsible for the name of one area of the city. During this war, the county militia repulsed an invasion of British amphibious forces, and the cry of "Sea Attack," shortened to "Seatack," took its place in the city's history.

In 1824 the county seat was moved from Kempeville to Princess Anne because of its location at the geographic center of the county. Princess Anne is now the seat of the city government.

Residents of Princess Anne County were again drawn into war. In 1860 the county mustered six or eight companies of local militia to serve in the Twentieth Virginia Regiment of the Confederacy, as well as one cavalry unit. In 1861 a battle was fought between the Confederate battery on Lynnhaven Bay and the U.S. Daylight. In 1863 the Confederate salt works at Back Bay was destroyed.

Toward the end of the nineteenth century, Virginia Beach was beginning to develop as a seaside resort. In 1890 the first boardwalk was constructed of wood. By 1902 a road had been built to Virginia Beach via Cape Henry, and the first electric street cars were running in the resort area.

In 1906, Virginia Beach was incorporated as a town. Its land area totalled 1,600 acres and it had a population of 642. B.F. Holland was elected as the town's first mayor.

What was to be the eventual merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County had its beginnings in 1923, with the first annexation of a section of the county by the town. Virginia Beach was booming in the twenties. In 1924, the town entered a water agreement with the City of Norfolk, and in 1926 the wooden boardwalk was replaced with concrete.

Rapid growth and numerous changes had characterized the history of Virginia Beach since World War II. The town became a second class city (one of the categories of cities as defined by Virginia's Constitution) in 1952. The first Boardwalk Art Show was held in 1955, and in 1958 the Virginia Beach Civic Center (the Dome) opened on Pacific Avenue.

The sixties brought more change and more people. The consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County completely changed the perspective of local government and, truthfully, resulted in some degree of resentment on the part of citizens in both city and county who felt unwilling to accommodate the needs of their neighbors. As the years passed, however, and the new city has shown its ability to provide new and better services to its residents, vestiges of the city-county factions have been minimized.

Two events in the 1960's greatly increased the flow of visitors to Virginia Beach—completion of the Chimepeake Bay Bridge Tunnel and the opening of the Virginia Beach Expressway.

Today Virginia Beach can no longer be categorized as a resort town. With a population of more than 250,000 and a land area of 310 square miles, it is truly a city. In fact, Virginia Beach is the second largest city in Virginia and the fourth fastest growing city in the U.S., among cities with population greater than 100,000.

Physically Virginia Beach is characterized by 51 square miles of inland waters. It contains two major interior waterways—the Lynnhaven River-Broad Bay area in the northern area of the city, and the Back Bay-North Landing River area to the south. Seashore State Park is a 2,710-acre preserve within the city limits, and included in the city area are four active military stations—Little Creek Amphibious Base, Fort Story, Dam Neck Naval Base, and Oceana Naval Air Station. And despite its growing population, one half of the land area of Virginia Beach remains farm land and woods.

Virginia Beach is a young city, not only in years, but in character. With a median age of 24.3, the population is youthful, with youthful demands for services from its city, not only in formal city programs but in amenities—recreation and leisure activities, environmental concerns, cultural programs. In short, Virginia Beach residents of all ages demand a rich lifestyle, not necessarily in financial or material wealth, but in the quality of life.

Recent statistics prove they get it. A study by the University of Nebraska on the quality of life ranks Virginia Beach tenth among the most attractive cities in the U.S., based on economic factors, demographics and environmental quality, crime factors, recreation, and education.

Residents already know that Virginia Beach is a good place to live. The City's population is increasing by about 1,000 new residents per month. More and more people are finding good reasons to move here. And more than two million come every year just to visit.

It's no accident, you know. Virginia Beach didn't get to be the kind of city it is by luck. It has taken a lot of planning and even some dreaming, plus commitment and hard work by people who want to see Virginia Beach become even better than it is—people who volunteer their time and talents, people in public service, people who have made the City of Virginia Beach their life's work. We think it has paid off, and we hope you agree. Here is some information about your city to help you decide.

POPULATION & DEMOGRAPHICS

Population figures are vitally important to a city. Not in numbers alone—but in the fact that a city's population determines, to a large extent, the amount of funds it receives from certain state and federal assistance programs. In particular, population is a major part of the formula determining how much Virginia Beach receives from programs such as Revenue Sharing, Community Development, School Impact Aid, Anti-Recession Assistance, sales tax refunds, general school aid, cigarette tax refunds, Alcoholic Beverage refunds, and library program support.

The charts below and following present various population, income, and building permit statistics relative to Virginia Beach.

Council-Manager Form of Government

CITY COUNCIL

The government of the City of Virginia Beach is the council-manager plan, which combines legislative and administrative functions in the most efficient manner. Elected and appointed officials work together to meet the needs of the city and its residents.

Virginia Beach is in good company. As of January 1977, more than 2,500 governmental units operate under the council-manager plan, accounting for a total population of approximately 50 million. Throughout the United States, the council-manager plan is the most popular form of local government among cities with populations between 25,000 and 250,000.

The City Council is the legislative or governing branch of the government. Its eleven members serve four year terms and are selected on a staggered basis in general elections held every two years, in even-numbered years. Elections are held on the first Tuesday in May. The entire voting population selects all city council members; however, four members serve at-large, while seven must live in the respective boroughs of the city they represent—Bayside, Blackwater, Kempsville, Lynnhaven, Princess Anne, Pungo, and Virginia Beach.

The mayor is elected by the City Council at the first meeting following a City Council election. His responsibilities include presiding over city council meetings and serving as the ceremonial head of the city. In addition, he assumes other duties that may be outlined by council at its discretion. The mayor has the same duties and rights of other council members, including one vote on matters of council business. He has no veto power. A vice-mayor is elected by city council to carry out the duties of the mayor in his absence.

Council members receive $4,800 per year as compensation for service, with the exception of the mayor who receives $8,000 annually. In addition, each member of Council receives a monthly travel stipend of $40.

POWERS OF CITY COUNCIL

City Council is charged with the following authority as outlined by the City Charter:

- To carry out the powers of the city, including advertising the city's resources, increasing taxes to cover costs of additional services, levying special taxes for repayment of indebtedness, and imposing special fees for special services

- To organize city departments and agencies
- To create, revise, or abolish city department; and agencies
- To provide for the number, title, qualifications, powers, duties, and compensation of all officers and employees of the city
- To provide for the form of oaths and the amount and condition of surety bonds required of certain officers and employees of the city
- To provide that an advisory referendum on any proposed ordinance be submitted to qualified voters for their reaction

City Council meets in formal session on the first, second, third and fourth Mondays of each month. Meetings are held in the Council Chambers on the second floor of the Municipal Center at 2:00 P.M. Informal sessions are held at 1:00 P.M., prior to formal session, in the Mayor's Conference Room on the second floor of the Administration Building. All City Council meetings—formal and informal—are open to the public.

The agenda of business for discussion at City Council meetings is compiled by the City Manager. Citizens who wish to address council on matters not included in the regular agenda must present their request in writing to the City Clerk, 3rd floor, Administration Building, prior to 5:00 P.M. on the Wednesday before the Monday meeting at which they wish to appear.

Copies of the agenda may be picked up in the City Clerk's Office after noon on Fridays. Persons wishing to be placed on the mailing list to receive agenda copies regularly should call the Office of the City Clerk at 427-4304.

CITY MANAGER

The City Manager heads the administrative area of Virginia Beach city government. As the name implies, he is the executive responsible for managing the business of the city. The City Manager is an employee appointed by City Council and serves at its discretion. In Virginia Beach, the City Manager coordinates the functions of a complex group of seventeen municipal agencies that are responsible for the delivery of services to the residents of the city.

One of the major responsibilities of the City Manager is the preparation of the city's operating budget. By State Law, this budget must be balanced.

Heads of all city departments report directly to the City Manager. He is responsible for appointing and discharging all city employees and officers, though he may delegate that responsibility to his subordinate department heads.

City Council may charge the City Manager with other responsibilities at their discretion.

CITY COUNCIL APPOINTEES

In addition to the City Manager, City Council appoints four other city officials who are directly accountable to the Council.

The City Clerk is the record keeper for City Council. He records the business of council meetings, maintains records of all city council business, and prepares the business agenda from material presented by the City Manager. He also arranges for citizens to appear before City Council on matters not related to the regular agenda. The Clerk acts as custodian of the corporate seal of the city and carries out other duties conferred upon him by City Council.

The City Attorney is the chief legal advisor to City Council, the City Manager, and all city departments and agencies. It is his responsibility to advise Council concerning the legality of action by the city and to represent the city in all matters affecting its interests.

The Real Estate Assessor is responsible for establishing the value of real estate in the City of Virginia Beach. Assessments are based on fair market value determined by prices for which comparable property has been sold and the price the property would bring in the open market if sold under no pressure.

The High Constable is the ministerial officer for the city. He serves processes for the General District Court and holds judicial sales of property confiscated by the city.

City Agencies:

Introduction

Seventeen city agencies compose the basic structure of the Virginia Beach municipal corporation. Their duties and responsibilities are authorized in the Code of Virginia Beach and/or in the Code of Virginia. These agencies can be grouped into three broad categories:

ADMINISTRATIVE

DEPARTMENTS provide services to other city departments. Personnel assists in all employee matters. General Services maintains the interiors/exterior of city buildings. Finance pays the city's bills. Planning advises agencies concerning the development of the city. Economic Development secures industry and tourists. Data Processing provides computer service.

OPERATING DEPARTMENTS

provide direct services to city residents. Fire offers protection against fire damage. Police is concerned with maintaining the public order. Social Services aids families and individuals with their human problems. Public Libraries present books and reading materials to the community. Public Utilities administer the city's water and sewer needs. Public Works builds roads, collects and disposes of refuse. Parks and Recreation supervises and coordinates recreational activities for residents. Permits and Inspections coordinates the permits issued by and inspections required by the city.

STATE-RELATED DEPARTMENTS

are funded both by the city and the Commonwealth of Virginia. Public Health monitors all factors affecting the public's health. Agriculture advises and consults with residents concerning their farming needs. Mental Health works to assist residents with their emotional concerns.

AGENCY HISTORIES/STRUCTURES AGRICULTURE (427-4611)

The Department of Agriculture, known as the Farm and Home Demonstration Office until 1975, is supported jointly by the City of Virginia Beach and The Virginia Polytechnical Institute and State University (Blacksburg, Virginia). Since farming is a major industry in Virginia Beach, with 92,000 acres of farmland in the city, one major function of the Agriculture Department is to help farmers improve their methods in order to receive maximum crop and livestock yields.

That's only part of the picture. Not everybody in Virginia Beach is a farmer, but the Agriculture Department has something for almost everybody. The Department offers practical advice for the most naive first-time gardener, teaches homemakers up-to-date techniques for canning and freezing foods, and identifies for you what those funny black bugs on your pine trees are.

The VPI and SU Extension Division, within the Department, provides assistance in the areas of agriculture, livestock, horticulture, home economics, youth development (4H Clubs), and community resource development.

Environmental Services, staffed by the City Arborist and a Soil Scientist, reviews site plans for compliance with the City's Erosion, Sedimentation and Tree Protection Ordinance. The City Arborist can help residents with tree problems. He is able to identify and recommend treatment for numerous blights, diseases, and insect infestations that threaten local trees.

The Soil Scientist can be consulted to determine whether your soil is adequate to support plant growth, and he can advise you on how to improve the quality of the soil — a necessity if you're planning a vegetable garden or, if you're just wondering why your neighbor's grass is so green and yours is so brown.

The Department of Agriculture operates the Virginia Beach Farmer's Market located on Landstown Road near the intersection of Princess Anne Road. Prior to 1976, the Market was located on Diamond Springs Road near Northampton Boulevard.

The new Farmer's Market features covered stalls for local vendors who rent the space, a restaurant, and plenty of parking space. Open on a year-round basis, the Market allows residents and visitors to purchase fresh produce, meats, bake items, and horticultural crops. Prices are competitive with local markets, and large quantities can be purchased wholesale in a special section of the Market.

Whenever possible and when in season, local products are sold. You can find almost anything edible at the Farmer's Market from fresh-baked bread to vegetables right out of the garden.

DATA PROCESSING (427-4121)

The Department of Data Processing became a separate department in 1977. From 1963 to 1971 it was a division of the Department of Finance, while from 1972 to 1977 it was the Management Services Division of the Executive Department. The Director of Data Processing heads the department, which is divided into four major sections.

The main function of the department is to process and store the wealth of information which accumulates in the day-to-day business of the city. Data Processing serves not only all city departments but the school system as well. The department serves as a central clearing point for all Criminal Justice agencies in the city, including fire, police, Commonwealth's Attorney, courts, probation and parole, and the jail. Data Processing prepares all grade attendance records and student scheduling for the school system.

The Office of the Director performs administrative services in support of the other three divisions, as well as providing in-house technical expertise to other city agencies and city-wide coordination of all word processing equipment. The Director also serves as a consultant to the City Manager in all data processing and information system areas.

The Central Files division is responsible for collecting, filing and storing all city filing systems, and coordinates all city-wide microfilm systems.

Computer Operations is responsible for operating the city's computer system which runs 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. All billing to citizens for city services is processed by this division.

Systems and Programming is responsible for designing and implementing all data processing systems for various city departments and the School Board.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT (427-4541)

The Department of Economic Development was established in 1970 to promote the City of Virginia Beach and encourage its economic growth. It is divided into three divisions: Industrial Development, Convention Promotion, and Tourist Development.

The Industrial Development Division works with the Virginia Beach Development Authority to attract business and industry to Virginia Beach and to develop industrial sites for these companies in the City's industrial parks, or on privately-owned property if advisable. Three such "parks" have been created:

Lynnhaven Industrial Park is the City's oldest industrial site and is at full capacity.

Airport Industrial Park is a 202-acre site adjacent to the regional airport and is approaching maximum capacity.

Oceana West Industrial Park, on London Bridge Road, is a 1,000-acre site zoned for light and heavy industry, offices, and commercial use. It is the City's newest industrial park.

Careful attention is given by the Department and the Authority as to the type of industry to be encouraged to locate here. Of prime interest are non-polluting support industries, such as warehousing, light manufacturing, and packaging.

Convention Promotion. With its location on the Atlantic Ocean and its convenient access to Williamsburg, Jamestown, and other historical areas, Virginia Beach is an ideal site for conventions. Building on these advantages, the Convention Promotion Division is responsible for securing and scheduling conventions in city facilities. Currently, conventions are held in the Virginia Beach Civic Center, known as the Dome (because of its architectural design) on Pacific Avenue. However, the Convention Promotion Division is now booking conventions for the new Arts and Conference Center.

This 176,000-square foot facility, located off the Virginia Beach/Norfolk Expressway near the oceanfront, will accommodate up to 10,000 delegates at one time. Meals for up to 5,000 can be served. Such capacity will allow the city to attract major national convention groups.

Tourist Development. Tourism is a major industry in Virginia Beach, with more than two million visitors expected this year. Last year out-of-town guests spent $92.8 million in the city and accounted for more than $10 million paid directly to the city in the form of taxes, fines, and tourist-related business fees and taxes.

Initiation and supervising of advertising, promoting tourism, and attracting visitors to Virginia Beach is another major responsibility of Tourist Development. For every dollar the city spends on tourists, the tourists give back almost $10 — a pretty good return on the investment of tax dollars spent for tourist development. Estimates indicate that without tourists, Virginia Beach residents would have to pay 20-25% more in taxes.

In addition to these services, the Department of Economic Development maintains business and economic statistics and information on Virginia Beach.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES (427-5000)

In 1975, the Office of Emergency Medical Services was established to coordinate the training activities of the city's Volunteer Rescue Squads. These volunteers devote their time and talents to answering all calls for emergency medical assistance. Their history goes back to 1947, when the first ambulance was purchased by the Ocean Park Volunteer Fire Station.

The first official Rescue Squad was formed in the Virginia Beach Borough in 1952. In 1971, a city-wide Rescue Squad Council was formed, and in 1974, the Council was incorporated.

Virginia Beach Rescue Squad personnel are trained in many life-saving techniques, including CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation). The first city-wide training program was conducted in 1967.

To call the Rescue Squad for emergency medical assistance, call 427-5000.

EMERGENCY SERVICES (427-4192)

The primary responsibility of the Office of Emergency Services is to formulate contingency plans for use in the event of disaster situations, natural or man-made. These plans include evacuation and sheltering of citizens, broadcast of information, and other emergency services. Since Virginia Beach is located in a geographic area frequently affected by hurricanes, such planning is essential. The Emergency Services Office would also be responsible for coordinating operations during a disaster.

In addition to providing services during disaster situations, the Emergency Services Office offers day-to-day public assistance by educating the public concerning precautions and actions to take prior to, during, and after disaster occurs. The Office distributes information and literature and will give presentations to civic organizations and other organizations upon request. Information about what to do if disaster strikes can be obtained by calling the Emergency Services Office at 427-4192.

Department of Finance was established when the City of Virginia Beach was created in 1963. The Director of Finance acts as head of the department and also serves as an Assistant to the City Manager. The Finance Department has eight divisions: Administration, Accounting, Budget, Business License, Payroll, Purchasing, Research, and Insurance.

Finance Department does all the bookkeeping for the city and administers the city budget, including daily monitoring of revenue accounts and expenditures.

In addition, the department prepares the payroll for Virginia Beach city employees and coordinates all city purchases. Insurance of city employees and vehicles is also the responsibility of the Department of Finance.

BUDGET INFORMATION

The entire financial structure of the City of Virginia Beach is based on the operating budget, prepared annually by the Budget Committee. Headed by the City Manager, it also includes the Director of Finance, the Personnel Director and the Budget Coordinator. The Committee reviews all departmental requests for programs and personnel, makes changes or cuts totaling millions of dollars.

State law requires a balanced budget. That is, the total spent by the city must equal the total received by the city. Four sources serve as the basis of city revenues: taxes, fees, state funds for roads, schools, etc., and federal funds from various programs. (Though federal funds are included in the budget, it is city policy that no Revenue Sharing funds are used in the operating budget.) Estimating how much the city will receive from each source naturally complicates the budget preparation.

State law prohibits deficit spending. If the amount taken in by the city cannot meet the needs of various departments serving the public, then consideration must be given to either raising taxes or reducing services — neither of which is a pleasant alternative.

Once all necessary changes are made, the City Manager must present the proposed operating budget to City Council at least 90 days prior to the beginning of the upcoming fiscal year (July 1). This 90-day period gives City Council the opportunity to review the proposal thoroughly and to provide the public a chance to respond to the budget. Several public hearings and meetings are scheduled to allow for citizen input.

As a citizen of Virginia Beach, you have a right and a responsibility to know exactly where your tax dollars are going. The city government encourages you to attend the budget public hearing and to examine the budget for yourself. While the cost of printing the budget does not allow every citizen a personal copy, each branch library holds a copy for public use. In addition, budget digests are available through the Public Information Office. To obtain your copy, call the Public Information Hotline at 427-4111.

C.I.P.

Another important part of the financial picture of Virginia Beach is the Capital Improvements Program, prepared every year since 1971. The purpose of the C.I.P. is to present the proposed planned physical expansion of the city. The C.I.P. presents for a five-year period what the city's needs will be in the areas of schools and municipal buildings, roads, utility systems, and parks. The C.I.P. is a blueprint for the city's physical growth and shares importance with the operating budget as a reflection of the city's needs.

C.I.P. projects are not included in the operating budget. Instead, the city finances these projects with funds from five sources: general obligation bonds, general appropriations, grants, revenue sharing funds, and double barrel bonds. Revenue sharing funds returned to Virginia Beach by the federal government have been a major source of funding for C.I.P. projects.

Although each C.I.P. is a five-year plan, City Council does not approve spending for all five years. Instead, project funds are approved for the first year only at the time city council votes to authorize the sale of bonds for specific projects. Prior to such authorization, public hearings and meetings are held to allow citizens to comment.

The C.I.P. is necessary to insure logical and fiscally sound expansion programs by the City and to insure no one category receiving a disproportionate amount of funds. It is a plan for physical growth, for meeting the needs of the citizens well within the financial ability of the City.

BONDS

Borrowing money is a fact of life for a city the size of Virginia Beach that needs to expand to meet the growing needs of a growing population. Since the city cannot borrow money to balance the operating budget, it borrows to support capital improvements, such as roads, utilities, and schools. The City of Virginia Beach borrows money by selling bonds of three types:

GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS:

When the city sells g.o. bonds, as they are commonly called, it tells investors that the city taxpayers will pay the money back. Nine cents of every tax dollar is set aside each year to pay back or "retire" general obligation bonds.

REVENUE BONDS: Taxpayers are not responsible for paying back money borrowed through the sale of revenue bonds. Instead, the bonds will be retired with revenues generated by the projects being funded by the revenues bonds.

DOUBLE BARREL BONDS: These are a combination of g.o. and revenue bonds, because they promise the investor that if the revenues from bond-financed projects are not sufficient to pay back the debt, then taxpayers will do so. This "full faith and credit" backing by the taxpayers lessens the investor's risk of not being paid back and thus lowers the interest rate the city must pay on the borrowed money.

A city's bond rating, or its reputation for paying back money borrowed through the sale of bonds, is a reflection of its financial stability. The higher the rating, the more stable the financial picture. Virginia Beach citizens can be proud to know that our city has an A+ bond rating, higher than many major cities in the United States.

FIRE (427-5000)

The Fire Department became a separate city agency in 1975. Between 1972 and 1975, it was a division of the Department of Public Safety. The first Fire Chief was appointed in 1972.

Prior to 1972, there was no central office to coordinate fire prevention and control. Instead there was a Fire Council made-up of the chiefs of the various volunteer fire units throughout the city. Today's Fire Department is comprised of two divisions: Fire Prevention and Fire Suppression.

Fire Prevention is responsible for educating the public on causes of and ways to prevent fire. Its goal is to reduce the frequency of fire incidents and to reduce the number of fire fatalities and injuries. The division provides lectures, demonstrations, and literature on fire prevention to the community upon request. To obtain information on programs available to the public, call 427-4435.

In addition to general programs, the Fire Prevention Division conducts an on-going program in the Virginia Beach Public School System. This program exposes all fifth grade students to six hours of instruction in fire safety and fire prevention.

The Fire Prevention Office also performs fire inspections, plan reviews, and investigations of complaints in order to determine and eliminate possible fire hazards.

Fire Suppression is composed of the actual firefighters located at the fifteen fire stations throughout the city (see map). Control and eradication of fire is the major objective of the Fire Department. To provide maximum fire security the fire suppression unit is composed of both paid and volunteer firefighters.

Volunteer firefighters have a proud history in Virginia Beach, having provided the only firefighting capabilities for the majority of the city for many years. Volunteers are still an essential part of the firefighting system. Without them, the cost of maintaining the current level of fire suppression services would increase dramatically.

FIRE TRAINING CENTER

Construction is currently underway on a new Fire Training Center, located on Birdneck Road. The Center will be used to train Virginia Beach fire personnel, paid and volunteer, in the areas of firefighting, inspection, maintenance, and supervisory responsibility. The Fire Center will also offer state and national fire education programs, including instruction programs for fire departments from other areas. In addition, the Center will offer driving schools for all city departments.

GENERAL SERVICES

The Department of General Services was formed in 1967. Before that, its duties were performed by the Division of Public Buildings and Grounds in the Department of Public Works. There are five divisions in the General Services Department: Landscape Services, Automotive Services, Safety Office, Building Maintenance, and Printing and Distribution.

General Services is an administrative office which provides support functions for other city offices. The Department is responsible for taking care of the buildings and grounds which belong to the city, including planting and landscaping. General Services maintains all city vehicles, coordinates mail distribution, and runs a print shop for printing city forms and documents.

HEALTH (427-4291)

The Virginia Beach Health Department was one of the city's original departments. Its seven divisions offer a variety of services to improve the health of the general public and to maintain community standards of environmental quality.

Environmental Health focuses on the environment. Included under this division are: — permits for individual septic tanks, testing water for drinking quality, regulation of swimming pools (other than hotel/motel), regulation and permits for food service establishments, and testing of microwave ovens for radiation safety. Environmental Health telephone number: 427-4261. Hours — 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Dental Clinic services are available to those residents of Virginia Beach who cannot afford private dental care, as well as to Medicaid clients. A preliminary interview appointment is necessary to determine financial eligibility. Fees are based on ability to pay.

The Dental Clinic is located at the Health Department's main office, Princess Anne Municipal Center, Phone 427-4209. Hours — 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Pediatrics Clinics are available to the medically indigent to provide routine checkups and childhood immunizations. An appointment is required and a fee charged based on ability to pay. Pediatrics clinics are held at three locations: Princess Anne Municipal Center, phone 427-4261, 19th Street and Arctic Avenue, phone 428-5402, 930 Independence Boulevard, phone 460-0911. Office hours: 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Chest X-Rays are available on request at the Health Department's office at 930 Independence Boulevard. An appointment is required and a fee is charged. Office hours are 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday. Phone 460-0914.

Family Planning is available for all types of family planning. An appointment is required and a fee is charged. Clinics are available at three locations: Municipal Center, phone 427-4261, 19th Street and Arctic Avenue, phone 428-0050, 930 Independence Boulevard, phone 460-0911. Hours: 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

A free clinic for diagnosis and treatment of venereal disease is held every Tuesday from 8:30 A.M. until 10:00 A.M. at the Health Department office at 19th and Arctic Avenue. All information is kept confidential and treatment is provided at no charge.

Maternity clinics are available to provide the prenatal care so necessary to the proper development of the unborn child. Clinics are held weekly at all three health department locations. A fee is charged based on ability to pay, and an appointment is required. Office hours: 8:15 A.M. — 5:00 P.M. — Monday through Friday. Municipal Center, phone 427-4261, 19th Street and Arctic Avenue, phone 428-5402, 930 Independence Boulevard, phone 460-0911.

Immunization clinics offer routine immunization of children for the common childhood diseases at no charge. A fee is charged for non-routine or overseas immunizations. No appointment is necessary. Clinics are held at the following locations on the following days: Municipal Center, Wednesdays, 8:30 — 10:00 A.M., phone 427-4261, 19th Street and Arctic Avenue, Tuesdays, 8:30 — 11:00 A.M., phone 428-5402, 930 Independence Blvd., Fridays, 8:30 — 10:00 A.M., phone 460-0911.

Home Health Services, or nursing care, can be provided in the home of the patient under the direction and supervision of a private physician. A fee is charged based on ability to pay. For further information call the Health Department at 427-4285.

MENTAL HEALTH

(499-3737)

The Department of Mental Health has been a city department since 1973. Before that, mental health services in Virginia Beach were provided by the State of Virginia through the Atlantic Mental Health Center. The Department of Mental Health is grouped into three areas: Comprehensive Mental Health Services; Mental Retardation, Developmental Disability Programs, and Comprehensive Substance Abuse.

Each of these divisions focuses on a particular area of mental health services. A number of specialized clinics are held for those with particular needs, as well as individual counseling. In addition to working with individuals who are mentally handicapped or disabled, the Mental Health Department also works with the families of affected persons. Outreach workers also go out into the community for advocacy, education, and many other programs.

The Substance Abuse Program, uniquely named, provides services to those who have problems related to alcohol and drug abuse. It offers educational programs aimed at preventing substance abuse.

The Department also maintains a Crisis program of telephone counseling for those whose problems are urgent. The Crisis number is 425-1403.

PARKS AND RECREATION

(467-4834)

Established in 1963, the Department of Parks and Recreation and Physical Education became the Department of Parks and Recreation in 1974. The three major divisions are Recreation, Parks and Maintenance, and Golf Course.

The City maintains 110 parks and school playground areas. Among the largest are Mount Trashmore, Princess Anne, Little Island, Red Wing, and Bayville Farms Park.

Mount Trashmore is unique among city parks. It is a reclaimed landfill area begun in 1966 to utilize wasted land in the growing city. Its 160-acre site includes an Information Center, two fishing lakes, a bait and tackle shop, skateboard park, soap box derby ramp, tennis courts, playground areas, and picnic shelters. Phone 497-2157.

Bayville Farms Park is the city's newest park with a specific area designed for use by the handicapped. Facilities include a lake, an arboretum, and six tennis courts.

Princess Anne Park provides an athletic field complex used by the Parks and Recreation athletic program for football, softball, and soccer. Other facilities include tennis courts, a horse practice and show ring, and picnic shelters and grills. Phone 427-6020.

Little Island Park is a 144-acre oceanfront site at Sandbridge which includes a lifeguard operation during the summer months, picnic shelters, tennis courts, restrooms, and play area. A 75¢ parking fee is charged and the park has 650 parking spaces.

Red Wing Park is a 160-acre park that is popular with both tourists and residents because of its proximity to the oceanfront. Its facilities include gardens, tennis courts, softball fields, and play area. Playing equipment checkout and restrooms are also available during the summer months. Phone 425-9712.

Other recreational areas: Oceana Mini-bike Trail, located on London Bridge Road, is a 100-acre park for use of mini-bikes no larger than 90cc. Summer hours are 10:00 A.M. — 6:00 P.M. daily, winter hours are 10:00 A.M. — 6:00 P.M., Saturdays and Sundays only during the school year.

Owls Creek Municipal Boat Ramp, located on General Booth Boulevard, features two ramps to accommodate any boat which can be transported on a trailer.

Parks and Recreation operates two golf courses and a tennis center for which fees are charged for usage. Fee vary according to the season and time of use, with special rates available for junior (under 18) and senior (60 and over) citizens.

Red Wing Municipal Golf Course, 1080 Prosperity Road; 8,500 square feet of greens, 84 sand traps, clubhouse, pro shop, and restaurant. Phone 426-6300.

Bow Creek Municipal Golf Course, 3425 Club House Road. Phone 486-6960.

Owls Creek Municipal Tennis Center, 982 S. Birdneck Road: Twelve lighted courts, certified pro available for lessons, pro shop, picnic shelters, and play areas for children. Courts must be reserved in advance. Phone 422-4716.

The Virginia Beach Bikeway features twenty miles of paved and natural-surfaced bike trails that run continuously from Great Neck Road east to Laskin Road, then north to London Bridge Road. A section of the bike trail runs through Seashore State Park along nature trails. No motorized vehicles of any kind are allowed on the bike trail.

City beaches: The Department of Parks and Recreation maintains a number of beaches throughout the city. All municipal beaches are open from Memorial Day until Labor Day between the hours of 10:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M. Lifeguards are on duty during regular hours.

Fort Story: Open Friday, Saturday, and Sunday only; also open on legal holidays which fall on Monday. Parking for 250 cars.

Croatan: Open Daily. Camp Pendleton: Open daily, but subject to military scheduling. 5th Street Surfing Area: Surfing only, open daily. Sandbridge Park: Open daily, picnic tables available. Little Island Park: Open daily, parking available at 75¢ per car per day, concessions, restrooms, picnic shelters, play areas for children, two tennis courts.

PICNIC SHELTERS FOR LARGE GROUPS CAN BE RESERVED AT ALL LARGE CITY PARKS. TO RESERVE A SHELTER, CALL 487-2027.

The Department of Parks and Recreation offers a variety of programs for persons of all ages. Activities in crafts, athletics, cooking, dance, and many other areas are available. The department operates a city-wide program in the Performing Arts, with theatre groups composed of all ages in virtually every area of theatrical art and technical support. For further information call 467-4884.

Parks and Recreation operates five centers for senior citizens. The centers are open from 10:00 A.M. until 2:00 P.M. Transportation is provided on a limited basis in cooperation with SEVAMP. Phone 476-4316.

PERMITS AND INSPECTIONS (427-4211)

This new department, created in 1976, was once a division of the Department of Public Works and Community Services. It is divided into four divisions: Building Codes, Consumer Protection, Housing Codes, and Zoning.

Essentially the Permits and Inspections Department protects your rights as a consumer and maintains the quality and standards of city neighborhoods.

The Office of Building Codes issues permits for every new structure. This division also oversees inspection of all plumbing, construction, and electrical work in order to protect the consumer from sub-standard installations and workmanship.

Housing Codes is the newest section of the department. It is charged with encouraging homeowners to maintain their home in keeping with community standards. Inspectors periodically review neighborhoods to note those houses needing improvement. Owners are notified in writing and are given thirty days to make improvements.

Buildings not maintained in keeping with Housing Code regulations are eventually condemned. Not only dwellings come under the scrutiny of the Housing Codes Office — junky vacant lots which detract from the beauty of a neighborhood also come under its jurisdiction.

Consumer Protection receives more inquiries from citizens than any other office in the department. Its purpose is to protect the rights of the consumer and assure him fair treatment in the marketplace. Staff members go out into the business community to open and weigh packages, check scales, examine taximeters, and check newspaper ads for accuracy — generally serving as watchdogs on behalf of the public.

The Zoning Office is responsible for enforcing the zoning laws of the City of Virginia Beach. This function is in order to prevent any activity which might detract from the character of your community or interfere with the quality of your life. Such violations as junked cars, improper business operation, improper signs, and noisy animals in residential areas come under the zoning office. If you have a question regarding what is allowable in a particular zoning category, or if you have a complaint about a possible violation, this office should receive your call.

PERSONNEL (427-4156)

The Personnel Department was an agency established with the original organization of the City of Virginia Beach in 1963. It is headed by the Director of Personnel and has three divisions.

Testing and Selection accepts applications for city employment, processes them, and tests applicants for those positions requiring testing. This division supervises the city's actions in fulfilling Equal Employment Opportunity regulations and administers the training program funded under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

Employee Relations administers fringe benefit programs for employees, coordinates an annual service awards program, and administers a Basic Education program for employees. This division also establishes policies and procedures and monitors employee grievances.

Wage and Salary is responsible for developing the compensation plan for employees and determining appropriate pay based on qualifications. This division offers technical assistance to other operating departments budgeting for paid positions. All personnel files are maintained by this division which processes them to separate departments for pay review. In addition, the wage and salary division works with the Data Processing department to prevent overhiring in a particular job category.

The City utilizes a Merit System for employees, to encourage competence and professionalism. Under the system, individual achievement governs the selection and progress of each employee of the City. Promotions are based on a plan of open competition, which may include written tests as well as job performance.

The Planning Department, another of the original offices established when the city was created in 1963, is headed by the Director of Planning and organized into three divisions: comprehensive planning, operations, and information support. The basic role of the Planning Department is to analyze current data regarding recreation, highways, water and sewer, schools, open space, environmental protection, and land use, and to determine what future needs will be in those areas. Each division in the department performs a specific role in evaluating and planning to meet future needs.

Comprehensive Planning is responsible for determining the goals of the community and developing plans to meet those goals through comprehensive land use, transportation, and community facilities. Comprehensive Planning also prepares special studies whenever necessary or advisable. For example, this division originated environmental protection measures such as the Historical District, the Sign Ordinance, and the Tree Protection Ordinance.

Operations reviews subdivision plats and site plans, applications for zoning changes, conditional use permits, and wetland permits, and assigns street addresses for all property in the city. The Planning Commission agenda is prepared by this division. Recommendations on zoning changes and conditional use permits are prepared by and forwarded to the Planning Commission by the Operations Division. The Division is guided in these comments by the provisions of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinances.

The Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, adopted in 1973, provides guidelines for future development of the City of Virginia Beach. As the ordinance states, the plan "encourages the most desirable use of the land for residential, recreational, agricultural, commercial, industrial, conservation, public service, drainage, and other purposes . . . encourages the most appropriate use and occupancy of buildings, and promotes good civic design and arrangement."

Although the ordinance itself is 154 pages in length and provides regulations covering all aspects of land use, the CZO essentially establishes eight official districts for land use,

Any development in the city must fall into one of these categories.

P-4: Preservation District: AG-1: Agricultural District R-1 through R-9: Residential Districts (the number reflects the number of residential units allowed per parcel of land). A-1 through A-4: Apartment Districts. H-1: Hotel District. H-2: Resort Hotel District. O-1: Office District. Business Districts: B-1 (Business Residential); B-2 (Community Business); B-3 (Central Business); B-4 (Resort Commercial). I-1: Light Industrial. I-2: Heavy Industrial.

Property owners may request special use of their property. Two of the most common requests are for a conditional use permit and for a change of zoning.

CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT

In each zoning category, there are two kinds of uses for property: principal and conditional. No further authorization is required for the property owner to use the property within the bounds of the principal use. However, in order to use the property for one of the conditional purposes, the property owner must first obtain a conditional use permit. The reason for this procedure is that while some uses are allowable under a certain zoning category, they might not be suitable for a given situation.

The procedure for obtaining a conditional use permit is as follows:

1. The property owner must file an application with the Planning Department including pertinent information about the property and proposed use of it. A $75 filing fee must accompany the application.

2. The Planning Director reviews the application and confers with pertinent city officials to determine whether the proposed use is appropriate. He refers his recommendation to the Planning Commission.

3. The Planning Commission advertises and holds a public hearing on the proposal and makes a recommendation to City Council, usually within 45 days of the hearing.

4. City Council holds a public hearing on the request and acts on the proposal. The Council may accept or deny all or part of the proposal or impose additional restrictions.

5. In addition to notice of public hearings, applicants must erect signs on the property in question giving notice of the time and location of the public hearing and the specific nature of the matter involved.

ZONING CHANGE

The term zoning change is self-explanatory, since it is simply a request to change the zoning of a parcel of property from one zoning category to another, in order to allow the property to be used for purposes other than those outlined in the original zoning. The procedure for obtaining a zoning change is as follows:

1. The property owner must file an application for zoning change with the Planning Department, including information about the request, current and proposed uses of the property in question. The application must be accompanied by a fee of $200. The Planning Director reviews the request and makes his recommendation to the Planning Commission.

2. The Planning Commission advertises and holds a public hearing before making any recommendations on a proposed zoning change. Following each hearing the Planning Commission adopts its recommendations on the request, which may include changes in the original proposal, and forwards the recommendation to City Council.

3. City Council advertises and holds a public hearing on the zoning change, after which it can either approve the request by majority vote or refer it back to the Planning Commission for revision or correction.

A copy of the Complete

Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance can be purchased from the Planning Department at a cost of $4.00.

The Information Support Office is responsible for assembling and updating files on certain data pertinent to planning, including addresses, population estimates, streets, and other growth factors.

In addition to collecting and organizing land use data for use in future planning, the Information Support Office is also responsible for the drafting of all maps and charts for use by the Planning Department, the Planning Commission, and City Council, as well as maps and graphics for other city departments.

The Virginia Beach Planning Commission is an advisory board which reviews all matters affecting growth or changes in the city's zoning plan and makes recommendations on such matters to City Council for action. The Planning Commission meets in the City Council Chambers on the second floor of the Princess Anne Municipal Center at noon on the second Tuesday of each month. Meetings are open to the public.

POLICE (427-5000)

The Department of Police became a separate office in 1975. During the time of the city's organization in 1963 until 1975, it was included in the Department of Public Safety. The Chief of Police is now the administrative head of the Police Department. Five major units form the department: Administration, Communications, Investigations, Uniformed Division and Services Division.

Administrative Offices and Support Services, such as Investigative Services, the Communications Center, and the Services Division, are located in the Public Safety Building in the Princess Anne Municipal Center. Located throughout the city are three precincts:

The First Precinct is on the first floor of the Public Safety Building at the Municipal Center on Princess Anne Road.

The Second Precinct is located near the oceanfront at 319 18th Street.

The Third Precinct is located at 926 Independence Boulevard, next door to the Bayside Branch Library and near Bayside Hospital.

The Administrative Division is responsible for establishing the policies and procedures of the Police Department and for insuring that all other divisions function appropriately. The police administration coordinates inspections and internal affairs, planning and analysis, and personnel and training programs for the police force.

The Investigative Division is responsible for investigating criminal activity, gathering evidence, and identifying, locating, and interviewing persons suspected of criminal activity.

The Communications Division is responsible for maintaining and facilitating communications between the Police Department and the public. The communications system is a computerized bank of telephone and recording instruments which provides immediate response to calls and minimizes the time it takes for an officer to arrive where help is needed. The Communications Center also processes all calls for the Fire Department and Rescue Squads, through the main Emergency Services number, 427-5000.

The Services Division is responsible for processing permit requests for bingo, raffles, parades, turkey shoots, and similar activities. Information regarding such permits can be obtained by calling 427-4331. The Services Division is also responsible for gathering and storing all police records.

The Uniformed Division consists of a variety of police programs. In addition to the uniformed police officers who patrol the city routinely, this division includes the Special Patrol Operations and Tactics Bureau (SPOT), composed of traffic, marine patrol, K-9, police helicopter, and the Special Weapons and Tactics Team (SWAT). Animal Control, the non-paid volunteer Auxiliary Police, and the Crime Prevention Unit all come under the Uniformed Division.

The Crime Prevention Unit provides lectures, demonstrations, displays, and public relations activities to the general public through community, civic, and social organizations. The unit also conducts programs in the schools, provides residential and commercial security checks, and generally instructs the public regarding the individual's role in preventing and reducing crime. Requests for lectures or instructional material should be made by calling the Crime Prevention Office at 427-4146. Two weeks advance notice is required for lectures.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES (427-4321)

In existence since 1963, the Public Libraries Department was renamed the Department of Public Libraries in 1973. The Department is headed by the Library Director and is subdivided into five divisions: Reference, Processing, Extension Services, Special Services, and the Children's Division.

The Public Library System in Virginia Beach features five branch libraries located throughout the city.

In addition to books, the libraries offer records, art prints, and sculpture reproductions, films, puzzles, periodicals, patterns and coupon exchanges. Interlibrary loans make available materials not held in the city library system, and special programs — such as talking books, braille books, and books-by-mail — offer library services to the visually handicapped and homebound citizen.

Programs are offered to encourage children to read, and specialized subjects — law and municipal government — have their own locations. Following is a listing of library branches and services:

Bayside Branch (opened Sept., 1967, expanded 1974) 936 Independence Boulevard, Virginia Beach, VA 23455. 484-9280

Great Neck Branch (opened October, 1976) 1251 Bayne Drive, Virginia Beach, VA 23454. 481-6094

Kempsville Branch (opened April, 1969) 832 Kempsville Road, Virginia Beach, VA 23462. 420-2270

Oceanfront Branch (opened May 1959; reopened in new facilities 1978) 1811 Arctic Avenue, Virginia Beach, VA 23451. 428-4113

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Public Utilities was one of the original departments created when the city was formed in 1963. It was combined later with the Department of Community Services in 1969. In 1974, it again became a separate department.

Headed by the Director of Public Utilities, the department is divided into four offices: Utility Engineering, which coordinates design and planning of all water and sewer systems; Customer Services, which concerns itself with initiating service to and answering complaints of water and sewer customers; Water Operations, in charge of maintenance of all water lines and storage facilities; and Waste Water Operations, in charge of maintenance of all sewer systems.

During the last fiscal year, the citizens of Virginia Beach approved a $39.9 million bond issue to support construction of 66 water projects and 44 sewer projects. In the past year, the Department of Public Utilities has more than doubled the city's water storage capacity by adding 4 new storage tanks. Total storage capacity is now 21.9 million gallons of water. Public Utilities also maintains 192 sewer pumping stations throughout the city.

To receive Public Utilities service, call the Customer Services Division 427-4631. Customers with no previous service will be charged a $10 turn-on fee. In addition, a $25 deposit is required of first-time customers and a deposit equal to the highest bill received is required of customers whose accounts are continually delinquent. All deposits are refundable after 6 months with no delinquencies or when a final bill is requested.

Residential customers are billed on a bi-monthly schedule. Bills are computed on the basis of meter readings taken a week to ten days before bills are issued.

PUBLIC WORKS

Public Works has had more name changes, probably, than any other city agency. From 1963 until 1969, it was called the Department of Public Works. In 1969, it became the Department of Community Services and Public Utilities, which it remained until 1974. When Public Utilities became a separate department, it was simply the Department of Community Services. In 1976, the name was changed to the Department of Public Works.

Headed by the Director of Public Works, the department is divided into six divisions: Directors Office, Real Estate, Engineering, Traffic Engineering, Highways and Refuse Collection.

The Director's Office is responsible for administrative duties in the Department of Public Works, including long-range planning and overall control of other divisions within the department. The Director also serves as the Department's representative in dealings with the city manager.

The Real Estate Division obtains rights-of-way for widening of roads within the city of Virginia Beach and acquires property for all city facilities.

The Engineering Division handles subdivision and site plan review of developments and projects for all construction, public or private, in the city.

Traffic Engineering is responsible for design, installation and maintenance of signs, streetlights, and all traffic control devices and parking meters in Virginia Beach.

Refuse Collection, Collecting garbage produced by 250,000 Virginia Beach residents, not to mention city schools, businesses, and visitors, is no simple matter. The division runs 57 garbage trucks and three to six cleanup trucks daily. A staff of 234 collects almost 8,000 tons of garbage each month.

Regulations for refuse collection: It is the citizen's responsibility to see that garbage is placed in proper containers at the proper location, at the proper time, for collection. Failure to observe refuse regulations can result in a fine.

— All refuse should be placed in plastic or metal cans, or in plastic bags not to exceed 20 gallons or 50 pounds in weight. — Refuse is to be placed at curbside prior to 7:00 AM on the day of pickup. — NO PAPER BAGS OR BOXES SHOULD BE USED. — Refuse is collected twice weekly, on Mondays and Thursday or on Tuesdays and Fridays. When a holiday falls on a scheduled collection day, refuse will not be collected until the next scheduled pickup day.

SPECIAL ITEMS:

Limbs, hedge trimmings and branches will be picked up if they are cut in lengths not to exceed six feet and if they are placed on the curb line in reasonable amounts.

Solid matter, such as dirt, bricks, or cement, must be in metal or plastic containers not to exceed 50 pounds in total weight.

All animal waste and small dead animals, by law, must be placed in plastic bags, sealed at the top, and placed in metal or plastic cans for pickup by sanitation workers.

Christmas trees will be picked up with the regular collection. If the tree exceeds six feet in length, it should be cut into smaller sections. It is suggested that you call Refuse Collection (427-4201) to alert them that you have put out the tree for pickup.

REFUSE DISPOSAL

The City Landfill, located at 1744 Centerville Turnpike, is open from 7:00 AM to 4:30 PM week days and from 7:00 AM-1:30 PM on Saturdays. The landfill accommodates approximately 260,000 tons of refuse annually — or about one ton for every Virginia Beach resident.

SOCIAL SERVICES (427-4451)

The Department of Social Services was established in 1963 as the Department of Public Welfare. Its name was changed to Social Services in 1971. Headed by the Director of Social Services, the department is composed of three divisions: Administrative, Social Services, and Financial Assistance.

The Administrative Division is responsible for coordinating the policies and procedures of the Social Services Department and for supervising the activities of the other two divisions.

The Social Services Division provides service to clients in the following areas:

Child Protective Services are designed to protect children reported as suspected victims of abuse and neglect. This program also attempts to educate the public and develop resources. Child Protective Services responds to approximately 125 complaints monthly.

Family Stabilization provides long-term counseling and education in three major areas: (1) to assist families who have been involved in Protective Services, Foster Care, Court Services, and Crisis situations; (2) to protect aged, infirm, and disabled individuals; and (3) to perform adoptive investigations for children not placed by a "licensed child placing agency."

Interact provides direct and immediate 24-hour crisis intervention services in the areas of child abuse or neglect, suicides, runaways, domestic conflicts, emergency needs for food and shelter, and emergency medical consent for foster children.

Court Services investigate and make recommendations to the Courts on cases involving domestic disputes, child custody, visitations, supervision, support, and community-based plans for children in need of services.

The Employment/Work Incentive Program (WIN) provides Social Services clients with training, employment, job search, and transportation services to allow them to become self-supporting.

Day Care for Children is provided to those in the employment/WIN program.

clients who are hospitalized or attending educational facilities, or to those who need temporary relief from child care due to being assessed as potential abusers.

The Basic Needs Program is designed to assist families in crisis situations by providing food, transportation, clothing, shelter, household items and medical care. This program also encourages self-support among those in the Aid to Dependent Children program and self-sufficiency in those participating in the Supplement Social Security Program as well as providing information about assessment for and referral to agency and community services.

The Foster Care Program provides placement for children whose custody has been awarded to the Social Services Department. Foster parents receive training and are evaluated to determine their suitability as foster parents. This program also provides supportive and rehabilitative services to natural parents whose children have been placed in foster care. The foster care program serves an average of 300 children per month.

Adoption Agency Placements provides for the adoption of children who have been legally and permanently separated from their natural parents. The program also provides services to the prospective adoptive parents. The Department of Social Services is most often identified by its programs of financial assistance. Financial Aid is offered through the following:

Aid to Dependent Children (ADC). This federally-funded program is designed to assist single parents in supporting their children. The program offers maintenance (food and shelter) and medical services, as well as monetary payments to families whose incomes are not sufficient to meet their needs.

Food Stamps. This federally-funded program is designed to raise the nutritional level among low income households. Approximately 30,962 individuals in Virginia Beach are eligible for food stamps. Currently approximately 500 families receive food stamps and no other financial assistance, while 800 families receive food stamps in addition to other financial assistance.

Medical Assistance Programs provide access to Medicaid, a federally-funded program which allows indigent persons to purchase medical services, and to the State-Local Hospitalization Program, which insures payment of hospital bills for indigent persons not covered by other hospitalization plans.

Tax Relief is designed to offer financial assistance to persons over age 65 and to the disabled by exempting all or a portion of their real estate taxes. Exemptions are based on individual resources and income.

The Water and Sewer Program offers a reduction for installation of water and sewer lines to those who meet eligibility requirements.

The Shadow Program is designed to serve youngsters between the ages of 12 and 17 who are defiant of parental authority and who exhibit unacceptable behavior. Under the program, professional social workers serve as friends and models for the youngsters on an individual basis up to 20 hours a week. In addition to regular paid staff, the Department of Social Services has an unpaid staff of volunteers from the community who donate their time and talents in various areas of social service programs. Currently, twenty-two volunteers supplement the Social Services paid staff.

Eligibility for programs and assistance offered by the Social Services Department is based on numerous factors, dependent upon the individual's needs and resources and the guidelines of the various programs. Eligibility can be determined by calling the Social Services Department for an interview.

CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICERS

Constitutional officers are those officials (other than the City Council) elected by the voters of Virginia Beach to uphold the law and protect the interests of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Constitutional officers are autonomous. Their offices are supported financially by both the city and the state. Constitutional officers are elected every four years, except for the Clerk of Court, who serves an eight-year term.

Five constitutional officers serve the City of Virginia Beach: the Commonwealth's Attorney, the Commissioner of the Revenue, Clerk of Court, City Treasurer, and the Sheriff.

Commonwealth's Attorney is the "district attorney" or prosecuting attorney elected by the voters to present criminal cases in court. His duty is not only to convict criminals but also to insure justice for all parties, including defendants, victims, and witnesses.

Information for witnesses: Serving as a witness in a criminal trial is a civic responsibility. Witnesses perform a service for all members of the community, since anyone can become a victim of crime. Many citizens, however, are reluctant to come forward as witnesses because of time involved in waiting to appear or in postponements in the trial schedule. To encourage civic participation as witnesses, the Commonwealth's Attorney attempts to notify those scheduled to testify if the trial has been postponed or moved to another time. Witnesses should double check the schedule by calling the Commonwealth's Attorney's office the day before the case is scheduled for trial. For Circuit Court cases (green subpoena), call 427-4401. For General District or Juvenile Court cases (white or blue subpoena) call 427-4271, between 9:00 AM and 5:00 PM weekdays.

After hours the Commonwealth's Attorney's office furnishes court information to the City Public Information Office at 427-4111. Operators are on duty to answer questions from 5:00 PM until 9:00 PM Monday through Friday, and from 9:00 AM until 5:00 PM on Saturday and Sunday.

A pamphlet containing more information about court procedures is available at no charge by calling the Commonwealth's Attorney's office at 427-4401.

Commissioner of the Revenue is responsible for assessment of all local taxes (except real estate). These include special taxes on food, lodging, cigarettes, business licenses, apartments, and utilities. In addition, the Commissioner of the Revenue assesses personal property taxes on automobiles, boats, mobile homes, recreational vehicles, and business equipment.

This office is responsible for making transfers of real estate, and maintaining property location maps and card index files. The Commissioner's office also prepares and audits state income tax returns for approximately 6,000 individuals annually.

City Treasurer is custodian of all public monies of the City and prepares billing for all local real estate assessments. Other responsibilities of this office include selling licenses for automobiles (City decals), dogs, bicycles, and other items requiring registration with the City. The Treasurer collects water and sewer tap fee bills, collects income taxes and withholding taxes for transmittal to the state, issues and sells food stamps, and collects and processes parking fees. In addition, the Treasurer must sign all checks for disbursement of funds to pay for services rendered to and materials purchased by the City, record and account for receipt and expenditure of all monies by the City, and invest City funds.

The Sheriff is responsible for maintenance and operation of the city jail. In addition, he serves various warrants upon request.

COURTS

All courts and their supporting offices are located within the Princess Anne Municipal Center complex. Although the historic Princess Anne Courthouse still houses offices of the court system, trial proceedings now take place in the new courts buildings constructed in 1973.

Virginia Beach, which is in the 2nd Judicial District of Virginia, has three categories of courts. These include the Circuit Court, General District Court, and Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

Circuit Court is the city's only court of record, with jurisdiction in cases involving criminal law, civil law, and chancery. There are five Circuit Court judges in Virginia Beach, each appointed to an eight-year term by the General Assembly. The Circuit Court has final authority in the proceedings of all other city courts.

Court records are maintained in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court. Office hours are 9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday. Telephone: 427-4181. Court sessions for the Circuit Court begin at 10:00 A.M., Monday through Friday.

General District Court is not a court of record. Its jurisdiction lies in the area of misdemeanors, violations of city ordinances, minor civil suits, and preliminary hearings in felony cases. In some civil suits, General District Court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court. The Traffic Division of General District Court hears all cases involving traffic violations.

Two full-time judges, appointed to six-year terms by the General Assembly, serve the General District Court. One serves the Traffic Division. Part-time judges are appointed by the judges of the Circuit Court. The clerk's office for the General District Court is open 9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M., Monday-Friday. The General District Court schedule is as follows:

Traffic Court: Monday-Friday, 2:00 P.M.

Criminal Court: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 10:00 A.M. Civil Court: Tuesday and Thursday, 10:00 A.M.

Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court has jurisdiction over all cases related to domestic problems such as child custody and child support awards and over all cases involving persons under eighteen years of age (except in special circumstances). Unlike other court proceedings, which are conducted in public session, proceedings of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court are confidential unless the presiding judge decides otherwise.

Two full-time judges serve the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court. They are appointed by the General Assembly to six-year terms. Judges of the Circuit Court appoint the part-time judges to terms of four years.

The clerk's office is open 9:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday. Court sessions begin at 9:00 A.M., Monday-Friday.

School policy is established by an eleven-member School Board appointed by City Council. Terms of each, which are staggered, are for three-year periods. Board meetings are held on the third Tuesday of each month at 2:00 p.m. in the Board Room of the School Administration Building.

The Superintendent of Schools is the chief administrative officer for the school system. He is appointed by members of the School Board.

Six high schools, seven junior high schools, and forty elementary schools constitute the majority of the system's education facilities. A listing of each, along with the building's capacity, date of occupancy, and number of classrooms follows:

Voting and Registration

Any resident of Virginia Beach who will be 18 years old prior to the next general election may register to vote. There is no length of residence required — one can register to vote on the day one moves to Virginia Beach if 18 or older. However, in order to vote in a specific election, one must be registered 31 days prior to that election. For example, to vote in the May 2nd city council election, an individual must have been registered by April 1st.

The Virginia Beach Electoral Board supervises all elections held in the city and is responsible for enforcing election laws. The three members of the Electoral Board are appointed by the Circuit Court judges to serve three-year terms. The Registrar, appointed by the Electoral Board, is responsible for registering voters, advising them of election regulations, and maintaining all election records.

Elections for state and federal officials are held in conjunction with state and federal election regulations. City Council elections are scheduled for the first Tuesday in May every two years. Primary elections, if necessary, are held the second Tuesday in June.

Voting machines are used at all precincts in Virginia Beach; instructions for their use are posted at all polling places. Special provisions, such as paper ballots, can be made for handicapped voters or for those too ill to reach the precinct. To obtain special services, or to make arrangements to vote an absentee ballot, contact the Registrar's Office.

After registering to vote, a card is mailed informing you of the location of your voting precinct. If you forget where you are to vote, or if you move to another location in the city, contact the Registrar's Office to obtain your correct precinct.

There are eight locations in the city where residents may register to vote. The Registrar's Main Office is located at the Princess Anne Municipal Complex (see map) (427-4667). Assistant registrars are located at the following addresses throughout the city:

Oceana Feed and Hardware, 237 First Colonial Road, 428-1351

Leaping marlin form its outer edge and represent sports fishing, boating and other water activities available in the city. Strawberry leaves combine to create an inner circle, reminding all of the importance of agriculture to the city's economy. Prominent in the seal's center is the Cape Henry Lighthouse. The lighthouse and the cross symbolize the beginning of Virginia Beach as well as the United States. Bright sunshine and blue water join the sandy beach to increase the importance of tourism and the pleasures of nature available to Virginia Beach residents.

Sun Days come to Beach

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

Solar energy shine on in!

The world's first solar heated dog house and solar heated recreational vehicle will be only two of the sunny exhibits on hand when Virginia Beach hosts Tidewater's first Sun Day Festival this weekend.

National Sun Day, celebrated May 3, was the inspiration for the event and Mayor Clarence Holland has declared May 6 and 7 to be Sun Days in Virginia Beach, to be observed with "appropriate activities and ceremonies that will demonstrate the potential of solar energy."

Lee D. Cohen, president of the newly formed Tidewater Solar Energy Association, has been appointed coordinator of the event, which will be held in front of the "Solar Home" at Fox Hill in Greep Run on the corner of Lynnhaven Parkway and Amberly Forest Road.

In addition to the world's first solar heated dog house and solar heated recreational vehicle, student solar exhibits will be on display. The Virginia Beach library department will provide free information on energy conservation.

There will be film and slide shows on solar energy utilization in the area, and a solar domestic hot water system mobile unit will be on display.

Agricultural displays, greenhouses, a solar "Gizmo" contest and workshops on building and installing solar collectors will also be a part of the days' events. VPI extension agent Barbara Woods of Virginia Beach will be on hand with additional information.

And just to lend the proper atmosphere to the affair, the Navy Band will be on hand to play "sun songs." "You Are My Sunshine," "Sunshine on My Shoulder," "Never on Sunday," "Here Comes the Sun," and "Tequila Sunrise" are just examples. The list goes on and on.

Interest in solar energy in Tidewater is definitely booming. The area has the largest concentration of solar heated and solar hot water homes in the state.

Solar energy has been found to be technically feasible, economically sound and environmentally attractive. Moreover, it's abundant, dependable and free.

There are many different ways solar energy can be harnessed. There are solar hot water systems and solar heating and cooling systems. Solar cells convert sunlight directly into electricity.

Solar space heating and hot water systems are also economically feasible when the cost over the life of the system is compared with conventional systems.

If the idea of using solar energy has you intrigued and you'd like to know more, then this weekend is an event you won't want to miss.

Hours will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. both days. The Virginia Beach Jaycees will be selling food and drink, and there will be free parking.

Signs, signs, everywhere signs

Political signs mushroom

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Over the week-end political signs mushroomed all over the city on public rights of way and public property — all illegal.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf Monday afternoon said at an informal meeting of Council that the ordinance prohibiting political signs on public property and public rights of way was a "bad law" since it apparently was unenforceable.

The signs supported the council candidates of the five incumbents and Betty Romulus.

Among the incumbents listed is Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing, who, at the start of the campaign had made a special appeal to see that the sign ordinances were obeyed. As a result the city administration sent letters to all the candidates informing them of the law.

Mrs. Oberndorf said that she received numerous calls about the signs over the week-end and went out to see for herself.

Signs were posted, she said, on the median strip of Independence Boulevard, at the corner of Wesleyan Drive and Northampton Boulevard; Northampton Boulevard, one-fourth mile west of Holiday Inn on the east bound side, Northampton Boulevard opposite

French welcomed by Beach

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

A quarter million Frenchmen can't be wrong -- for Virginia Beach, N'est-ce pas?

So Virginia Beach wants those French-speaking Canadians who visit the resort each summer to feel right at home. City manager George L. Hanbury said that some of them speak no English. Besides, whoever heard of a Frenchman who didn't prefer to speak French?

This summer the over a quarter million French/Canadians who visit the Beach will be greeted by signs reading:

Bienvenue a Virginia Beach - Welcome to Virginia Beach.

And as they depart, they'll see signs which read:

Bon Voyage au plaisir de vous revoir chez nous which can be loosely translated into, "Y'all come back, 'hear? Or, more conventionally, "Goodbye, until we have the pleasure of seeing you again at our place."

After Hanbury explained the signs to city council at the informal session Monday afternoon, Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing had quelques mots of caution. "Let's not do what (President) Carter did, and check the grammar" to see if everything is correct. Standing was referring to the Carter visit to Poland when the

Two tennis pros, better than one

By Stacey Enesey
SUN Correspondent

Ion Tiriac and Guillermo Vilas are proving that two heads are better than one. Both men are tennis professionals who couldn't seem to win big on their own but are becoming an unbeatable duo together.

The pair were in Virginia Beach this past week and were practicing at the Virginia Beach Racquet Club. Tiriac is the touring pro and coach for the club and was responsible for coaching Vilas to the No. 1 position in the world last year.

Vilas said that he doesn't pay much attention to the rankings because each tennis organization ranks people differently and there is no one authority. The rankings are largely based on the outcome of the major tournaments and the smaller ones are hardly considered.

"I think that it is difficult to analyze matches and then make rankings. It is not clear to me what the rankings are based on," Vilas said.

Vilas said he plans to keep on winning tournaments but he is not going to play in as many as he played in last year. He plans on playing in more special events and tournaments which are not part of the Grand Prix.

"I'm taking it easy, he explained. "I'm not going to enter as many tournaments as I did last year. It's good to have a rest. I was exhausted last year from playing so much. By taking it slower, I can play for two to three years at this pace. I don't care about rankings. I'm playing about half as much this year as I played last year."

Vilas played in 43 major tournaments last year. He won 57 matches in a row on clay courts and 44 consecutive tournament victories on all surfaces. This is the longest winning skein in tennis history since 1968. But he didn't do it on his own. Tiriac helped him considerably.

The inner sense of a car

I think my car knows I'm trying to sell it.

Everytime I have someone come over to check out Betsy's fine points, and possibly take her home for their very own, she gets back at me.

For example, this nice teenage boy came over last week. He was very excited when he got behind the wheel. There was this gleam in his eye which signaled to me that he was out looking to buy his first car.

Maybe Betsy got nervous trying to imagine what it would be like to have a rookie behind the wheel of an old timer. Anyway, I had this bad feeling of what was to come when the boy turned the ignition switch and the oil light came on.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

"What, does that mean", he naively asked.

Trying to be cool, I explained that sometimes Betsy lost just "teensy amounts" of oil.

Almost immediately the boy's father jerked him out of Betsy and zipped away in their 1976 Cadillac.

I was kind of disappointed in the whole episode, but consoled myself with the fact that Betsy wasn't really ready for hot dates and drag races. Although it bothered me, I still had not caught on to Betsy's act.

A few days later, this nice little 'ole lady, grandmotherly type, came by to look at Betsy. The lady couldn't believe the "wonderful" gas mileage, the "cute-size and "darling" interior. I became elated at the comparison figuring this lady and Betsy were meant for each other.

The lady wanted a test ride and when she hit the accelerator, Betsy took off like she did in the old days, before the rebuilt engine, burned valves and blown head gasket. But in between the speed were puts, jerks and hesitations. The lady came back rubbing her neck and limping.

Of course, Betsy was fine once I started to drive her.

Even after this I kept trying. Each time she ran out of gas, water and air; cut off in the middle of the interstate, rush hour traffic and Atlantic Avenue; and the windshield wipers squeaked, the brakes squeaked and the tail pipe rattled and squeaked.

Finally, I took the hint. Betsy likes me and likes being my car.

The only thing I can't figure out is why she can't stay clean:

Dialing for summer jobs

The annual Dialing for Jobs summer youth employment campaign began Tuesday, May 2, in the City Hall Annex building at 1917 Arctic Avenue.

Members of the Mayor's Youth Council will be at the office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. week days through May 12 to answer the telephone and take employment applications from young people. Applicants may also apply in person at the office which is behind the Dome.

Dialing for Jobs is sponsored by the youth council and the Virginia Employment Commission (VEC) in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce and the STOP organization.

"The Chamber of Commerce has sought the cooperation of business firms, primarily in the resort area, in providing summer employment opportunities for the city's young people. In 1977 the campaign received 675 applications and was responsible for placing 167 young people in jobs within the two-week period.

The Dialing for Jobs telephone number will be displayed in the public schools. The number is also available through Information (411). The office will be operated by the VEC until Sept. 29.

Owl Creek Tennis Center expands night hours

The playing hours at the Owl Creek Municipal Tennis Center have been expanded to 11 p.m. for night play. The fees for adults are $3 per court hour, juniors (18 and under), and seniors (60 and over), $1.50 per court hour. Reservations are requested. Twelve courts are available for play, all with quartz lighting. Book tickets are available for $25 for fifteen court hours play.

Rate changes have taken place at both municipal golf courses; they are as follows: Red Wing Golf Course weekdays - 9 holes - $3 and 18 holes - $5. Weekend fees at Red Wing are $3.50 for 9 holes and $6 for 18 holes. Bow Creek Golf Course fees are $2.50 for 9 holes and $4 for 18 holes on weekdays. Weekend fees are $3 for 9 holes and $5 for 18 holes.

Beach sex education plan opposed by resident

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Why should we serve the dumb idols of secular humanism to put our children through the fires of Moloch?

I can think of no better description of this plan for so-called sex education for the children of Virginia Beach, kindergarten through twelfth grade, as proposed by the Virginia Beach Citizens for Responsible Sex Education.

Through sensitivity training, group-think and the "God is dead, man is all" philosophy (Dewey, Spock, et al) the public has been convinced that the state owns the child: That the parent is merely the caretaker for the state and both should bow to the will of the state via HEW and its guidelines (laws) for the education of their children.

The glowing examples of red-China and red-Russia are paraded before future educators in our university schools of education, ODU for example, as so much farther advanced and ahead of this country with its "childish" dependence and trust in constitutional law. Let's give the devil his due. When Russia outlawed rock music the juvenile crime rate went down.

Confusion reigns! Lawlessness in the schools is the chief concern of teachers and administrators, not academics. Educators are now content to settle for a 4th grade reading level upon graduation.

None of this makes any good sense, so far. But get this! In their mad determination to destroy our institutions, the do-gooders, busy-bodies and humanitarians would have us believe that the only solution to the problems of Godless, lawless society is to teach children and teach parents how to teach their children, all the body parts, how they fit together and how they operate. And how to correct "errors" in judgment or calculations concerning procreation and personal relationships; as though human beings were mere machines to be manipulated or animals to be bred or destroyed according to fitness for survival or reproduction, according to the needs of the state.

Also of dubious value are the value-carification skills to be taught, based on the shifting sands of situation ethics, which deny all absolute standards for truth and right behaviour. "Do it if it feels good" or "if it affirms one's existence" is the norm here.

My father was a great sex educator. He taught me two things "out behind the barn". I learned to fear the Lord and I learned that sex is sacred, not secular.

The Virginia Beach Citizens for Responsible Sex Education, for all their utopian fervor, should depart from their "Animal Farm" and "Brave New World" philosophy, and turn to the principles of personal responsibility and limited government, and the law of liberty which is in Christ Jesus and our U.S. Constitution.

Taxpayers Beware! You will be wasting and losing your money, your children, and any remaining local adult control of your public schools if this plan is adopted.

Library receives Kurzweil reader

Mayor Clarence Holland, M.D., has announced the selection of the Virginia Beach department of public libraries as a test site for the Kurzweil reading machine for use by the blind and visually impaired. The Kurzweil reading machine, valued at $50,000, converts books, magazines, letters, and reports - any ordinary printed material - into spoken English at normal rates of speed. The system reads several hundred different styles and most sizes of type.

Ms. Martha J. Sims, library director, said that Mayor Holland and the city manager's office had been instrumental in supporting the library system's application for the reading machine. "We are receiving one of thirty reading machines funded under contract from the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped and we're the only public library in the country to be chosen as a test site," Ms. Sims explained. It is anticipated that it will be installed by early June.

The Kurzweil reading machine will be housed at the library's Special Services Division, Bayside Branch Library, 906 Independence Boulevard, which provides reading materials and other services to the blind and physically handicapped. As a Subregional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped of the Library of Congress, materials are available to residents of six cities (Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Franklin, and Suffolk) and two counties, Isle of Wight and Accomack.

Ms. Marilyn Mortensen, head of the special services division explained that blind and visually impaired students are gradually being integrated into the various area public school systems rather than being segregated into special schools for the blind. She said that with the Kurzweil reading machine, "the Virginia Beach library system can offer a much wider range of books for a considerable number of visually handicapped students of all ages throughout this area."

The Kurzweil reading machine was developed and is produced by Kurzweil Computer Products, Inc.

Noise pollutes the air

I used to have a car in which the radio didn't work. It drove me crazy to drive around in a quiet car.

I had to turn on the stereo first thing in the morning, and at night I loved to sit under the comforting drone of my hairdryer while the television blared away.

Maybe the yearning to be surrounded by sound was the result of living in a too quiet house, and spending days in too quiet classrooms.

But today I find myself plagued by a problem of the opposite extreme -- too much noise.

Although working in a newsroom is often hectic, it's not too noisy. It's the noises that we often take for granted as necessary that have become bothersome -- the motors, the chain saws, the kitchen blenders, the lawn mowers, the truck tires.

Pam Vandever

SUN News Editor

Prolonged exposure to a noise level of 70 decibels can lead to an eventual hearing loss. But look at the everyday noises we encounter that go over 70 decibels: a garbage disposal, garbage trucks, sirens, car horns, kitchen blenders, home appliances, electric tools, jets, rock bands, a baby's scream, stereos and televisions are all culprits.

Once lost, hearing will not return. But hearing loss is not the only result of exposure to loud noises. Noise causes stress. And stress can cause many bodily disorders, including irritability, fatigue, mental foginess, tension, depression.

It is not a pretty picture. But it is true that we have gradually come to accept louder noises as being comfortable. Air pollution is not tolerated, but noise pollution is.

Next time you find yourself having to shout at the person next to you in order to be heard, take heed. Common sense will tell you you're exposing yourself to too much noise.

There are many noises we can do nothing about, but we do have some control. And I have found that since I now own a car with a radio that works beautifully, I drive in silence.

She said later that "if we have laws we should all obey them."

Mrs. Oberndorf supported the candidacy of Barbara Henley against Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr., for the Pungo seat.

Councilman John A. Baum, who was not up for re-election said Monday that the candidates are not always responsible for putting up signs. "The people who work for you get enthused."

City manager George L. Hanbury said that crews were sent out Monday morning. He said that the sign ordinance enforcement was the responsibility of the Department of Inspections which does not work over the week-end.

Councilman George R. Ferrell said the law was "no worse than any other law."

Councilman John R. Griffin, whose name appeared singly on some of the illegal signs and along with the five incumbents, on others, remarked that the law was "only broken every two years."

American interpreter committed some unforgettable faux pas -- not to mention mistakes.

Hanbury said the city had checked with the French consul to make sure the language was accurate.

Noting that the French use the metric system, Councilman J. Henry McCoy suggested that it might be a good time to incorporate the metric system in distance signs, too, like Chesapeake.

Metric didn't make it, however. After all, a little French can go a long way at a Virginia Beach council meeting.

Ordinance considered to protect home owners

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The city of Virginia Beach is considering an ordinance to protect future new home owners from having houses built close to a major thoroughfare.

The problem came up during the widening of North Plaza Trail when some Kings Point home buyers didn't realize until they moved in that there was as little as 20 feet between the road and their homes.

City planner Robert Scott said the city would recommend for areas zoned R-1, R-2 and R-3 that the 50-yard setback required for both front and back yards (back yards are considered as front yards too, under the present ordinance) be changed to have a smaller setback -- 30 feet -- from the neighborhood street and the larger setback -- 70 feet from the thoroughfare.

In neighborhoods zoned R-4 and above where lots are smaller and the front yard setback already is 30 feet, he said to reduce that further would be unacceptable. He said the change would have to be made at the site planning stage and that the city will have to require lots to be platted 20 feet deeper.

Rose Hall realtor wants commission

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

A realtor who says that he was responsible for finding a tenant for the city-owned Rose Hall house thinks the city owes him a commission.

Robert Porter, who will operate a crafts shop at Rose Hall, signed a lease with the city on Dec. 27, 1977 agreeing to pay $1,370 a month rent plus 10 percent of the gross receipts.

Attorney Bruce Murphy, representing his father, W. L. Murphy, Jr., Monday afternoon asked city council to pay the claim which would amount to approximately $75 a month over the five-year period of the lease.

His father, Murphy said, had asked city manager George L. Hanbury to prepare a second lease for Murphy's commission but was refused.

Murphy said that during preliminary discussions with A. J. DeBellis, director of the Department of Economic Development, DeBellis said that the city paid a 10 percent commission only on sale but would pay five percent commission on leases.

Murphy claimed that his father and Jerry Broadway, industrial representative in the Department of Economic Development, arranged for a meeting with Porter in June 1976. As a result, Porter ultimately signed a lease with the city, Murphy said.

Murphy said that the city accepted his father's services in bringing Porter to the city, but will not enter an addendum to the lease to provide compensation.

Hanbury said there was no written agreement and that the city had no policy on commissions for leases. Hanbury said he learned from Porter that he first met Murphy when he purchased a home through him and that his impression was that Murphy's efforts in getting the city and Porter together were based on friendship. Hanbury said that Porter was not aware that Murphy was acting as a realtor. Hanbury said that the city assumed that Murphy "was giving his services voluntarily as other citizens do."

Bruce Murphy said that Murphy's efforts were for business and that the first time he met Porter was in 1976. He added that the law does not require a written agreement.

DeBellis said that the commission requested by Murphy would come to $720 a year during the five year lease plus 10 percent over a certain gross.

Porter has asked the city to deduct from the city's share payment for Murphy.

Councilman Robert R. Cromwell Jr. said that city council is once again being asked to be a court. "I'm sure we want to do everything proper for Mr. Murphy and for the city."

The matter was referred to city attorney Dale Bimsor for a recommendation.

Sandbridge suffers $1.5 damage

Public assistance considered for damage

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Can public funds be used to protect private property?

City manager George L. Hanbury told city council Monday afternoon at an informal session that his staff will try to determine what assistance can be given beach front areas which sustained extensive damage from last week's northeast.

Councilman R.L. Riggs had asked whether a sand replenishment program could be undertaken at Sandbridge which suffered $1.5 million of damages of the total $2.6 million damages in the city.

He said that he toured the area after learning from Clyde Merritt, city assessor, that assessments at Sandbridge would have to be reduced by 75 percent on the 2900 and 3000 blocks of Sandbridge because of the extensive damage. Sandbridge residents pay $100,000 in real estate taxes and Hanbury said, the city collects $36,000 in rental taxes in the area.

Riggs said that the residents are paying the one percent sales tax for rentals, but are not deriving any benefits. He suggested a committee be formed to help or the land assessment will have to be reduced.

Hanbury said that one of the main objections of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, which replenishes the beach on the resort strip, is that the ocean front in Sandbridge is privately owned, while the ocean front at Virginia along the resort strip in the Beach Borough is publicly owned.

Hanbury said, however, that although the Sandbridge beach is privately owned, the public uses it.

Owners have objected to the city's overtures to acquire a public beach, he said, and some have even requested that no one use the beach.

Hanbury said the city actually doesn't even have the right to enforce the dog ordinances on the beach that front the private homes. He said that with the development in Sandbridge, especially the commercial development, circumstances may be changed enough to extend some assistance to the area's beaches. He said, however, that the $36,000 collected in Sandbridge can hardly be compared to the millions collected on the Beach strip.

Councilman Robert R. Cromwell Jr., said that if anything is to be done, Chesapeake Bay beaches should be included, too. "If you're looking into isolated areas, you're looking for trouble," he said.

Hanbury said that he will soon recommend a three-day-a-week garbage collection at Sandbridge to accommodate the rental properties. An extra collection on Saturday will be recommended during the holiday season. Most tenants leave on Saturday while new tenants usually arrive on Sunday.

Vilas, Tiriac pair up for world tennis wins

Vilas explains to reporters that he wants to keep winning but that he won't be playing as much as he played last year. Too many tournaments exhaust him.

The two men practice six to seven hours a day. Tiriac keeps Vilas moving, working hard and sweating. He wants Vilas to be read for anything. Unlike Vilas who is interested in writing, photography and music, Tiriac is all tennis. He seems to be transferring his concentration and will to Vilas.

Together, they are quite a team, even though their personalities are as different as love and war. Maybe that is why they are so hard to defeat. It's like taking the best of two worlds and combining them into one.

As part of his training, Vilas is also working out with Henry Hines, a former long jumper. Hines works with all the top pros to help them improve their movements and quickness.

"I teach them to cover the court better," Hines said. "Tennis is not only good forehands and backhands." Tennis players tend to forget that their legs are in the game also. I try to teach them to enhance their ability to move better. I try to teach a person to know what his body can do and what it can't do. The only way to quickness is learn about your own body and to enhance what you have."

Tiriac said that Hines is not doing anything new but that he really knows what he is talking about. "I have watched this man and haven't seen him make one mistake in the two days he has been coaching Vilas," Tiriac said.

That's quite a compliment from the man who won the coach of the year award in 1977.

Vilas and Tiriac are preparing for three big challenges this year—the French Open in June, Wimbledon in July and the U.S. Open in September. Together, they are going to be strong competition for any opponent.

Moving with quickness and agility, Vilas is able to cover the court and return the ball to Tiriac.

Vilas follows through after hitting the ball.

With a look of determination, Vilas makes contact with the ball.

Executing an overhead smash, Vilas becomes temporarily airborne while trying to score another point.

Returning ball after ball, Tiriac seems never to tire of the game of tennis.

Henry Hines, a long jumper, explains how he is helping to coach Vilas by enhancing his ability to move quicker and to cover the court better.

ICC campuses sponsor fund raising bike-a-thon

The Student Government Associations of Tidewater Community College, Chesapeake and Virginia Beach Campuses, are sponsoring a Bike-A-Thon to raise funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The bicycle marathon will be on Sunday, May 7. Rain date is May 21st. It will include a scenic 20-mile course set up by each campus. The Virginia Beach campus course begins at Seashore State Park picnic area. The Chesapeake campus course begins at the campus on Cedar Road. Those not wishing to ride a bike can negotiate the courses on foot. Participants can start the course anytime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Sponsor sheets are available at local 7-11 stores, high schools, and in the SGA offices on the two Tidewater Community College campuses. Participants who submit over $50 in pledges are eligible for the drawing for a new 10-speed bike, one on each campus.

All participants will receive a free lunch sponsored by Burger King. Along the route four check points will serve water and provide first aid to the bike riders, runners, or walkers.

For further information or to receive sponsor sheets call the Office of Continuing Education, Tidewater Community College, Chesapeake campus at 547-4515, Tidewater Community College, Virginia Beach campus at 427-3070, or Mike Marks, Muscular Dystrophy Association, at 461-0177.

Baseball clinic scheduled

The Great Neck branch library and Professional Sports Camps will co-sponsor a special baseball clinic for young people ages eight and up on Saturday, May 13, at 10 a.m. at the Great Neck library.

Towny Townsend, director of Professional Sports Camps and Head Baseball Coach for Virginia Wesleyan College, will conduct the clinic. Working with Townsend, once a former Boston Red Sox player himself, will be John Dannemann, former player with the Montreal Expos, who will be playing the position of pitcher; Tim Albert, All-American, will cover the infield position; Greg Curtis, Matt Simen, Chris Champion and Kevin Thornton, all players for Virginia Wesleyan, will handle the shortstop, catcher, outfield, and centerfield positions.

All these players will be dressed out in their team uniforms. Each player will work with the young people in the area of the player's special abilities.

There is no charge for this clinic. However, each participant must wear tennis shoes and bring a ball glove. The library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive opposite Lynnhaven Junior High School in the Hilltop area of Virginia Beach.

If more information is needed on the clinic, contact Debbie Carter at the library at 461-6094 or Townsend, Professional Sports Camp Director, at 461-8822.

He joined the Navy in March, 1967.

Dam Neck Beach readies for summer

The special services department at Fleet Combat Training Center, Atlantic, is busy preparing for another active summer beach season at the Dam Neck Naval facility.

Recreation beaches will be open from 10 a.m. until sunset, May 27 through September 4. Ample parking is available within easy walking distance of the swimming area. Qualified lifeguards are on duty from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. to patrol the beach and insure the safety and cleanliness of the area.

In addition to the mile-long swimming beach, military families will be able to enjoy separate surfing and surf fishing areas. Family picnic shelters, complete with grills, are located along the sand dunes for those who may not wish to take advantage of the conveniently located snack bars. The picnic shelters require no reservations and are obtained on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Bath houses are also available for the comfort and convenience of beach-goers. Floats, sand chairs and umbrellas can be obtained for a minimal fee from the nearby rental facilities.

Separate enlisted and officers cabana areas are available for local command parties or private gatherings. Ample space is provided for volleyball, football, horseshoes, or other group games.

Reservations for these areas are necessary and a fee will be charged for their use. The Recreation Office in Building 524 will begin accepting reservations immediately.

Plan your party now and stop by or call 425-4105 to insure your choice of dates.

Black Aces receive "centurion" patches

In a ceremony in the squadron Ready Room, Navy Cmdr. Jed Springer, commander of Carrier Air Wing Eight, presented USS Nimitz "Centurion" patches to those "Black Aces" of Fighter Squadron 41 who have landed 100 times on the Nimitz, which is currently deployed to the Mediterranean.

The "Black Aces" introduced their F-14A Tomcat fighters to the Nimitz during carrier qualifications in July, 1977 and in January, 1978. Lcdr. Gary Allen became the first F-14 centurion aboard Nimitz.

Considered a milestone, every Black Ace is expected to make centurion by May and will have made 150 arrested landings before returning to their home base in Virginia Beach.

Lt. Ken Pritchard is credited with making the 31,000th and 34,000th arrested landing in Nimitz history.

Beach divers help Coast Guard save money

By Bill McAllister
Special to the SUN

Last week Clyde Shiraki, Mark C. Scharfe, D.J. Patterson and John Kully left their Virginia Beach homes and got into water over their heads for the Navy.

All four are Navy divers and members of a specialized Navy Reserve unit that last week began a project at the Yorktown Coast Guard Reserve Training Center that may save that service thousands of dollars.

As part of the unit's required two weeks of annual training, the unit is undertaking the tedious task of examining each of an estimated 2,500 pilings that support two 2,200-foot long piers at the Yorktown facility. It's a job that the Coast Guard probably would have had to pay for except for the availability of the Little Creek-based reserve unit.

"This is the type of project we like," said Shiraki, a Navy reserve lieutenant and nuclear submarine test engineer in civilian life, after he came up from a two-hour dive in the 50-degree York River. The Yorktown project is ideal because it can be completed in two weeks and allows the unit to work as an independent team, said the 31-year diving in the reserves that I did on active duty," said the 1971 Naval Academy graduate.

Much of his time with the active duty command, he explained, was involved with ordnance problems that did not involve diving. In civilian life, Scharfe is an engineer for a Suffolk peanut processing firm.

Lieutenant Commander D.J. Patterson, 40, of 509 Hannibal Street, Virginia Beach, founded the unit in 1974 and served as its first commanding officer. An environmental health sanitarian with the Virginia Beach City Health Department, Patterson is credited by unit members with having established the unit's working relationship with its Little Creek-based active duty counterpart, Harbor Clearance Unit 2.

"One way we've been able to earn the respect of the active duty commands is by finishing what we start," Shiraki said. "They know that we won't work through a drill weekend, march off at four o'clock, leaving behind a partly-completed project that they have to finish up." The Yorktown project should be completed by May 5.

Not all the unit's divers are officers. For example, Petty Officer First Class John Kully, who lives at 998 Donation Drive, Virginia Beach, served as a Navy diver in Norfolk; Adak, Alaska; New London, Conn; Vietnam; and the Philippines before joining the reserves.

The Yorktown project will result in a report to the Coast Guard that will help advise contractors of the amount of work that needs to be done on the piers. The unit will take underwater television of some of the damaged pilings using equipment it borrows from its active duty counterpart.

Such projects are invaluable for the reservists because they help the divers polish their skills. "You lose your touch unless you practice," said Shiraki, a 1965 graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "And since Navy diving techniques are not subject to drastic, sudden changes we are able to keep our skills reasonably sharp by our weekend duty and our two-weeks training."

In the past the unit has been able to assist its active duty counterpart by helping repair damaged anchor chains on a stationary barge at the Norfolk Naval Station and by repairing a damaged missile launching platform at the Dahlgren, Va., Navy Surface Weapons Center.

These projects have helped maintain high morale and retention in the unit. It was recently awarded a "Golden Anchor" award from the Naval Reserve Readiness Command, Region Six, for having the best retention among about 250 reserve units in the mid-Atlantic region.

Navy Reserve Lieutenant Clyde Shiraki of Virginia Beach prepares to dive under a Coast Guard pier in Yorktown, Va., as part of his reserve unit's annual two weeks of active duty training.

The Reserve Unit checks piers for the Coast Guard in Yorktown during two weeks of reserve training.

Helping hands gets boost from Beach volunteers

Helping Hands, a weekly social and recreational program for physically and mentally handicapped persons held at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center, is being given a boost by several groups of volunteers.

Princess Anne Woman's Club members give a monthly party. In March, the women held an Easter egg hunt and party for 40 children.

Virginia Beach Junior Woman's Club, with the aid of young women from the Girls Regional Group Home, provided some of the entertainment.

Woman's club members assisted the youths from the girls home in performing a puppet show, "Barnyard Frolics."

V.W.C. announces joint degree program

Virginia Wesleyan College and Duke University have entered into two joint degree programs in environmental studies and forestry.

Under the new programs, highly qualified Virginia Wesleyan students will study liberal arts at the Norfolk-Virginia Beach campus for three years, emphasizing studies in biology, mathematics and economics. As rising seniors, they will then transfer to the Graduate School of Forestry and Environmental Studies at Duke.

At the completion of the first year at Duke, the students will be awarded a bachelor of arts degree from Virginia Wesleyan College. After the successful completion of the second year at Duke, a master of forestry or a master of environmental management professional degree will be awarded.

In some cases, however, students will be required to complete four years at Virginia Wesleyan before transferring, as has been done in the past. These students will major in one of the natural or social sciences, business or environmental studies at Virginia Wesleyan.

"We recognized that some students can enter graduate professional programs at Duke after three years of study at your institution," said Dr. Benjamin A. Jayne, dean of the School of Forestry and Environmental Studies. "In general, the number of units of study for completion of a degree has been reduced, and we look forward to Virginia Wesleyan's participation in the program."

The Virginia Wesleyan faculty approved the Cooperative College Program earlier this month noting that through this program VWC students would be offered another solid major. It was also noted that after nearly 50 years of forestry research and education at Duke, the school has shifted from a focus on woodland productivity and protection to a focus on ecosystem productivity and protection.

"We trust that the agreement will be beneficial to both our institutions," said Dr. William M. Wilson, dean of Virginia Wesleyan College, in announcing approval of the program.

Dr. Dennis Govoni, assistant professor of biology at VWC, will serve as liaison person and advisor for the program.

Howling Northeaster batters Beach

Richard Hagan of 42nd Street couldn't believe the winds and high water. He managed to brave the howling gusts long enough to snap a few pictures of the turmoil.

Only a few hardy souls dared to take a walk down the boardwalk on Thursday, as waves pounded and splashed up over the pier.

and PAM VANDEVEER

Tommy Anderson of Pembroke Courts apartments spent Thursday trying to repair damage to the roof of the Puritan Restaurant on Atlantic Avenue.

Penny and Steve Andrews of 13th Street paused to survey the storm damage to Shake n' Burger on Atlantic Avenue.

A blistering Northeaster blew into Virginia Beach last week hammering the entire Tidewater area with up to 60 m.p.h. winds, tidal flooding and heavy wave damage.

Vepco reported power lines down throughout the Beach area with over 12,000 Tidewater customers with some form of disrupted power. Massive traffic jams, toppled trees and plenty of water characterized the two-day storm which finally subsided Friday.

A nightmarish tower of sand, water and foam stormed the Beach boardwalk for the curious who came out to brace the effects of the storm. Signs and marquees all up and down Atlantic Avenue were destroyed by the gusts of wind and sand.

Normally placid Lake Trashmore was reported to have three and four foot waves Thursday afternoon.

Emergency stations were set up at Princess Anne High School and Cox High School although no one showed up to use them.

According to Terry Ritter, the meteorologist for the National Weather Service, the storm was caused by a low pressure system moving slowly along the coast. Located just off the Virginia coast, the problem occurred when the storm was pushed into a high pressure ridge north of Tidewater.

Estimates of beach erosion are now under study as to the extent of the storm damage.

The ocean was a ragged, swirling fury of spray and waves as foam was slashed way up on shore, beyond the boardwalk.

Peter Damon and Benjamin Koch of Watertown, N.Y., backpacked and hitchhiked down to Virginia Beach, hoping to do some camping. "But our tent won't stay up in this wind, so now we're trying to find a cheap place to stay," they said.

B'nai B'rith women present fashion show

Shalom chapter, B'nai B'rith Women of Virginia Beach, will hold a luncheon and fashion show on Thursday, May 4, at 11 a.m. at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre, Lake Wright, Norfolk.

The funds raised will help to finance the various projects and programs of B'nai B'rith Women locally, nationally, and internationally.

Donation is $6., fashions modeled will be by The Famous, and door prizes will be awarded.

B'nai B'rith Women is an international service organization of 150,000 members. In Tidewater, B'nai B'rith Women serve the local community by providing transportation to teachers of the visually handicapped, by testing pre-school children for amblyopia; by presenting programs in the schools that promote better understanding among people; supporting the Hill Foundation at Old Dominion University; by aiding the B'nai B'rith Youth Movement in Tidewater; by providing "Meals on Wheels" to elderly shut-ins; by serving the patients of the Community Mental Health Center in Norfolk; by providing shoes to needy children; collect clothing for needy Norfolk school children and by participating in the annual Community Understanding Day Observance.

Women's club to be formed

There will be a meeting for the formation of a new young woman's club to be held Thursday, May 11, at 8 p.m. at the Thalia United Methodist Church Hall, Virginia Beach Blvd. and N. 221st Avenue (across from Willis Wayside).

To qualify one must be a registered voter. For further information contact Linda Ellis 486-5297 or Marsha Copeland 340-1606.

Recycling schedule set

Church groups, scout troops and school organizations across the country are recycling aluminum for precious fund raising dollars. Fund raisers have found that recycling pays cash while saving energy and reducing litter.

The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company dispatches a fleet of mobile units in 45 states to pay recyclers 17 cents per pound for aluminum cans and other clean household aluminum products.

Certain other items, including aluminum siding, gutters, aluminum storm door and window frames and lawn furniture tubing also are worth 17 cents per pound if properly prepared. This aluminum must be free of all foreign materials, cut to length not exceeding three feet and should not be mixed with aluminum cans.

Reynolds mobile unit will visit these Virginia Beach locations during May:

Civic Center (Dome), 19th and Pacific Avenue, every Wednesday, May 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, to 2:30 p.m. Recycling Center, 1455 Air Rail Avenue, 460-0923, Hours: 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday thru Saturday.

Plant-sitting available

The Windsor Woods branch of the Virginia Beach public library is providing a plant-sitting service for persons taking vacations or trips.

Plants can be brought into the library, left with instructions for caring of the plants, and the plants will be cared for while the library user is away.

There is no time limit as to how long one may leave plants at the library. However each plant must have a form completed that registers owner's name and care instructions for the plant. These forms can be obtained at the front desk of the library.

Each plant will be clearly labeled to avoid confusion of ownership. Provisions will also be made for hanging plants as well.

If interest continues, the service will be provided throughout the year.

For further information, call Sandy Throckmorton at the library at 340-1043.

Craft class for kids

The Windsor Woods branch of the Virginia Beach public library system will present a special craft class for young people ages 9 to 14 on Friday, May 12, at 3:30 p.m.

The class has been limited to 25 on a pre-registration basis. Registration will begin Saturday, May 6. Interested young people must come into the library to register. A parent's signature is required for registration.

The craft session will be for young people to make a Mother's Day gift. They will make burlap wall hangings that they may decorate with felt designs.

All materials will be furnished by the library.

The library is located at 3612 S. Plaza Trail in the Princess Anne Plaza section of Virginia Beach.

For further information, persons should contact Sandy Throckmorton at the library at 340-1043.

Civic league holds election

The North Virginia Beach Civic League will hold its annual election general membership meeting on Thursday, May 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the library auditorium of the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue, Virginia Beach.

There will be progress reports from several league committees covering outstanding activities of the league during the past year.

All residents of the North Virginia Beach area are invited to attend.

Learn bicycle safety

On Wednesday, May 10, the Windsor Woods branch of the Virginia Beach public library system will present a bicycle safety program. The program will begin at 4 p.m. and is for young people ages six and up. Adults are welcome, also.

The program will consist of a talk and demonstration on bicycle repair by Edward Rytkos, president of the Tidewater Bicycle Association.

There will also be a film "Bicycle Safety" narrated by Bill Cosby and furnished to the library by McDonald's. The film is followed by a mini-safety test in which the audience participates.

The program is a 40-hour training course for prospective volunteer counselors and speakers. TRIS is especially seeking volunteers who are able to give time evenings and on weekends. Each TRIS volunteer is an essential part of meeting the needs of sexual assault victims in Tidewater.

A pre-course interview is required to register. The course begins on Monday, May 15, at 7 p.m. Registration fee for the course is $25 which includes membership and textbook.

To arrange an interview, call TRIS at 622-4900 Monday-Friday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Registration for the course tends May 6 and is limited to 80 persons.

Woodstock annual talent show...

Dancers Mathew Chapman and Bill Keen do their John Travolta thing to "Staying Alive."

Susan Moreau and Linda Hall kick off "The Good Ship Lollipop."

Shelly Fall from the second grade did a baton routine to "Pretty Ballerina."

Nacher from the first grade wiggled her nose and wagged her tail in her song and tap routine.

Chuck Deloatch acted as the master of ceremonies in the Woodstock talent show last Friday.

Music teacher Chris Stauffer provided the music and direction for the talent production.

First graders Stacey Mansfield and Erin Barry bumped to the Bee Gees.

...finds budding stars of all ages

Shana from Woodstock's first grade had the audience joining in with her song by clapping, stomping and singing.

Woodstock Elementary School held its annual talent show last Friday morning for students and parents in the school auditorium.

It's highly competitive for the Woodstock students to be able to entertain in the show. The school holds auditions per grade level and the three top acts from each grade was selected for the show.

Eighteen acts performed in this year's production with acts varying from disco, tap and tumbling dance routines, violin and drum instrumentals and comedy acts.

The Woodstock teachers displayed their own talents with their joint rendition of "On the Good Ship Lollipop" "There Comes a Summer to the Town" and "Bumblebee."

The two shows met to thunderous applause, plenty of laughs and another year of budding talent.

Jonnie Deleatch, Chris Srafton, Stephen Breland and Donna Vaughan presented their rendition of "You Light Up My Life" for Woodstock.

Missy Brown displayed her violin virtuoso for the Woodstock students.

Third grade teacher Samantha Wooster got in on the act Friday, along with the other Woodstock teachers.

Drum expert Paul Liccese from the fifth grade has a reputation at the Woodstock talent show for his "hot" sounds.

Painting the Beach

...with Eric Stevens

ODU Jazz Ensemble

I feel sorry for them.

The 100 or so people who could've had those vacant seats at ODU Tech Theater on April 19th. Free of charge.

The ODU Jazz Ensemble was outstanding. They served up arrangements by Ernie Wilkins, Bill Holman, and Frank Wes. Their execution was clean and precise. The beat was swinging. The solos were admirable. The sound of twenty instruments was a rare and thrilling treat.

Most big bands would have had 18 pieces, but this aggregation had a sixth sax, and a percussionist in addition to the drummer. Visually, drummer Ron Morrison of Newport News was the crowd pleaser. A Bill Cosby lookalike, he displayed a big smile, countless facial expressions, wide-eyed looks of anticipation and innumerable body movements to convey his enthusiasm.

Another interesting sight was the shade of red Roy Muth (lead trumpet) would turn while hitting his stratospheric notes.

Being a lover of gutty sounds, I especially enjoyed the baritone sax of Mike Broadhurst, and the bass-trombone of Randy Johnson, who LOOKS like he should play the big instrument.

Two Beach residents shone in the trumpet section.

Mark Campbell of Lake Edward is a Bayside grad, majoring in biology, but contemplating law school. Mark is a Virgo, a sophomore and a fan of Freddie Hubbard.

Mike Rancka of King's Forest graduated from Princess Anne High, and entered a Navy band that took him to Moscow, Paris, and London. The Gemini sophomore is majoring in trumpet, and hopes to resume playing in a band that will take him to more exotic places. His favorite is Chuck Mangione.

Most of the credit for the performance must go to a Green Run resident, Marty Pachey, who plays marvelous sax, but confined himself to directing on this evening. Pachey is an assistant professor. He also directs the Wind Ensemble. Pachey's degrees are from the University of Denver. He previously taught at University of Idaho, and Ashland College in Ohio. A native of Pocahontas, Virginia, Marty is active in the National Association of Jazz Educators among other groups.

Due to economics, only a handful of big bands are playing their trade professionally today. Thankfully, the armed forces, the colleges, and even the high schools are keeping this mind-blowing music alive. The "stage band" movement began in Farmingdale, Long Island about twenty years ago under Marshall Brown. When I substituted there some ten years ago I would play records by the Farmingdale High School band that played the Newport Jazz Festival. None of the pupils had heard of the history-making band. Maybe you can explain it. Marshall Brown and the band were known around the world, but were forgotten in their own hometown.

The economics of paying a 15 piece band doesn't hold water with me as an excuse. If people will pay fortunes to see the average 5 man rock group, then 15 lesser knowns (perhaps 2 stars among the 15 players) could work for the same amount. But for this fabulous sound to catch on will take much more aid from the record firms and broadcasters...and more educators like Marshall Brown and Martin Pachey.

EIGHTH NOTES: More jazz articles in unlikely places: Leonard Feather's article on women in jazz in the May issue of PLAYGIRL...Watch for Jeep Bennett's Dixieland Band now playing at the Yardarm on Laskin Rd. on Sundays, 5 to 8 p.m. Let's hope the restaurant will advertise! I heard a terrific Washington record group this week at a restaurant that appears to be making piles of money; disc jockeys were playing records by Tim Eyermann and the East Coast Offering (a very modern group), but I saw no ads in any papers; fortunately I know a friend of Tim's and will tip you off of their next coming; meanwhile keep your ears open for their records...Musicians: keep me informed of your public gigs, and I'll try to plug them, whether the clubowner sees fit to advertise or not...Word is that drummer Jimmy Barbour is playing at the Sheraton Beach with a bassist and guitarist.

ED. NOTE: Eric Stevens is active in the area as a bandleader and singer. During his 14 years in New York he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit, "Preacherman," and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers.

If you'd like a free catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Va. Beach, VA 23454.

Stage Downunder presents "Twelve Angry Men"

Stage Downunder at Scope presents the closing production of its 1977-78 season with "Twelve Angry Men" directed by Marty McGaw.

Evening performances are Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. through May 20th and Sunday matinees April 30, May 7th and 14th at 2:30 p.m. Student and Senior Citizens discount tickets available at $4.25 for evening performances and $2.50 for the matinees. Also available are special group rates of $3 for groups of ten or more.

Stage Downunder is located under Chrysler Hall on a separate entrance on St. Paul's Boulevard. Tickets go on sale at the box office one hour prior to curtain time and reserved tickets should be picked up at the theatre box office one half hour prior to show time. Box Office tickets are $4.75.

The play is an adaptation from a television production by Reginald Rose. It dramatically counterpoints the sensibilities of twelve jury members who are locked in a room to decide the fate of a youth charged with the murder of his father.

"Twelve Angry Men" is a classic, and under the direction of Marth McGaw, becomes a piece of superlative entertainment; Tension reaches a breaking point as the personalities of the major characters; Juror No. Three, played by G. F. Rowe, and Juror No. Eight, played by Bob Burchette, clash head-on.

As the play opens, the jury casts a vote. The count is eleven to one in favor of a guilty verdict. Juror No. Eight has cast the dissenting vote, not because he is convinced of the youth's innocence, but because, as he says, a boy's life is at stake. One ought to at least take a few minutes to consider the possibilities of the case, he reasonably suggests to the other jurors.

Tempers flare as the play unfolds, the jurors painstakingly review the evidence offered in the courtroom, and finally, the masks of the jurors are lifted one by one. We see behind their facades a variety of fears and prejudices which seem to make a speedy verdict of utmost convenience. Slowly, the courtroom testimony collapses under close scrutiny, and the viewer begins to feel a great anger at the apparent mutilation of the truism: a person is innocent until proven guilty.

Quite the contrary, in this particular jury room, it appears that a person is guilty until any reasonable doubt can be established. The play takes almost an allegorical turn as we realize that the personalities in the jury room run the gamut; pettiness; dullness; insincerity; and naivete surface one by one. One has to wonder, while watching this drama, how carefully indeed a jury is screened during the selection process for a murder trial.

The play then has implications far beyond its entertainment values. It questions the entire system of trial by jury of one's peers. It leaves us questioning, probing—it leaves us in touch with humanity.

Other notable performances are given by cast members Bob Supan, Doug Turek, Phil Brickner and Don Brown.

Reservations for "Twelve Angry Men", which will run through May 20, can be obtained at the Scope box office or by telephoning Stage Downunder at 627-1234.

Montrose shines for Beach residents

By Denise Harrison
Special to the SUN

The three band concert at Chrysler Hall Thursday night was "one of the best," according to David Pillow of Virginia Beach.

LaBlanc and Carr and Ronnie Montrose, the back-up bands, played first, giving the crowd a dynamite performance. "Journey," the lead group, completed the concert, achieving a good response, although the first two bands seemed to be lighter.

"Falling," LaBlanc and Carr's all popular song, was played Thursday night.

Tom Manning from Virginia Beach, said, "They (LaBlanc & Carr) were pretty good, although the lead guitarist was repetitious, and the organist, way out of key." Lynn Sivils, who was apparently impressed, stated, "I'll buy an album."

The all instrumental performance by Ronnie Montrose and band stole the show. Montrose' expertise, the phenomenal sounds delivered from the synthesizer, combined with all the other elements of the band had the crowd screaming for more. When asked what he thought of the group, Jeff Sivils said, "Well, the lead guitarist (Montrose) was really great... and the keyboardists were terrific...and drums too...! The entire group was as good as expected, and better!"

"Journey" hit the stage last with a lot of energy and enthusiasm. The two songs receiving the greatest response were "Anytime that You Want Me," and "Wheel in the Sky Keeps on Turning." David Pillow said, "I saw them a while back in concert, and they're much better than before, professionally." Peter Howard from Virginia Beach considered Journey "Good rock and roll...bad band."

The concert lasted three and a half hours.

Miller's Seafood is one establishment that has not given in to today's trend among food merchants to convert operations completely to chrome and glass. The shop has a flavor all its own.

Even on the miserable cold rainy days of last week, visitors to Ed Miller's market, located at 3763 Shore Drive, were greeted with a warm cozy room. The heat generated from a wood-burning stove sitting in the corner, with a rocker conveniently located nearby. The small room is strung with fish nets and floats, and dried starfish decorate the counters and walls.

But the real business goes on behind the glass counters where Mr. Miller displays his fine selection of fresh fish which is stocked daily. Live crabs can be had for $3 a dozen, shad roe is $1.99 a set and a whole smoked fish costs $2.50. The best bargain in the shop is the jumbo shrimp which sells for $4.99 a pound.

If by chance none of the seafood available meets with approval, fishing equipment, nets, tackle and even fresh bloodworms are also available at Miller's Seafood for the customer who still prefers to catch his own.

Comprehensive sex education plan surveyed

Is Beach ready for sex education?

JEANNE SCAFF, Delaney Street:

"I'm in favor of it. Sex education would be very beneficial for children to help them develop into open-minded adults."

FRANK MOORE, Minden Avenue:

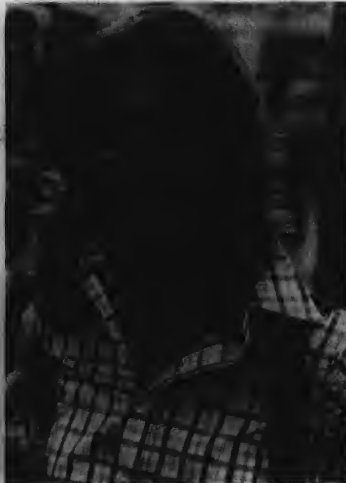

"Some sort of sex education is necessary. Kindergarten is too soon to begin. Second or third grade would be better. Too many kids learn about sex the wrong way."

Recently, the Virginia Beach School Board unanimously agreed to study a proposal by a parents' group to expand sex education in the schools from kindergarten through the twelfth grade. The proposal by "Citizens For Responsible Sex Education in Virginia Beach" requests an expansion of the voluntary "Family Life" program to include child development and human sexuality for all grades.

An informal opinion poll by the SUN discovered that Beach residents are in favor of a formal sex education program in the schools, although some feel that the elementary level, and especially kindergarten is too soon to begin such a program.

The SUN asked residents "What is your opinion of the proposal for a comprehensive sex education program beginning in kindergarten and continuing through senior high school?"

Photos by Bob Bridges

CATHERINE KEENE, Dylan Drive:

"Sex education should begin at birth and correspond to the child's level of development."

REGINALD BLACKWELL, Kellam Road:

"I'm against it for the younger kids. It would confuse them. Sex education should begin in junior high."

SANDRA BLACKWELL, Kellam Road:

"I'm for it. Kids now a days are more advanced, more inquisitive."

DORIS AND RAINER CLAUSMEIR, Thames Drive:

"We are from Germany, stationed in Virginia Beach. In Germany, sex education begins at eight or nine. Sex education is a good thing. It would decrease many problems. Attitudes towards sex are much freer in Germany."

DONALD PRATER, Barlborough Way:

"I think it is good if handled right. Any sex education program should be watched closely especially at first."

CHARLES ALEXANDER, Baker Road:

"I feel that kindergarten is too young an age to begin sex education. By the sixth grade, it is a necessity. Sex education is here to stay, but at the kindergarten stage it would confuse them."

MRS. W.M. TEFFT, Queensbury Drive:

"It's a good thing, the younger the better. Also, children should be taught foreign language beginning at an early age."

MRS. JOHN W. GARRIS, Raleigh Avenue:

"I feel that sex education is a very good idea. It would benefit both children and parents."

PAT WESTBROOK, Pembroke Manor:

"Some sex education should be taught at home and the schools fill in the gaps. By the time children get to high school, half of them know about sex already. Kindergarten is too early for a school to teach sex education. Only a parent can establish sex at that age."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In this proceeding the petitioner seeks to acquire by condemnation the fee simple title to a certain parcel of land situated in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, for the construction and maintenance of that certain public street or highway known as "19th Street," which property is shown and described more particularly in the petition and exhibits attached thereto on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, to which reference is hereby made for a full and accurate description thereof; and for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation to the owners of any estate or interest in the property to be taken or affected as a result of the taking and use thereof by the petitioner.

For such purposes the petitioner will apply to the Court, on the 25th day of May, 1978, at the courthouse thereof, Municipal Center, Virginia Beach, VA, at 9:30 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard, for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation as aforesaid.

And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that the following owners are not residents of the State of Virginia, or their names and addresses are not known and that diligence has been used by and on behalf of the petitioner to ascertain such names and addresses without effect: Carrie Cobb and her lien creditors, if any, and heirs at law, if any; if is ORDERED that the aforesaid "parties unknown" do appear within ten (10) days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and to do what is necessary to protect their interests; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that if any of the above named "parties unknown" desire to assert any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners he shall file his answer and grounds of defense designating the property in which he claims to be interested, the grounds of any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners for the determination of just compensation.

Should any such Party Unknown fail to file his answer and grounds of defense as hereinabove provided, such failure shall not preclude the Parties Unknown from appearing on the date set for the appointment of commissioners nor from presenting evidence as to valuation and damage nor from sharing in the award of just compensation according to his interest therein or otherwise protecting his rights, but such failure shall preclude such Parties Unknown from any other defense by way of pleas in bar, abatement or otherwise.

And it is FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this ORDER shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in the Virginia Beach Sun, and a copy hereof shall be posted on the bulletin board of this Court.

CBN University opens master classes this fall

Armed with "top production experience, communications theory, and a firm commitment to Christ," graduates of CBN University are expected to have a "qualitative impact" on the American print and broadcast industries.

Dr. Don Petry, administrative vice president of CBN University said in an interview this week that the institution will be different from other centers of higher learning in the country because it will offer top quality education of the total person—the intellectual, the spiritual, and the emotional.

CBN University, which will begin classes this fall, is associated with the Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc. (CBN), a non-profit foundation dedicated to the production, broadcasting, and worldwide distribution of Christian radio and television programming.

Petry and Dr. David W. Clark, dean of the School of Communications, appeared as guests on the Dick Lamb Show, a talk show that airs daily on a Norfolk, Virginia television station.

Dean Clark said CBN University's School of Communications will offer students "a unique environment for learning" which will include one of the largest television production centers in the world.

Clark said many communication graduates coming out of universities haven't had experience in the industry, whether it be journalism or radio/television or film.

"The practical aspect of CBN University students' education should be unsurpassed," continued Clark. "Indeed," he said, "there's no graduate school in the country that is closely allied with a network."

Petry said that CBN University is designed to be a cluster of graduate schools. He said that opening of the School of Communications will be followed by graduate schools in theology, business and law to open in subsequent years.

Clark said he hopes the University will produce individuals able to fill roles in the media as "gatekeepers."

"Every station has two or three people who really decide what the programming of the station will be," said Clark, "and there are those on the editorial board of newspapers who determine what will be the editorial position of the newspaper."

Clark said he looks for CBN University graduates to move into these decision making positions, and have a real influence on the "media establishment" of the United States through expression of their Christian convictions and their professional competence.

Asked how that might change everyday television programming, Clark said: "I would hope when it comes down to making the hard decision of whether to run a show that can sell the audience to an advertiser at a higher rate, or not to run it—that the Christian broadcaster might say, 'I'm not going to run it because of the explicit sex, or the explicit violence in this program.'"

Clark said CBN University is set apart from others because it will offer "quality graduate training in an environment where spiritual commitments can be made public and explicit."

Petry announced that the University has already received more than 4,000 inquiries from interested individuals.

"Applications have been coming in daily in good numbers," said Petry, "and we will start accepting them officially this week."

The administrative vice president of the school said that enrollment in the opening class will be about 150, including full and part time students.

He said that eventually, the University will have an enrollment of something in excess of 1,000 students in all of its graduate schools.

The School of Communications will be located on CBN's 200 acre international headquarters site in Virginia Beach. The latest technology will be utilized for the Center and will include two 11,000-square-foot production studios and two smaller television studios, each having 7,000 square feet. These will be among the largest and most modernly equipped television studios in the world.

The School of Communications will offer the M.A. degree in radio and television (production, writing, history, regulation); communication studies (interpersonal, small group, public, cross-cultural, organizational); journalism (newspapers and magazines); advertising and public relations; visual communications (film, photography, and graphics). Minors will be offered in religious communications and media management.

CBN is an interdenominational ministry. Its programs, including the internationally syndicated "700 Club" program, hosted by CBN's president and founder Dr. M.G. "Pat" Robertson, are carried on some 190 television and 130 radio affiliates, and to more than 4,000 cable TV communities throughout the U.S. and Canada. Programs are also broadcast in South and Central America, and the Far East.

It is also the first Christian organization to own and operate a satellite relay station, which is now broadcasting programming 24 hours a day to cable systems and commercial stations.

VWC professor named fellow

Dr. Edmund D. "Del" Carlson, assistant professor of political science at Virginia Wesleyan College, has been named an NEH Fellow.

One hundred forty-five college and university teachers were chosen recently from 678 eligible applicants by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) to participate in its program of Fellowships in Residence for College Teachers.

The residence fellowship program provides each recipient with an award of up to $14,500 for nine months of full-time research and study during the 1978-79 academic year.

Dr. Carlson, who has received a year's leave of absence from Virginia Wesleyan, will study at Princeton University during the 1978-79 school year. At Princeton, he will study under Professor Paul E.

Sigmund in the Department of Politics. The seminar is entitled "The Historical and Philosophical Foundations of American Constitutional Democracy."

In addition, Dr. Carlson will do advanced research under the topic "Ethical Roots of the American Regime: What is the Proper Role for Liberal and Civic Education in American Democracy?"

Council authorizes park in Pungo

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council will soon be asked to authorize the purchase of 100 acres at Munden Point for a municipal park in the Pungo Borough in the southern part of the city.

City manager George L. Hanbury told council Monday afternoon that he would seek council's authorization to purchase the property "in a week or two."

The Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the United States Department of the Interior has approved the total price tag for land and development of $832,000 of which the city and the Federal government will each pay half.

Hanbury, who announced the Bureau's action, said that the government has agreed to pay half of the appraised land cost of $320,000 although the city had expected the land could cost closer to $400,000. Hanbury said, however, that the city would receive the same amount of funds requested, but a greater proportion of the Federal funds would be earmarked for development.

Negotiations are still underway with Gordon Campbell, owner of the property. The city will have to pay any cost over the $320,000 approved by the federal government.

Hanbury also announced that the state has agreed to pay the total cost ($160,000) of the approach road to the park from Pungo Ferry Road.

Neptune horse show returns seed money

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Less than two weeks after Virginia Beach's recent Neptune Festival Horse Show, Virginia Beach got its seed money back.

Mrs. Nellie Bryan, Neptune Festival director, presented Mayor Clarence A. Holland a $20,000 check recently in repayment for the seed money advanced by city council. The understanding had been that the first $20,000 made by the horse show would be used to repay the debt.

Mrs. Bryan said that she had "every reason to think" that the show, which will benefit the Fifth Neptune Festival this year, will be in the black when accounts are tallied by the middle of next month.

Beach native promoted to head football coach

John Bowles, former assistant coach at North Texas State and at First Baptist Academy in Dallas, has been hired as an assistant to head football coach Dave Hoover at Emporia State University.

Bowles is a native of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and a graduate of North Texas State where he was a two-year starter on the football team. He served as assistant to North Texas coach Hayden Fry for two years after graduation and for the past two years has been assistant football coach at the First Baptist Academy in Dallas.

Hornet coach Hoover expressed his satisfaction with the selection and said, "The search for an assistant involved forty-seven applicants and I am very pleased that Emporia State was able to attract a man of the abilities possessed by coach Bowles. He can not only coach, but will also provide needed support to the health education program at the university."

In addition to his undergraduate degree, Bowles also received a masters degree in health education at North Texas State. His classroom duties at Emporia State will be primarily with the health education program.

Coach Bowles is married and his wife, the former Sarah Jackson of Bowie, Texas, is also a graduate of North Texas State. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Bowles, 5036 Maderia Road, Virginia Beach.

Girl Scouts honored

Four senior Girl Scouts were recognized for outstanding achievement in Girl Scouting at the 15th annual meeting of the Girl Scout Council of Greater Tidewater at Elizabeth City State University, Elizabeth City, N.C., recently.

Two officers and six new members-at-large were elected during the business meeting. Mrs. Jesse Allen, Chesapeake, council president, presided.

Misses Kimberly Cox, Virginia Beach, and Patricia Wright, Portsmouth, received the "Buck" Harris Award for outstanding achievement in scouting. Presenting the certificates was Miss George "Buck" Harris, former executive director of Tidewater council and lifelong worker for the Girl Scout program.

The Golden Circle Award, created by Tidewater council as the highest recognition to be given a senior Girl Scout, was presented this year to Miss Jeanne Bonadies, Norfolk, and Miss Teresa Meadows, Virginia Beach. Their awards were presented by Mrs. Edward W. Stephens, former council president.

New council officers named were: O. Frank Kattwinkel, Virginia Beach, committee vice president; and Judith Kane Connors, Virginia Beach, field vice president.

Named to three year terms as members-at-large were Kathy Abbas, Capt. Donald L. Kirkbride, and Cheryl Melton of Norfolk, and Sandra Brown Proctor and Lucy Reed Wilson of Virginia Beach. Den Jolley, Chesapeake, was named to a one year term.

More than 300 Girl Scouts, parents of scouts, and friends of scouting, were at the all day session that began with registration, followed by exhibits and demonstrations showing Girl Scout activities. The morning program included workshops planned by volunteers and staff.

After a picnic lunch hour, the business meeting was held with election of officers, board members, nominating committee members, and delegates to the national council meeting; and recognition of retiring officers and neighborhood volunteers, and the four outstanding scouts.

"Give blood...play rugby"

The party is part of the game

Scrums are when players vie for control of the ball.

By Joan Coates
SUN Editor

They come off the field with scores of battle scars...battered knees, bloody lips and grassy shorts. They shake hands with the other team, congratulating each other on good tries and well paced scrums. As they head to their home turf, their thoughts automatically turn to the fundamental in the sport of rugby...the party.

Rugby parties are like no other. Traditionally, the host team provides the visitors with after-the-game beer. It all depends on who the host team is and how much beer there is as to how rowdy the party will be. Most are pretty rowdy.

A rehash of the game is a rugby party at its mildest. When the party gets going, ruggers of all teams join in their universal songs that no one could ever find on a written page.

And when the party is in full swing...usually after a few kegs...the Rugby King and Queen are honored. It's

Police want more than 5 percent

Residents air two-cents on Beach budget

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

The public hearing on the budget needn't be the "perfunctory exercise" that it is, according to Virginia Beach councilman-elect F. Reid Ervin.

And the few citizens who spoke at the hearing Monday afternoon tried to lift it out of that category. Although the council chambers were full, only a handful were there for the budget hearing. Most were concerned with other items on the 26-item agenda.

Douglas W. Aydtette, police department spokesman, who had sought a 10 percent salary increase for police officers effective July 1 at a session before the May 2 councilmanic election, was back. Several citizens, including Ervin, supported the police request.

Irwin A. Douglas, Kings Point Civic League representative on the Council of Civic Organization (CCO) and chairman of the council review committee, presented an itemized report on how $1,634,000 could be trimmed from the budget.

Council will consider on first reading of the proposed 1978-79 $152,685,881 budget presented by City Manager George L. Hanbury. It includes a five percent reduction on $100 valuation in the real estate tax rate (a six percent reduction) to compensate for some of the average assessment increase of 7.7 percent.

At the council work session on the budget last week Councilman J. Curtis Payne recommended an additional two cent reduction. Each penny of the tax rate represents $350,000 in taxes, Hanbury said.

Hanbury has proposed pay increased for all city employees of five percent on Oct. 1 and five percent on April 1.

To grant all employees a 10 percent pay increase on July 1 would cost the city $2.3 million $100,000 a month for each month the pay increases are moved up.

Aydtette said that the police officer of "all back and no brain" doesn't exist anymore. The policeman carries "more than a gun and night stick." He said that the job of the police officer is different from that of other city employees in that he has to withstand threats and physical abuse. Police officers still "make house calls and in most incidences does it alone."

He said they have to drive under hazardous conditions thousands of miles and last year answered 110,452 calls for assistance. Police officers should be treated differently, he said, because their job is unique--they are the only city employees who work shifts and holidays.

Aydtette said that only a small percentage of the applicants for the police force qualify because of the stringent requirements. He added that the police officer's work does not end after an eight hour day, but that he is obligated to act, even when off duty, in situations requiring police action. He asked that council award the police at least a 10 percent salary increase effective July 1.

Ervin said Council could make budget hearings less "cut and dried" by starting budget hearings earlier and having department-by-department give council synopses of what was changed and why.

He said that the suggestion of Councilman R.L. Riggs for a salary study is a "step in the right direction."

He said that it should include a management study. He supported Aydtette and his right to appear before council. "Before you close down on this year's budget," he said, add another five percent to what was granted the police officers."

Douglas said the CCO concurred with Payne's suggestion to reduce the real estate tax rate another two cents on a $100 valuation -- with some reservations. Future incoming revenues will stabilize and real estate taxes may have to be increased. He asked that the city estimate when that will occur and plan for a course of action acceptable to the taxpayers.

He said that 25 percent of the increase is made up of increased Social Security payments and increased fringe benefits like hospitalization and life insurance.

Post-election comments

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

Meyera Oberndorf, member of city council

"I think the election results turned out to be a resoundingly positive victory for the citizens of Virginia Beach. I'm looking forward to working with the new council with a great deal of enthusiasm. I'm feeling very, very positive and very happy."

Dr. J. Henry McCoy, member of city council

"I'm as surprised as anyone at the results of the election. I didn't think there would be such an overwhelming margin between the winners and the losers, quite frankly. I think it indicates people want the council to take care of money matters a little better and they want to be heard a little bit more."

"Those of us who are fortunate to be back on council should take note of this. I'm not saying this is bad -- I think it could be very, very good. I guess sometimes the deck needs to be reshuffled and dealt again, so to speak."

"Twenty-seven thousand voters in Virginia Beach have spoken -- it is the elected officials' job to listen!"

Clarence A. Holland, mayor of Virginia Beach

"I am glad to have the opportunity to return to the council for another four years and to hopefully continue some of the programs that the city has started and see them through the next four years."

"I think that the race overall was unfortunately settled on one or two issues rather than on the overall progress of the city. I was disappointed that only one third of the voting population voted."

"I'm looking forward to working with the new council and keeping Virginia Beach the great city I think it is."

Cleta Liverman, Virginia Beach voter registrar

"The voter turnout was larger than the registrations indicated. Prior registrations indicated that there would be a low voter turnout, but 26,000 voters was a pretty high figure."

"A vote is stronger in a local election, since not as many people vote in them as compared to state and federal elections. People just don't take advantage of this opportunity to really voice their opinions."

Arthur Ridell, write-in candidate for city council

"The previous record of votes received by a write-in candidate in a council election is somewhere around 50 votes. I had over 2,500 votes. I do plan to run for office again -- which particular office is yet to be announced."

Tommy Drew named as general manager

H. Thomas Drew, Jr. has been named General Manager in charge of all operations of the CHESAPEAKE POST and the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, according to Hanes Byerly, president of Byerly Publications, Inc.

Byerly Publications, Inc. is the parent company of the POST and SUN, as well as newspapers in Franklin, Lawrenceville and Emporia. Both the POST and the SUN are the official newspapers of the communities they serve.

Drew, a 33-year-old Savannah, Georgia native, began his career as executive director of the chamber of commerce in Newnan and Metter, Georgia. Since then he has served with THE ATLANTA JOURNAL and THE ST. PETERSBURG TIMES, St. Petersburg, Florida.

A graduate of Georgia Southern College, Drew is married to the former Mary K. Lucas of Richmond, Virginia and has one son, Tommy. He resides on First Landing Lane in Cape Story in Virginia Beach.

Culinary disasters fill a cookbook

I received a bridal shower invitation the other day and across the bottom it read, "Please bring your favorite recipe for the bride."

I hate to admit it, but I don't have a favorite recipe. I don't have any recipes. Basically the problem is I don't know how to cook.

When everyone else shows up with directions for their favorite quiche, I end up bringing a coupon for my favorite variety of Hamburger Helper. That, along with pancakes and grilled cheese sandwiches, about wraps it up for me in the kitchen.

I'm the only person I know who has been able to burn mashed potatoes. I almost succeeded in pulling off strawberry shortcake the other night, but I put the Cool Whip in the freezer instead of the refrigerator and so it just kind of sat on the strawberries like little clumps of wet cement.

Oh, numerous people have tried to help me with little cooking tips and hints. One friend told me the real Italian way of cooking spaghetti is to sling it up against the wall. If it sticks, then it's done. I tried it and it worked! But when I pulled it off the wall it peeled off the paint. I guess I did something wrong.

People don't believe me when I say I can't cook. Back in college, my sorority sisters used to get upset with me because I would never volunteer to help cook our weekly dinners.

"But I wouldn't know how to do it," I tried to explain. "Oh, anyone can cook!" they said.

So finally I and two of my equally untalented friends volunteered to cook dinner one week for the whole sorority house.

What followed was a total fiasco. We attempted to make Hobo Casserole, a concoction of hamburger and rice. Dinner was two hours late, and by that time, everyone was so starved they actually ate a couple of bites of the stuff.

I can sum up their reaction to the dish by pointing out that one girl was able to construct a beautiful relief map of the United States out of her hamburger and rice.

From that time on, whenever no one would volunteer to cook dinner, my friends and I would threaten to cook again. As a result, someone would always volunteer.

Even as I sit here typing this column, my Lipton Cup-a-Soup has boiled over.

I rest my case.

Gates slow, costly

Town Crier:

I don't like those new gates at the toll booth.

First of all, they are too slow. It's bad enough that you have to pay to go through there but with the extra time it takes now, they slow down the traffic even more.

And secondly, aren't we having to pay for those gates. Why don't they hire more people to take the quarters and thus help the unemployment rate?

Town Crier:

With everyone griping about the price of lettuce these days, I'd also like to have my say. I love lettuce and never intend to give it up...no matter what the price.

As an avid lettuce fan, I've never even noticed the price. I automatically buy.

City selected for tourism award

The city of Virginia Beach has been awarded the 1978 Discover America Travel Organization award in recognition of outstanding achievement in travel promotion, public relations and advertising. The award is considered the most prestigious in the travel industry.

The Virginia Beach entry in the national competition included print and radio advertising run during both the spring and fall of 1977. The advertising campaign, based on the theme "Virginia Beach. Make it a Memory", was developed by the Martin Agency Inc., advertising agency for the Tourist Development Division of the city's Department of Economic Development.

The award was presented at the DATO meeting in Chicago on April 24, and accepted by A. James DeBellis, director of the Department of Economic Development and James B. Ricketts, tourist development coordinator for the city of Virginia Beach.

Virginia Beach won the award in competition with cities, area and regional travel promotion organizations, chambers of commerce and convention and visitor bureaus throughout the United States. Separate awards were given in the categories of state travel offices (New York), travel attractions (Busch Gardens - Williamsburg and Tampa), and accommodations (American Hotel and Motel Association).

The Virginia Beach campaign, which stimulated more than 75,000 inquiries for travel and accommodations information during the year, helped encourage record visitation at Virginia Beach during both summer and fall. Tourist related tax receipts were up 28 percent over the previous year.

The DATO award is the second for Virginia Beach, which also won in 1976.

Beach police reporting unit alerts officers fast by phone

The Virginia Beach Police Telephone Reporting Unit is a new system to increase uniformed patrol officer availability for responding to major crime and for crime prevention.

The T.R.U., a specialized unit located in the Emergency Communications Center, can receive and record certain complaints by telephone currently responded to by uniformed patrol officers. Projections are that T.R.U. will be able to process approximately 30 percent of the complaints presently dispatched to patrol officers.

The individual citizen will no longer be delayed awaiting the arrival of a police officer to take his complaint. A report is made when an individual calls, and is immediately forwarded for the appropriate investigation.

Procedures for the Telephone Reporting Unit are as follows:

Police Officers will be dispatched if —

- the offense is in progress, or just occurred
- a suspect is on the scene, or it is possible to make an apprehension by sending an officer
- the offense is associated with other offenses which cannot be processed by the Telephone Reporting Unit

- the communication officer believes the facts warrant dispatching an officer
- the citizen requests a police officer be dispatched

Telephone Reporting Unit processes complaint if —

- suspects are unknown
- suspects have left the scene
- there is no apparent need for investigation at the scene
- there is no physical evidence or witnesses to be interviewed

Examples of calls which can be processed by the Telephone Reporting Unit are: telephone violations (excluding bomb threats or threatening phone calls), grand larceny, lost property, tampering with a vehicle, petit larcenies (excluding shoplifting and purse-snatching) and the like.

The unit has been operational on a test basis since March 3, and has had full 24-hours service since May 1.

The Virginia Beach Telephone Reporting Unit has produced excellent results by providing a rapid response in urgent matters, and by an efficient means to process non-urgent cases.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Monday afternoon at the informal session of city council, said that Navy housing is at a standstill, and now the Navy is "really hemming and hawing around." He said the School Board built the school but council had to appropriate the funds and has some responsibility!

Councilman George R. Ferrell said, "Let it stay empty. It will be cheaper for us."

The school has not been staffed. Council members wondered whether the school can be used for children in other crowded schools.

City Manager George L. Hanbury was instructed to set up a meeting with the Navy, council representatives and Superintendent of Schools E. E. Brickell.

$2.1 million school stands idle

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

For years Virginia Beach has had problem building schools fast enough to meet the needs of the burgeoning population. Now, the city has a $2.1 million school with no students.

The White Oaks Elementary School, to house 1,200 pupils, was built by the school board to serve the 600-unit Navy housing project at Princess Anne and Salem Roads in Kempsville.

But the Navy, which had planned to move families in last September, has yet to let a unit. So the school's just about finished and no pupils are in sight.

Beach city volunteer program under study by Beach council

The formation of the Virginia Beach City Volunteers Program is being studied by city council.

The program was recommended by the Mayor's Committee on the Use of Volunteers composed of Councilman John R. Griffin; R. Bradshaw Pulley, United Community Fund; Mrs. Mary Russo and Mrs. Dorothy Wood, volunteers; Mrs. Phyllis Hitchler, director, personnel department; and Edwin S. Clay, III, assistant to the city manager for public information and human resources. Clay will serve as secretary.

The committee report shows that 1,472 volunteers in 1976-77 and 1977-78 contributed time valued at $7.4 million while the support costs for the volunteers was $180,608.39.

The report does not include fire and rescue squad volunteers and additional volunteers with the Parks and Recreation which would swell volunteers to almost 5,000, City Manager George L. Hanbury said.

Under the recommended program, the volunteers would be given meaningful occupations and treated like regular employees, the report states.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf asked whether the program would have records on employees which could be used if the volunteer decides to go into the job market. Griffin said that the volunteers would have an evaluation form just like any other employee.

In addition to the City Hall information and referral services which was established and run by volunteers, and the development of special projects, the volunteer placements within city departments range from clerical to legal assistants and researchers.

Of the 17 municipal departments surveyed, 15 completed the questionnaire. Public Works and Personnel and General Services, which did not answer when contacted said they did not use or plan to use volunteers on a regular basis.

In 1976-77 and 1977-78, ten departments used volunteers.

The Mayor's committee recommended that the program be run by a department-volunteer council consisting of two representatives from the six departments using volunteers, one each from the nine departments not using volunteers, and a representative from the City Manager's office, who will be Clay. A volunteer appointed by the mayor will assist him.

Griffin said that some departments do not want to use volunteers so that the program will have an educational problem.

Thoughts of mothers rise on special day

I've had lots of mothers over the years.

With Mother's Day coming up this week-end, I got to thinking back on my many mothers.

First there was my cousin Linda. A pseudo-older sister, Linda took over when I was jumping from childhood to adolescence. As a baby-sitter, she was great. She helped in thinking of the unusual to do...like having a talent show when you were the only talent and sang "all" the top forty hits on the radio. Or telling spooky stories long into the night...and not being able to go to sleep when she finished.

As a mini-mother, Linda was my idol of how it was to be grown-up.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

Then came Mrs. Hall, a friend's mother. Mrs. Hall seemed so objective and wise. She listened with apt attention and could never understand how I was wronged by my brother or my sister or could withstand the wool cardigan I constantly wore.

Barbara was my next mother. She was my employer and was highly impressed by my rapid sure-fire job personality. She wanted to see me married.

Barbara saw great things for me in the world of married bliss and intended to make sure I joined the ranks. She tried her neighbors, other employees and finally her brother, who by the way is a "terrific catch", all in vain. It was time and Barbara was determined to find my mate.

And then there was Joan. Reminding me of appointments, making sure I got all messages and hopelessly trying to sell my car, Joan took me under her wing.

But of all my mothers, there is only one who has been constant throughout it all. Nezzie was with me at birth, through a wild childhood, a frustrated adolescence, a rebellious adulthood and a mellowing maturity.

She was not one of the most objective. She saw the good and plenty of the bad, all the while helping to mold and caring to contribute to what she had made.

She was not one of the most understanding. She wanted the good life for her off-spring, the easy life and the fulfilled life. And she fought hard for what she believed in.

But she was the best. She was always there, whether I needed her help or not. By cooking her specialties, offering her homemade advice, entertaining any and all, and being the independently wise woman that she is, she gave me the insight into where I was going and where I'd been.

So Happy Mother's Day to all my mothers...especially to Nezzie...she's worked the hardest of all.

Beach budget

has said that there is an urgent need to hold costs. If the rate increases continue, the budgets can in the next four years, he maintained.

CCO recommends: three percent reduction in personal services in most departments except for health, social services, police, and recreation, fire, mental health and education savings of $518,000.

reduction in contractual services of 13.4 percent for administration and 9.6 percent in the schools for savings of $513,000 in the city and $103,000 in the schools.

holding $500,000 from the school board budget to the pay scale for the administrative staff in the city is revised or justified. He noted that the schools added a step to the pay scale (54) with a pay range of $20,520-$24,240.

contractual services were described by Douglas as expenses, newspaper advertising, printing, and similar expenses.

Douglas said that the airline competition will make cheaper.

He added that the savings could be placed in the contingency reserve and the departments can be allocated from the fund if they justify expenditures. They have to come before council again. If it is not done, the money can be used to balance the budget next year.

Mayor Patrick L. Standing replied that the lower fares involving making reservations as much as 30 days ahead of time and remaining for seven days, has traveling at odd times.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that council only appropriates money for the school board but is restricted from telling the school board how to spend it. Lavra, said the law enforcement officers were slightly underpaid. He said they were highly trained, they can't afford to lose them, and that the city has an obligation to the people to give them the best protection. He suggested that the police pay scale be moved from the city pay scale for other employees.

He said of being known as a "builders council" he goes out as a council of the people and give the officers a raise.

Holland asked the people in favor of the increase for police officers "where they would like for the money to come from?"

Standing asked Superintendent of Schools E.E. Bell, presuming council cut the budget by a half million dollars, what would be cut.

Brickell said that the schools have so many fixed costs—82 percent of the budget is made up of salaries—would have to be taken out of salaries.

He added that a reorganization has eliminated four administrative positions and two clerks. The schools have fewer administrators per children than other cities.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said that she also like all employees to receive increased pay.

She also wanted to know whether any condition had been given to a three percent differential employees like policemen and firemen whose jobs are all for more of a personal sacrifice.

He gave pay increases to city employees sooner would offset the tax decrease, Standing said.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy suggested another way to save money. "You can decrease the number of employees (in non-essential jobs) by attrition."

Councilman John A. Baum remarked that "you can ask the chairman of the committee to go look for them."

Council is required to have two readings on the budget before June 1. If Council fails to adopt a budget in time, the proposed budget is accepted as is.

How to "address" council in works

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council is considering its own publication—a tear sheet on how to address council.

Councilman John A. Baum thinks both the citizens and council will be better served if procedures were set out on a sheet of paper and distributed to would-be speakers.

He said that assistant to the city manager Sam Clay compiled procedures used by neighboring cities which would be made available to council members. He said council could then select its own rules.

At present, anyone who wants to speak on an agenda is required to fill out a card before the Council meeting. Speakers on non-agenda items, usually reserved for the end of the sessions, are generally sponsored by council members.

Beach boys on the Virginia Tech Rugby Club are: Mark Whitehouse, a 1976 Bayside graduate, Steve Miley, a 1976 Princess Anne graduate, John Coates, a 1974 Kempsville graduate, and Jim Simms, a 1975 Kempsville graduate.

After the game, players shake hands and head for the party.

the kind of honor few live through without their own brand of scars.

Jim Simms, a 1975 Kempsville High School graduate, is a giant force on the Virginia Tech Rugby Club. He maintains that the social aspect of rugby is as important as the game.

"We like to emphasize the social aspect because it's hard to maintain hard feelings with the other team when you know you'll be partying with them after the game."

Like the party, the game is a club effort. For the casual observer who has been weaned on football, rugby looks pretty strange, especially the scrums.

Scrums are composed of eight players who gather in a pyramidal shape. Together with the other team, the scrum looks like a giant huddle.

According to Simms, a scrum is when a "player is running and is tackled and his team members find on him in support to try over the ball and gain position."

"A set scrum occurs after the ball dies in a maul or a ruck," explained Simms. "A maul is when you're standing up and the ball is being back-slipped. A ruck is when the ball is on the ground and the players are trying to heel it back with their feet."

It all sounds pretty confusing to a newcomer, but the primary object in rugby is gaining try. A try is equivalent to a goal in football. The team gains four points for every try.

The beauty in rugby is, like the party, it's a team sport. Any player can attempt a try and each player plays both offense and defense.

"Each position is not as specialized as football," pointed out Simms, who plays the interior scrum position.

"Rugby is a fun sport and I can keep playing it for a long time...for as long as I keep in shape."

The 230 lb. junior originally started playing rugby when he roomed with another rugby player. "I played football in high school and didn't get any offers from colleges to play so when I roomed with Andy, he got me into rugby."

This is Simms' fourth season with the Tech rugby club. They have a season in both the fall and spring. He hurt his back practicing last winter with the team but played his first game this season last week-end against Norfolk Rugby.

The game lasts two 30-or-40-minute halves with no substitution or time out except for injuries.

The Tech team is run by the players with an informal coach and is sponsored by the school. They have their share of ups and downs but recently took first place at the University of Richmond College Tournament for the third straight year.

The 25-35 active members of the Tech team form a nucleus of hard driving power, both on the field and at the party. Most agree with the rugby bumpersticker that declares "Give blood...play rugby."

When the Tech team loses in blood, they try to make up for it in beer.

Mondays or Tuesdays... everyone to get fair deal

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Now hear this!

Virginia Beach residents who have been unfortunate enough to have their garbage collected on Mondays are finally going to get a square deal. They can put their garbage out on Tuesdays.

Then, the people who ordinarily have their garbage collected on Tuesdays, will have their garbage collected on Wednesdays in the weeks when the Mondays have their trash collected on Tuesdays.

Then, since the Fourth of July is observed on the Fourth of July, which this year is on a Tuesday, the Tuesdays will put their trash out on Wednesday.

Wednesday is ordinarily the day for collections of out of the ordinary trash—like tree limbs and such. During the holiday weeks, this collection will be eliminated so that everybody in the city can have two-times-a-week garbage collections.

City Manager George L. Hanbury told city council at the informal session Monday afternoon that the city will start its "holiday" schedule on Tuesday, May 30, collecting garbage which would have been collected on Monday, if it didn't happen to be Memorial Day. Of course, the Tuesday collections will be moved forward to May 31—a Wednesday. Three holidays fall on a Monday this year, but three have already passed, so the city will have only three more to go plus July 4.

Hanbury said that the changes won't cost the city anything extra and all the workers will get a holiday.

Following the explanation, Councilman J. Henry McCoy seemed to be sorry he had asked: He's the one who originally wanted something to be done for the residents who lost out on twice-a-week collections because of a Monday holiday. He hadn't intended to disrupt the Tuesdays.

Now, for all holidays that come after Tuesday, tough luck! That leaves all the residents whose regular collection day is Thursday out in the cold on Thanksgiving.

Now if someone would change Thanksgiving to fall on a Monday, the same system could be used....

Also on the garbage front—Sandbridge will have three-times-a-week garbage collections during the resort season from May 26 to Sept. 9.

The extra collection day will be on Saturday to serve rental cottages which have tenants checking out on Saturdays.

Gov. Dalton to appear before council May 16

The public will have an opportunity to address Governor John Dalton on May 16 at 2 p.m. in the Virginia Beach Council Chambers.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland, Monday afternoon at an informal session of Council announced the open session and a luncheon at the Princess Anne Inn to which council has been invited.

Virginia Beach Recreation Center celebrates ...

Mayor Clarence Holland toasted the first year of operation of the Virginia Beach Recreation Center and the recreational opportunity it has given to Beach citizens.

Virginia Beach residents celebrated the one year birthday of its giant recreational facility in Kempsville last Saturday.

The Beach Recreation Center opened its doors for operation last May 6, with more than 20,000 people having joined since that time.

At Saturday's massive cake cutting ceremony, hundreds of participants joined Mayor Clarence Holland, City Manager, George Hanbury and Councilwomen Meyera Oberndorf in honoring the $3.4 million project. There was plenty of cake and rounds of coke for those who came to the all-day celebration.

The establishment of the Recreation Center was the first time the athletic facilities of Virginia Beach has been housed under one roof. A 200-seat theatre, handball courts, gymnasium, outdoor basketball courts, game rooms, lounging areas, and classrooms as well as an Olympic-size pool fill the 24-acre facility.

The people of Virginia Beach who use the facility came Saturday to wish the Center well after its first year of operation. And amid plenty of cake and lots of entertainment, they were all looking forward to attending a second birthday party for a giant baby.

Hundreds came for the festive cake cutting ceremony honoring the first birthday of the Recreation Center.

The cake seemed blocks long to this hungry observer.

Four-year-old Heather Harris was entranced with the cake...and getting some.

Robb to speak for area safety council

Virginia Lieutenant Governor Charles "Chuck" Robb will be the featured speaker at the Hampton Roads Federal Safety Council Meeting at the Naval Air Station Oceana on Wednesday, May 10.

Lt. Governor Robb, who will be speaking on the prospects for safer legislation, will address the gathering of federal, state, and private industry safety officers at the NAS Oceana Officers' Club. Members of the Virginia House of Delegates and the Virginia Beach City Council have also been invited to attend the 11:30 a.m. luncheon meeting.

Lt. Governor Robb has been affiliated with the military for over 20 years. An award winning member of the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) while in college, he served on active duty in the Marine Corps for nine years before leaving active duty in 1970 to attend law school. A member of the Marine Corps Reserves, he was selected for promotion to lieutenant colonel in 1977.

Earning his law degree from the University of Virginia in Charlottesville in 1973, he began his legal career at the U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond with a judicial clerkship to Judge John D. Butzner Jr.

A resident of Fairfax County, Lt. Governor Robb serves on boards and councils at the University of Virginia, the University of Richmond and the Hampton Institute of Technology as well as the Boy Scouts of America, the American Cancer Society and the United Way of Virginia.

He is also a board member of a family foundation, vice president of a family communications business and executive vice president of the Northern Virginia Broadcasting Company in Fairfax.

Enrollments shift

Green Run High will ease Kempsville, Kellam

Green Run High School expects to open with an enrollment of 2,464 students, but that figure includes neither future growth in the area nor the "senior option."

Green Run's boundaries include part of what is now Kempsville High School's attendance zone and part of Kellam High's area. This means that Green Run will act as a "relief valve" for the overcrowded older high schools. Kempsville High currently has a student enrollment of more than 2,700 and Kellam has more than 2,600.

From the Kempsville area, Green Run will draw students who will attend Brandon Junior High which is opening next fall, thereby reducing Kempsville High's attendance zone to coincide with Kempsville Junior's. Major subdivisions now in Kempsville High's attendance zone to shift to Green Run High are College Park and Woodhaven, Brandon Woods, Lake Christopher, Brigadoon, Charlestown, Indian Lakes, Timberlake, and Carper Navy Housing.

Kellam's September, 1979, enrollment is projected at 2,116 students, and Kempsville's at 2,265 students. As mentioned earlier, the estimates do not include population growth in any of the three school's zones.

The "senior option" factor will also influence Green Run's enrollment during its first year of operation. It allows seniors the option of remaining at their original high school to graduate.

Out of Green Run's anticipated 752 seniors, 214 are from Kempsville and 432 from Kellam, so there is the possibility Green Run may have a small senior class during its first year. Both Kellam and Kempsville Highs can handle the extra load of seniors remaining to graduate.

Out of Kellam's current attendance zone, Green Run will draw the major subdivisions of Windsor Woods, Windsor Oaks, Windsor Lakes, Holland Meadows, Liberty Ridge, Pecan Gardens (west of Rosemont Road), and Green Run itself.

The boundary for Green Run, like Brandon Junior, starts at the Chesapeake-Virginia Beach city line at Old Providence Road, runs east to Indian River Road, turns south to Kempsville Road, veers north for a short distance and then turns east at the northern limits of Indian Lakes subdivision, then loops northward to the intersection of Holland Road and Independence Boulevard (excluding Bellamy Manor but including the new Carper Navy Housing at Gallops Corner).

The line then goes north to the Virginia Beach Expressway and straddles it east to Rosemont Road. The line then cuts straight south to Holland Road and follows it southeast to Landstown Road. The southern boundary of Green Run is the same as Brandon Junior's.

School transportation officials anticipate no problems with busing. New east-west roads are scheduled to be constructed in the near future (false Cape Parkway and Lynnhaven Parkway), which will aid in transporting the students.

TOTAL BODY WAXING

The look this season in swimwear is more risqué than ever and body waxing has become the perfect method for smoothing the skin. Nails Beautiful offers total body waxing for lip, chin, brow shaping, legs, bikini, underarms and arms.

The first waxing lasts 3-4 weeks, depending on how quickly your hair grows. When it does grow back, it's baby soft, hardly visible. The more waxing you have, the longer it lasts because waxing retards growth. Eventually, you will have large areas that will no longer produce hair.

The net sling

The perfect solution for carrying your suntan lotion or fruits while taking that long hike on the beach is the net sling. This little lightweight bag is nothing more than a thin fish net tied in knots to pull together the carryall. The net can be purchased in any import store in a variety of colors. But don't just use it on the beach - take it out at night and give your summer whites a little color.

Women's wear

GOTCHA COVERED

Women's Wear has got you covered in the newest swimwear...

At last swimsuits are becoming a part of fashion. They're not just for swimming any longer. In fact I bet few suits get a dip in the ocean or pool. You're finding them under jeans or topping off a tiered skirt at happy hour. Sweetheart necklines, U-necklines, capped sleeves for the leotard look are among the favorites for the season. From sleek mallot to the blouson cotton suits with french, bay or boy cut leg.

Although one piece suits are more popular than ever, two piece suits are taking on a new character. Some are getting teamed up with saper high cut legs and nipped in bras, while others illustrate the 50's look of the boy-cut shorts and the tie front halter bra in the new floral cottons.

Cover-ups are making their debut as streetwear this year. The swimsuit and matching shawl are probably the best accessory buy around. Ruffled or fringed, the shawl can double as skirt or shoulder wrap. Tiered sundresses, terry jackets, kimonos, big tops and interlock knits are among the best cover-ups to wear on or off the sand.

The colors to watch for are naturals, rust, grape, black, peach and raspberry. Florals, stripes, and leopard prints are the newest in the patterned suits.

Her Place at Haygood has got every figure covered. Selections from all top names, Juniors - Sassafra, Twins, Dippers, Young Missy and Poppy. For the Misses figure - Robby Len and Sirena.

Shown in the drawing is California Poppy in an all cotton natural with french cut legs with the U-neckline - $34.

The terry cover-up by Chantel is perfect for streetwear as well as the beach. The color is straw and the price is $34.

SUMMER CUT

First of all a cut should take full advantage of the texture, abundance, pliability, curl, growth pattern and condition of the hair. It should conform to the bone structure of the face, be versatile and foremost fit your lifestyle.

For the sun lovers, we offer our exciting spring and summer "Perma-cuts" Collection. The news about these exciting cuts and perms is that they require no setting, no forced air drying. They're virtually wash and wear - perfectly tailored to your busy sun-filled lifestyle.

Healthy hair: for the sun lovers, with any type hair, healthy hair is a combination of three layers of inner sections called the medulla, cortex, and cuticle. The cuticle protects the protein rich cortex.

What causes dryness, dullness and the loss of protein? The sun, high alkaline shampoos, hair coloring, and improper treatments. To have healthy hair you must put protein back into the hair with a reconstruction that penetrates the cuticle layer, such as nutri pak, NCA or moistureflex.

In short, beautiful hair begins with healthy hair. We use and recommend Jhrmack reconstructors.

Hair coloring is the second most important part of your hair needs, it must compliment your skin tones, look natural and fit your self-image, and foremost should be done by a professional colorist.

A good salon should give only the best hair care. It should offer cutting, perms, hair color, hair care treatments, testing of the hair and products, consultations, makeup and skin care, and the best professional beauty products available. We offer full service salons.

So come by and discuss your hair with our talented team of stylists and together decide on the right style for you. It's your hair and it can be beautiful.

Teachers battle for elementary title

Chrissy Summers, right, and Angela Reagan, both third graders at College Park, were on hand to cheer for their favorite teachers during the game.

Robin Davenport, third grade teacher at Woodstock, caught a fast ball on first base, calling an out for the College Park team.

Woodstock cheerleaders kept the spectators chanting throughout the game.

A not-so-typical the game was the softball game took place at Woodstock Elementary School last Wednesday afternoon as the teachers from College Park Elementary School challenged the teachers at Woodstock.

Students and parents from both schools lined the fences and bleachers, all routing for their teams. Cheerleaders kept the spectators chanting, leading them in a variety of cheers. Official winner of the game was the College Park team, but the official score was lost as the teachers changed the rules of the game toward the end and began playing "keep-away" with the ball on the field.

Woodstock teacher Betty Ciampoli commented on the great sportsmanship that was displayed throughout the event. "The kids really liked it," she said. "They'd never seen a game like this one before!"

College Park fourth grade teacher Mr. Pisone hurled the ball from first to second base during warm-ups between innings.

Kristin Schuetz, 6th grade; Don West, 5th grade; and Susan Hendrix, 4th grade; got front row seats on the playing field fence and cheered for their Woodstock teachers.

Ray Shackelford, Woodstock physical education specialist, served as pitcher. Between innings he acted as coach and boosted the spirit and morale of the Woodstock team.

"Beyond the Milky Way" comes to Beach school planetarium

"Beyond the Milky Way" will be the May program at the Virginia Beach City Schools Planetarium.

The public is invited to see the program on Tuesdays and Sundays at 7 p.m.

Known facts about the Milky Way galaxy will be discussed and descriptions will be given of the galaxies and nebulae discovered by the use of optical telescopes.

Types of galaxies and classifications will be reviewed by the aid of slides. A brief discussion of three theories of the origin of the universe will be presented.

Also, the unusual pulsars, quasars and mysterious black hole stars will be discussed.

The planetarium may be reached by taking the Lynnhaven exit from the Virginia Beach Expressway to Lynnhaven Parkway and turning right at South Lynnhaven Road to Plaza Junior High School where the planetarium is located.

Those planning to see the program should call the main office at Plaza Junior High for reservations. Admission is

Virginia Beach fourth annual Folk Arts Festival recalls the past, features time-honored crafts

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

If you're one of the many who yearns for the distinctive, quality handicrafts of days gone by, then this weekend's Folk Arts Festival sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is an event you won't want to miss.

The fourth annual Folk Arts Festival will be held May 13-14 at Princess Anne Park and will feature the works of 93 craftsmen representing 12 east coast states. Old fashioned crafts will be the specialties on hand -- many will be for sale.

According to Elaine Phelps, originator and coordinator of the festival, 54 of the artists are from the Tidewater area.

Featured crafts will include samples of calligraphy (writing done with a quill pen on parchment and framed), chair caning, hand spinning and weaving, furniture making, and basket weaving, to name a few.

Or you can observe the art of candle wicking, which is not the making of candles, but is a form of tufted embroidery. And there will be a display of scherenschnitte, the colonial craft of paper cutting.

Also included will be old crafts that have been revived with new techniques, such as macrame, jewelry, wood carving and stained glass.

Complementing the old fashioned crafts will be plenty of continuous, down home entertainment.

Local musician Bob Zentz will perform Sunday at 3 p.m. In addition, he will man a folklore booth displaying and demonstrating old instruments.

Other well known entertainment will be included in the festival, featuring bluegrass, foot stomping bands, cloggers, folk dancers, pantomime players and puppet shows, all taking place on the festival showmobile.

On Saturday at 2 p.m. Congressman Bill Whitehurst will be present, along with the mayor, city manager and members of city council. Neptune Festival princesses will also be on hand to show hospitality to the craftsmen and onlookers.

First, second and third place plaques will be awarded for the best craft displays. Three judges will select the winners. All the entries were screened before being accepted to the show, said Mrs. Phelps.

"We'll have craftsmen of all ages participating in the festival," she said. "Some are in their 70's and 80's, and some are 18 and 19 year olds who have picked up a grandparent's craft and revived it."

Planning for the festival has been going on since last October. Mrs. Phelps, who originally thought up the idea of the event, recalled that as a child her parents took her to many crafts fairs in the mountains of North Carolina.

"Here at the Parks and Recreation Department we're always trying to come up with new ideas," she said, "and so I suggested that a folk arts festival might go over well here." This is her fourth year of working with the event. Assistant coordinators this year are Bea Arline and Lee Miner.

Jan Hart of Virginia Beach will be on hand at the festival to demonstrate the art of spinning.

"Most of the crafts will be for sale," Mrs. Phelps pointed out. "Some craftsmen will even take orders for specific items. The prices are very reasonable. It will be a good place to pick up a Mother's Day gift -- anything from jewelry to flowers," she added.

Festival hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days and admission is free.

Completing the old time atmosphere will be a "country store" selling all-American food, cotton candy, snow cones and drinks at reasonable prices. Bales of hay will be provided for seating.

In case of rain, the festival will be held the following weekend, May 20-21.

Officers wives hold anniversary dinner

The Retired Officers Wives Society of Tidewater will hold a fifth year anniversary and installation dinner dance on Saturday, May 13 at Oceana Officers Club. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:15 p.m.

There will be a barber-shop quartet to celebrate the fifth year anniversary, and past presidents will participate in "Down Memory Lane" - giving highlights of their year as president.

The following new officers for 1978 - 1979 will be installed by the outgoing president, Mrs. Raymond Newman; president - Mrs. Harry Clark; first vice president - Mrs. Robert Baner; second vice president - Mrs. F. L. Beeby; recording secretary - Mrs. L. D. Conway; corresponding secretary - Mrs. Ola Dodson; and treasurer Mrs. Carl Sherrer.

For reservations, send checks made out to "ROWS" in the amount of $8.55 per person to Mrs. William Simmons.

Sun Days make solar energy exciting prospect

Even the children were interested in watching the movies on solar energy. Movies were shown continuously throughout the day.

Virginia Beach had a solar celebration last Saturday and Sunday, in honor of the sun. The festivities were in conjunction with the international observance of Sun Day, May 3, a time set aside to promote solar energy as an alternative energy source.

The Tidewater Solar Energy Association sponsored a festival at the Fox Hill solar home in Green Run located at the corner of Lynnhaven Parkway and Andrew Road. There were numerous solar exhibits on display, including a solar-heated dog house, the first solar-powered recreational vehicle, a solar oven and two students made solar hot water heaters.

Films and slides were shown continuously through the day and there was free solar advice and pamphlets for all the interested. The festival ran for two days from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

David Walker, an F-14 Tomcat pilot stationed at NAS Oceana with the VF-142 fighter squadron, was present on Sun Day to discuss the feasibility of harnessing large amounts of solar energy in outer space. Walker was one of the 15 pilots selected from the armed forces to be an astronaut candidate for the space transportation system.

"I applied for the job in 1977 and I was chosen to be an astronaut candidate from a list of about 8,000 people. I have to undergo my initial training in Houston for two years," Walker said.

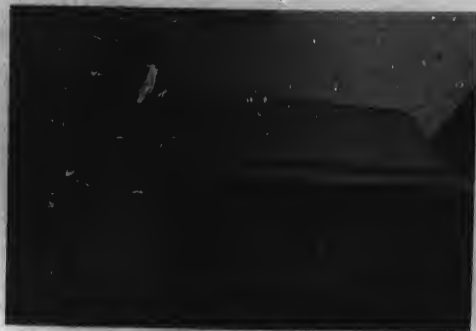

He explained, "they were soliciting astronauts for a specific job—to fly a space shuttle. The main thrust of the program is to make space travel and exploration more economical by being able to bring the vehicle back and making use of its reusable parts. The space transportation system is working on a feasible passenger and freight service between earth and space."

But how does flying a space shuttle relate to the Sun Day concept?

"Well, there has been a lot of talk about a solar power satellite concept. That is, is it possible to put a large solar collector in space and transmit energy down to earth? NASA is interested in the possibility of constructing one. And, if we did, the collector would have to be assembled in outer space and the shuttle craft would be the vehicle used," Walker explained.

He added that a lot of research still had to be done before any real plans were made to construct one because the effect of large quantities of micro waves being beamed down to earth are not yet known.

The Tidewater Solar Energy Association can provide more information about the latest developments in solar energy and related fields. The organization was put together to exchange information and to keep the information flowing not only within the organization but to the general public as well. They are a non-profit group that hold various workshops and have several speakers. Anyone interested in joining them or has a question that needs to be answered about solar energy, is urged to call Kent Morgan at 340-7774.

The Fox Hill solar home was open for inspection on Sun Day to all the interested onlookers. Here part of the solar heating system is visible but not unattractive.

The Virginia Beach Public Libraries tried to shine some light on the subject of solar energy and its related fields by setting up a display of books and materials.

Rick Adams, Geranium Crescent, stops to collect some free pamphlets distributed by the Tidewater Solar Energy Association.

John Justice, sales manager for Weather Makers inc., shakes hands with the robot he made for display purposes. The robot is constructed out of scrap duct materials.

Ian Wright, Deer Park Road, is a sophomore at Kellam High School who built a solar hot water heater and an oven for his science project. He is pictured here with his water heater.

Dave Cannon and Rick Stack, members of the Tidewater Solar Energy Association, explain how they and another member, Dave Courts, built this 4' X 8' solar collector in six hours out of 100 beer cans, wood and translucent panel. They said that they built it to demonstrate how simple it was to build one and how inexpensive it can be.

Missy McCabe, 7, Croatan Road, has her day brightened by an animal balloon from Checkers.

David Gregory, 15, a student of Lynnhaven Junior High, proudly stands before his solar hot water heater that won first place in the school's science fair for earth and space science.

Jim Cohen, dressed as Sir Gallahad, was the knight that welcomed the SUN lovers to the celebration of Sun Day.

Checkers the Clown was keeping her sunny side up at the celebration.

David Walker (L), an astronaut candidate, discusses the possibility of assembling a large solar collector in outer space with Chuck Kincaid, Sandfiddler Road.

Painting the Beach

...with Eric Stevens

Double header at the Holiday Inn Scope

Studio One International Productions has the formula for a successful jazz concert.

You open with a topflight local group, and windup with a "name". You make it a Sunday double-header. Two nights as they say in baseball (5 PM and 8 PM). You have both auditorium seats and table seats, and those who don't mind standing in a bar line can drink, and those who want the "dry" route have THAT option. You hire an alert spotlight man who can follow the solos, and you have a real sound system.

Promoter John Blackwell knows about these things, for he is about to receive a degree in "Music and Media" from Norfolk State. Besides, he's a Sagittarian: a born promoter. Blackwell brought BB King to the Dome, Melba Moore to Portsmouth Stadium, and Ramsey Lewis to Scope. He has presented concerts in Richmond, Washington, and Atlanta. On May 21 he presents the Buddy Rich band.

On April 30 the double-header at Holiday Inn Scope consisted of the Joe Jones Quartet followed by Freddie Hubbard's fivesome. I don't know if local bias entered the picture, but the opening group seemed to be even more warmly received than Hubbard. The Jones boys drew a standing ovation.

I had the pleasure of profiling Jones and drummer Howard Curtis in the February issue of METRO MAGAZINE, and reedman Jack Todd in the May issue. Bassist Benny Beckham, a Peninsula car salesman, should have been included in the series of biographies.

Todd has been mentioned in this column twice recently, for gigs at The Jewish Mother and The Roaring Twenties. Jones, however, keeps so busy on the Williamsburg-Hampton tract that it is a rare treat for him to play our side of the river, although Becky Livas has presented him on the telly.

In contrast to Hubbard, Jones offered a series of instantly recognizable songs: Watermelon Man, Feelings, Billy Joe, Satin Doll, and Young and Restless. It would be hard to choose between Joe's piano or his organ playing; he is a giant at either...a virtual orchestra. Todd also "moves" a crowd instantly, especially when he switches from tenor sax to soprano sax for a ballad. Beckham also displayed his versatility, playing guitar on one number. Curtis, I hear, is quite a vibist, but had no opportunity to leave the drums.

When Jones departed, so did his sound man, and Hubbard's opening song was marred by a young sound man who thought it was a rock concert. Blackwell must've sounded him, for the debilitating decibels assumed reasonable proportions just as I was in search of another seat.

Freddie milks more sounds out of an unmuted trumpet than anyone I've ever heard. The Clark Terry "effects" and the Maynard Ferguson high notes provided variety and expression, but Clifford Brown-like aggressive 8th note runs moved me the most. Hubbard is quite a joy-boy, dancing and clowning extensively. Between solos he nursed his blue-ribbon embouchure with sips from a Pabst.

The authoritative Arien came out of Indianapolis in the 1960's and jolted to stardom with Art Blakey's Messengers (didn't everyone?) He was awarded a Grammy in 1972, and won the Down Beat trumpet poll in '73 and '74. He was prominently heard on the soundtrack of "Shaft's Big Score."

Bassist Larry Kline was impressive, as was drummer Carl Burnett. Hadle Caliman (tenor and flute) has won the Down Beat Critics Poll in the category of Talent Deserving Wider Recognition. My vote in that category might go to multi-keyboardist Billy Childs, who especially dazzled on a blues waltz.

Speaking of Talent Deserving Wider Recognition, watch for separate albums soon by Joe Jones and Jack Todd.

EIGHTH NOTES: Dave Breeskin, a powerful jazz pianist-organist, will play a trio concert on the waterfront at the Omni on Sunday, May 14 at 7 p.m. A resident of Windsor Woods, Dave is from Washington D.C. His father wrote "Hail to the Redskins."

Ed. Note: Eric Stevens is active in the area as a band leader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit record, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show, worked as a disc jockey and floorshow act, and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers. If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Va. Beach, Va. 23454.

FLOUR MILL BAKERY is the largest bakery to open in Virginia Beach, and if owner/manager John Lewanduski has his way it will also be the best.

Located at the Hilltop Square Shopping Center, the bakery includes 1000 square feet of work space plus 1000 square feet of showroom. Four bakers work full-time supplying the shop with its variety of breads, rolls, cakes, pies and pastries.

"Everything is our specialty," claims Lewanduski. "We will honor special requests for ethnic breads, party hors d'oeuvres and any and all pastries."

Lewanduski explained that the FLOUR MILL BAKERY bakes "New York Style" - using only the best flour, butter and margarine, and all top quality ingredients. No preservatives are used.

A quick glance around the shop reveals an example of the selection - over 18 varieties of breads alone: sourdough, pumpernickel, dark polish, half white/half rye, Jewish challah and round shepherd's loaves, to mention a few.

The shop has been open since May 3, and the hours are 7 to 7 Monday through Saturday, and 8 to 2 p.m. on Sundays. Come in to visit the FLOUR MILL BAKERY and you are guaranteed not to come away empty-handed.

FLOUR MILL GRAND OPENING

Broadway hits Cox for the 15th year

Some 50 students are involved in Cox High School's production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

By Joan Coates
SUN Editor

It might not be Broadway, but Cox High School is getting mighty close.

The choral and drama students of Cox will present their 15th season of musical comedy this Wednesday night when they open with Stephen Sonheim's "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

According to James Garrett, the English and drama teacher who has directed the last 14 shows, Cox plans two major productions a year.

"In the fall, we present a straight play and then in the spring we do a musical comedy. The difference in the two balances out by giving opportunities for more people to get involved."

Together with musical director, William E. Boyll, Garrett and students have presented in past seasons such hits as, "Oliver," "Man of La Mancha," "Godspell," "Candide," and "West Side Story."

About 50 students are involved in this year's production which has caused more of a coordination problem than in the past.

"It's a lot more difficult to get the larger cast coordinated, Garrett said.

There is an on-stage cast of about 20 students, 14 in the orchestra along with student conductor Jeanette Rork, and about 12 crew members backstage.

The play was the first time Sonheim wrote both music and lyrics for a single production and originally intended it for Zero Mostel. The plot centers around old Roman comedy with all the characters stereo-typed and stock figures.

"The theme depicts the idea of tragedy tomorrow, but comedy tonight," Garrett explained.

The play deals with a slave who wants to gain his freedom. His young master promises his freedom if he gains him a bride. But the girl has been bought by someone else and the conflict arises.

The assistant director is Bess Hodges and stage manager is Brenda Morris.

The curtain is set at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday night through Saturday night in the school auditorium. Ticket information can be obtained through the school.

John McGrath shares a tender moment with Lori Jones.

Jonmark Stone as Hysterium gives a wild look to Sam Shirley as Erronius.

Mike Russell as Pseudolus the slave, leads John Harvey and Kevin Humphreys.

Bonnie Belle does her two steps for the crowd.

Kay Sanders spreads her wings.

Blue grass music to string quartets offered in music and dance festival

The first Virginia Beach Music and Dance Festival will be held May 18 through May 28. Sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation performing arts unit, festival activities will be held at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center, 800 Monmouth Lane.

A wide variety of groups and artists have been invited to participate in this new undertaking. Each night a different program will be offered with a variety of artists ranging from blue grass to string quartet, classical ballet to African modern dance.

The schedule of events is as follows:

May 18, 8 p.m., recital by Timothy Olbrych, classical guitarist.

May 19, 8 p.m., the Virginia Beach Community Ballet Company.

May 20 3 p.m., the Virginia Beach Community Ballet Company; 8 p.m., the Norfolk State String Quartet.

May 21, 3 p.m., Solo/Greek dance group; 8 p.m., the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation performing arts unit's mime company, modern dance company and "Peter and the Wolf" by the ballet company.

May 22, 8 p.m., Nothin' Doin', Bluegrass Country Band. May 23, 8 p.m., the Young Artists Brass Quintet. May 24, 8 p.m., the Virginia Beach Folk Dancers.

May 25, 8 p.m., the Day Break Singers.

May 26, 8 p.m., concert of early music by the Norfolk Camera.

May 27, 3 p.m., recital by Patrice Sanders, classical contralto; 8 p.m., modern African dance by the J & J Dancers.

May 28, 1 p.m., the Storybook Theatre by the performing arts unit; 3 p.m., the U.S. Navy Show Band.

The program for the last day of the music and dance festival will start at 1 p.m. on Sunday, May 28. The showmobile will be used as the stage. Families are encouraged to picnic on the lawn.

The Virginia Beach Friends of Music, Inc. has endorsed this special event. All performances are free, however, reservations are encouraged. The box office will be open from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. every day beginning May 13. Reservations may be made by calling the Virginia Beach Recreation Center at 499-1281.

Latin students hold invitational olympics

The fourth annual Virginia Invitational Olympics will be held Saturday, May 13, at Bayside High School, 4960 Haygood Road, Virginia Beach, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The olympics are field events for Latin students of eight secondary schools in the Tidewater area. Among this year's participants will be Bayside Junior, Bayside High, Cox High, Independence Junior, Kellam High and Plaza Junior of Virginia Beach.

The olympics were begun by John Crute, Latin teacher at Manor High School, so that Latin students could compete in "athletic" contests as well as scholastic and art and craft competitions.

The events are somewhat similar to the ancient Greek games. The discus throw has been replaced by the frisbee throw and the decathlon by the obstacle course. The eight events are the chariot race, the obstacle courses for boys and girls, the egg toss, the pogo stick race, a girl's 440 relay race, the tug of war, and the frisbee throw.

The Olympics will begin with a parade of contestants preceded by the emperor of the games, Professor Stuart Wheeler of the University of Richmond. Also part of the opening ceremony will be the Pontifex Maximus, the high priest of the Roman state, who will offer the proper sacrifices to Jupiter and inspect the auspices. All participants will recite the Olympic creed, and the torch will be brought in.

Teams winning first place will receive 10 points, second place seven points, and third place five points. Whichever school accumulates the greatest number of points in all events will be declared the winner and gain possession of the official trophy until that school is defeated in subsequent Olympics. Past winners are Independence Junior in 1975, Bayside High in 1976 and Manor High in 1977.

Individual winners will receive ribbons for their efforts, and all first place winners will receive the traditional award of the Olympic games—the laurel wreath.

A special award will be presented for the best chariot. Chariots are judged on soundness of construction, general appearance and originality. They are designed and decorated by the students of each school to characterize either their alma mater or some mythological hero.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge and lunch will be available on school grounds.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS VIRGINIA INVITATIONAL OLYMPICS

9:30 Judging of Chariots and Parade Lineup

10:00 Parade and Opening Ceremonies

Daughters of America convene at Cavalier

The 66th annual session of the Daughters of America in Virginia will take place at the Cavalier Oceanfront hotel May 13-16.

Amelia Spiotta of Virginia Beach, state councilor, and her associate, Charles Shana of Fairfax, will preside.

A reception will be held on Saturday night, May 14 at 8 p.m. in The Cavalier hotel across Pacific Avenue from the new Cavalier.

The state councilor will receive the national officers attending the convention. Expected to be here for the sessions are Ethel Bomer of Pennsylvania, councilor; Elsie Craft of Kentucky, vice councilor; Grace Trollinger of Virginia, past junior councilor; Ethel Hornbeck of New York, treasurer, and all other national officers and committees.

On Sunday night, May 14, entertainment will be given by The Christianaries of the Laurel Avenue Church of Christ.

Business sessions will convene the following morning at 9 o'clock.

New officers will be installed at the final session on Tuesday evening, May 16, at 8 o'clock.

Painter opens show at Hilltop Mutai

Vance Mitchell, a native of Tidewater, has opened a one man art show at Mutual Federal Savings and Loan's Hilltop North office. The show is scheduled to run through the month of May.

Mitchell has received considerable recognition as an artist and has won over 150 national and regional awards. His most recent awards include Judge's Choice Award at the Petersburg Art Festival and the first place award at the Virginia Beach Boardwalk Art Show.

Mitchell's work has been reproduced in a number of art books including the recent "Painting With Acrylics" by Barclay Sheaks. His paintings have been on exhibit throughout the United States and many are in private and commercial collections.

His work on display at Mutual's Hilltop North office is a wide variety of landscapes, seascapes and figure studies done in mixed media. He is known for his mastery of many materials and techniques of painting and collage.

Hours for the show are from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday.

Science fair winners named

Three Virginia Beach students won first place awards in the 27th annual Tidewater Science Fair held April 1 at Plaza Junior High School. The students are George Dion and Frank Kellam of Kellam High School and Christine Milbocker of Kempville Junior High School.

Dion won first place for his project in mathematics; Kellam won for his in earth/space sciences. Miss Milbocker was cited for her project in the biology category.

Other winners were: Carol Ann Weese, second place, physics, and Michael Milbocker, honorable mention, mathematics, Kempville High, and Matthew Hogendobler, honorable mention, chemistry, First Colonial High.

Also, Chris Stewart, second place, behavioral and social sciences, Independence Junior High; Carolyn Painter, third place, behavioral and social sciences, Lynnhaven Junior High, and Robert J. Coole, second place, chemistry, Plaza Junior High.

In addition to these, several awards also were given from various organizations. Miss Weese received certificates from the Navy and the Junior Engineering Technical Society. Miss Milbocker received a certificate from the Department of the Interior. Kellam and Dion were cited by the Air Force; and Patricia Sue Via of First Colonial High were honored by the Virginia Eye Foundation.

TCC bikes ...

Mike Summers, Nannette Birdwell and Nancy Woodard begin the twenty mile round trip from Seashore State Park.

SGA senator Jim Coats and SGA treasurer Maria George await for bikers to register at the starting point in Seashore State Park.

Tommy Dennis arrives at the final check-point at 64th Street. Patti Smith of TCC fills out his checkpoint card.

... and runs for those who can't

Jennifer Moll and SGA vice-president Scott Cummings assist bikers at the 38th Street check point. Lonna Crouch has her card checked while Robert Huntington and Steve Langham adjust their packs for the final third of the trip.

Eighty-eight bikers and joggers braved threatening skies and a chilly wind to ride and walk for those who can't this past Sunday.

The twenty mile bike marathon sponsored by Tidewater Community College in cooperative with the Muscular Dystrophy Association raised over $2,400.

The Bike-A-Thon route incorporated the Boardwalk bike trail with the 300 year old country lane through Seashore State Park.

Food and drink for the participants was provided by Burger King and 7-up. Two ten speed bikes were given away, one to the participant with the highest pledge total, and one from a drawing of those that raised over fifty dollars in pledges.

Bike-a-thon coordinator and SGA president, Sue Hockett, has her bike checked by Bike-A-thon mechanic Charlie Cox.

Michael Marks, district director for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, looks pleased with the turnout for the first annual bike-a-thon. Despite grey skies and a damp wind, 88 participants raised over $2,400 for the event.

Steve Rockkind was assisted by his sons Jason and Bo at the half-way check point at the end of the boardwalk at 6th Street.

Photos by Bob Bridges

SGA president-elect, George Everett, who planned the twenty-mile route, rides off to check out the first leg of the route.

Patti Smith checks in Keith Van Hulle of TCC at the final check point on 64th Street.

Students find modern destroyer unexpected surprise

Departing the USS Peterson, J. McCarron (L), NJROTC course instructor at First Colonial, and cadets end their 2-day cruise.

At the engine control panel of the USS Peterson, Engineman First Class T. Pruden demonstrates the various safety systems of the ship to the Virginia Beach students.

First Colonial High NJROTC Cadet Mike Swindell stands watch on the bridge wing of the USS Peterson.

On the signal bridge of the Peterson, Signalman First Class L. Petrea shows NJROTC cadet Drew Youlls how to operate one of the ship flashing lamps used for signalling other ships.

During lunch, cadets George Valdespino and Tim Howlin listen as their sponsor talks about the facilities aboard the new destroyer.

When 12 members of the First Colonial High School Naval Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps reported to the U.S. Navy destroyer Peterson earlier this week for a two-day cruise, what they discovered was not what they had expected.

Instead of embarking on an aging reserve line ship, they reported to one of the Navy's newest and modern naval combatants. Commanded by Commander S. Chadwick, the Peterson is one of 15 newly commissioned Spruance class destroyers which is currently stationed at the Norfolk Naval Base.

Unlike destroyers of the past which were characterized as small and uncomfortable, the Peterson possesses none of these traits.

Equipped for maximum combat effectiveness, the new destroyer also boasts spacious crew living compartments and other features not usually found aboard destroyers.

The cadets' initial reaction to the 563-foot ship was best summarized by Cadet Mike Swindell, "This is nothing like what my father said it would be."

As part of the 100 students currently enrolled in the NJROTC program at First Colonial High School, the cruise afforded the cadets the opportunity to experience first hand what life is like aboard a new destroyer.

Paired with enlisted crewmembers, the students were acquainted with such shipboard practices as conservation of fresh water and overall safety procedures in addition to training exercises in navigation and small arms.

Established at First Colonial in 1971, the NJROTC program offers courses in seamanship, naval history, navigation and military drill. According to J. McCarron, a NJROTC course instructor, the mission of the program is to familiarize high school students with the role of the U.S. Navy.

"The cruise on the Peterson demonstrated to the students the role of the ship, the functions of each department and the many varied jobs available in the Navy today," McCarron said.

As for the cadets performance while aboard, Peterson's Executive Officer, Lieutenant Commander J. Pearsall stated, "Overall, I was impressed with their knowledge of general deck seamanship."

Adding to this Commander Chadwick stated he felt the response by the ship's crewmembers to the cadets was favorable and said, "The Peterson is the ship of today and should any of these young people decide to come into the Navy, this will be the type of ship they will go to sea aboard."

John Hill of Virginia Beach demonstrates the fine art of swabbing a deck during the recent 2-day cruise aboard the USS Peterson. Swabbing decks has been a practice maintained throughout the U.S. Navy's history.

Tim Howlin, a member of the First Colonial NJROTC unit, stands lookout watch aboard the USS Peterson.

NJROTC cadet Craig Herrick receives a lesson in small arms training from Peterson crewmember K. Gaines. During the cruise, members of the First Colonial High unit also received training in navigation and safety procedures.

Beach council approves city's operating budget

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Like a tailor, adding a little here, taking off a little there, expecting the suit of clothes to fit in the end, Virginia Beach Councilmen and citizens snipped a little here, patched a little there on the 1978-79 operating budget.

But Monday afternoon, Councilman Robert B. Cromwell Jr., was concerned that the budget wouldn't be the right size in the end. He said, "We're charged with adopting a responsible...balanced budget. I have little use for 'seal the pants leg' legislation. When we sit here and make recommendations...Rather than bring (recommendations for budget changes) to the next meeting, get the proposals to (City Manager George L.) Hanbury in writing no later than tomorrow (Tuesday)" so that Hanbury and his staff can determine what effect the changes will have on the budget. He also suggested the council meet in informal session at 10 a.m., rather than at the usual 1 p.m. next Monday to evaluate the proposals.

"I am in favor of tax cuts but I see where New York is about to run out of money again. I don't ever want Virginia Beach to be in that situation."

Council had already approved the proposed $152,685,881 operating budget, a tax rate of 82 cents per $100 of assessed valuation (a five cent reduction) and the tax levy on the personal property and machinery and tools for the calendar year 1979. All ordinances require a second vote before becoming law and before that second vote scheduled for next Tuesday, changes may be made just so long as they do not result in an increase.

Council also voted to hire a consultant to prepare a wage and salary classification plan for the Beach which had its last study in 1968. Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing, presiding in the absence of Mayor Clarence A. Holland, tacked onto the motion a proviso that proposals be sent to several competent consultants from which council, rather than the city manager would select the consultant. Hanbury said the report shouldn't cost over $10,000.

Among proposals for the budget were a two cent additional tax decrease, and various combinations of pay increases for policemen, firemen and other city personnel.

Councilman J. Curtis Payne who was first to suggest a two-cent additional pay tax rate decrease for a total of seven cents cut, hasn't given up the idea. He also suggested that pay increases of five percent across the board be implemented on Oct. 1 and Jan. 1 rather than on Oct 1 and April 1.

Nick Cohen, a member of the Associate Lodge No. 8 of the Fraternal Order of Police, appealed for a full 10 percent increase in pay for the police at the start of the fiscal year on July 1.

Irvin A. Douglas, representing the Council of Civic Organizations, reiterated the CCO's proposals -- implementing stringent controls in departments which have shown the most dramatic increases (over 40 percent); levying a three percent productivity gain against the budget; reducing contractual services for the city by $513,000 and in education, $103,000; and withholding $500,000 from the school budget until the top administrative salaries are justified.

Douglas said he invited council to adopt one or all of the proposals.

Dome Boxing Thursday

Acey fights Pettigrew in rematch

Virginia Beach favorite Bobby Acey will fight Cleveland's Ron Pettigrew in a rematch this Thursday night at the Virginia Beach Dome Boxing as the main event.

Acey beat Pettigrew in April in a sixth round knock out, only after coming from behind in points and taking a stand up three count. Pettigrew claimed he beat count and could have continued. He maintains that he will knock out Acey in the rematch.

Others on the card are John Hunter of Chesapeake in a match against Ben Carr of Roanoke. Carr lost a split decision against Duane Bobick as an amateur and Hunter was six times all-Navy and 1974 All World Service Champion.

Jesse Carter of Norfolk will fight Frankie Crossan of Atlantic City, Charles Carey of Norfolk will meet Mickey Lewis of Charleston in a rematch and Greg Lamour will meet an as yet to be announced opponent. Rochelle Norris of Atlantic City will also fight on the card although his opponent has not been announced either.

The fight begins at 8 p.m. Call 480-3500 for reservations.

Plant a tree at Mt. Trashmore

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is beginning a "Plant a Tree at Mt. Trashmore" program. With the expansion of parking facilities, replacement of trees damaged by the weather and park users, and with the continuing up-grading of the park, there is a need for a helping hand.

The city will gratefully accept a donation of a tree or a monetary donation. If a group or individual desires to make a donation, they should contact the parks division at 467-2027.

Generally, a donor orders and pays for the gift at the nursery and the city will do the planting and provide perpetual maintenance. If a check is forwarded to the city, it will be placed in a special "City Beautification Fund."

Citizen support of this program is greatly appreciated.

Armed Forces Day Parade scheduled May 20

The 22nd Annual Armed Forces Day parade sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Saturday, May 20.

General Joseph C. Burger, USMC (Ret.) is the marshal for the 1978 parade that will move north on Atlantic Avenue starting at 5th Street and ending at 31st Street. The reviewing stand will be located at 25th Street.

General Burger is a permanent resident of Virginia Beach having moved here upon his retirement in 1964. His last active duty station was that of commanding general, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic. He holds countless medals and honors gained through 36 years in the Marine Corps.

Approximately 70 units are listed for the colorful parade. These would include marching units, military and civilian bands, ROTC units, civic and fraternal organizations and several units from the Khedive Shrine Temple.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. It is the only parade of its kind on the south side of Hampton Roads.

Outlaw dazzles Beach fans

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

"In Texas the tough turn to outlaws, like Willie, Waylon and me," sings David Allen Coe on his album "Rides Again." A member of the Willie Nelson -- Whalen Jennings country music "family," Coe sang of his real life experiences of prison, motorcycles, beer and women to Virginia Beach fans at "Country Comfort" last Wednesday night.

A sell-out crowd waited in a line a block long as the doors to Country Comfort opened an hour later than expected. "Mr. Coe wants to get the sound equipment adjusted just right before everyone gets inside," one employee said.

But fans didn't mind the wait. Once inside, the tables filled, the beer flowed, and bikers and non-bikers alike settled in for a rowdy evening of good country music and brotherhood.

Local band "Sundance" got the crowd stomping and clapping with songs by the Marshall Tucker Band, Eagles, Fleetwood Mac and Pure Prairie League.

Wendall Adkins and his band followed with a commendable set that was a definite audience pleaser. By the time Coe joined the Adkins group on stage Country Comfort was literally rocking.

As a person who has spent some 20 years in and out of prison, as a member of the Outlaw Motorcycle Club, as one of the more increasingly recognized country music writers and singers of today -- David Allen Coe presented a colorful image in the spotlight.

Arms and chest bear tattoos, his jeans were solidly patched, he wore a spiked leather armband and glittering burgandy boots.

Serious and straightforward, he sang of rough times and good times and when he was through the crowd demanded more.

"This is my first time in this state," he told the audience. But the reception given by Virginia Beach fans made sure it was a show he would remember.

And if they have their way, he'll be back again soon.

Week-end leftovers in a frazzled mind

There was a tornado brewing last week-end in Virginia Beach but I cooked steaks anyway.

The teacher who cried "sleeping sickness" when fired due to his excessive tardies, is appealing his plight. He says while asleep he can't hear the phone, clock or much anything else. He tries...but just can't seem to make class in time for the first bell. I'll bet a lot of students are hanging careers on that final decision.

Dolly Parton wants to be a superstar...but she won't introduce her back-up band. One driver "in the know" says she is the same on stage as she is off - full of ego. But no one disputes, she's the queen of the discs these days.

The Virginia Beach Arts Festival at Princess Anne Park last week-end was pretty arty all right...especially for a little boy who found the mud more to his liking than the displayed crafts. He slushed around until he fell in, only to appeal to Mama, who was too busy watching the Storybook Theatre to care what her offspring had on his pants.

A local movie house has a contest going on to promote a new flick. If you've been in love and want to relocate that former special someone, all you have to do is send in your name, their name and the last place you saw them. If they send in one on you, a computer will get the two of you together. FAT CHANCE, HUN? Ah, the world of show biz.

Cooking beans, soupy meatloaf and burnt buns on an outdoor grill is no one's idea of a delicious dinner. But even without her $1.39 a pound steaks, Friday dinner turned out to be o.k. Of course, Pete had to jump a fence to get the hot action.

Letters to the SUN

What is sex education?

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

A newspaper is in a great position to do a community service: I do not feel the newspapers in this area take advantage of their position.

The SUN asked several people in the May 3 issue if they wanted sex education taught in our schools K-12 grades. From those 10 to 11 people, you have decided Virginia Beach wants sex education.

What is sex education? Did you explain what the so called concerned citizens claim it to be? What is your definition of responsible? Is it the same as theirs?

My idea on these points differ from their position. And I feel if these people asked, knew what I do, they would have answered differently. I feel it was your job as a reporter to make the issue clear to the people of Virginia Beach.

I was at the open forum on sex education in Kempsville. If you were, you would have heard one of the panel say that the moral values of a five year old are already formed so whatever they teach would not change his moral values.

Another stated the teacher would not have any influence on the student. The teachers moral values would not come across to a student in a discussion.

Impossible, I say. Teachers do influence our children and with a subject such as this, they need to be doubly careful.

If they feel parents aren't educated enough to teach their children this subject, and they do, how can I feel an ordinary teacher will be qualified? They only major in academic subjects at college not social problems.

Our school system should stay out of social problems and stick to academics. They should not be burdened with any more subjects as they have it difficult enough to teach the academic subjects now. Parents should do their job and have the children ready for school with proper discipline, respect for teachers, love of country and honesty. Our teachers can then keep to the business of teaching reading, writing and arithmetic.

To teach sex education, they probably will drop an academic subject to fit it in. They have already dropped 7th grade social studies, I have heard. So what else will they drop, reading?

If they teach family life-styles, open marriage, trial marriage, single parent, homosexuality, will they teach the approval of the unwed mothers and all the rest? They teach premarital sex now. Is that why we have so many unwed mothers and VD problems?

Naturally, they will teach abortion with the possibility of failure of birth control. Will they teach the dangers of this dreadful killing as well, or will it be taught as an approved method of birth control?

Health and biology classes are fine. But do not show approval of premarital sex by giving them the pill as planned parenthood does. Let's instead teach respect for their bodies and that their feelings are healthy, but they should and must refrain from sexual activity because they are not responsible married adults as yet.

If you must teach them something, teach them to say no as this is their right. I feel most wish to be taught this.

Is it enough?

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

It's not enough when there are those who care not for the rows and rows of crosses all around the world. But take the day we set aside to honor all the brave who died and show respect for what they gave with "a dollar $" and "look what you save". To those of you with open doors LISTEN - hear more than money changing hands that's a collective sigh of grief and despair from Veterans buried everywhere.

Rough times abound on the old auto trail

Does anyone have a horse they would like to get rid of? I am about to give up on cars.

This is the month I am paying for car insurance, personal property tax and a new inspection sticker. And this is the month my car decided to break down.

What did I do wrong little car? I have given you tune ups and fed you plenty of oil and water. I've put air in your tires and driven you carefully. Where did I go wrong?

Pam Vandever

SUN News Editor

I guess cars just feel the need once in a while to remind you that you DO depend on them. Without your car you have to press your friends for rides to work and to the bank. And you have to find someone to fix the crazy thing before you lose your friends for asking for too many rides.

I had an ethics professor in college who put up a very good argument for why you don't need to own an automobile. I am now starting to appreciate the logic of that argument.

Meanwhile, as I'm digging in my pocket to settle these latest repairs, I realize I'm going to have to find the nearest auto mechanics class.

Or else I'm going to have to order up a pair of bionic feet.

Boardwalk bike path off limits to mopeds

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Motor-powered vehicles including -- mopeds -- won't be allowed on Virginia Beach's new boardwalk bike path.

City council last week approved changes in the city's bicycle ordinance banning motor-powered vehicles along the bicycle path.

Another amendment prohibits bicycles from riding on the boardwalk along the stretch which has a designated bicycle path. City employees and members of the Virginia Beach Patrol on official business are excluded from this provision, however.

Budget

Councilman John R. Griffin asked whether any members of the CCO attended the School Budget hearing.

Douglas said there is "quite a discrepancy" as to whether the schools had a public hearing. He said that schools will not be required to have a public hearing on their budgets until July 1 and that the hearing was not announced as a public hearing.

Payne believes that services can be maintained although taxes are cut because of financial control.

Standing said, "We would all like to see rate reductions but when we talk about rate reductions on one hand and increasing salaries on another...we're required by law to balance the budget." He said that is the salary and wage survey recommended salary increases, "we would need money to make the increases."

Councilman George R. Ferrell said, "Let's do something for everybody and reduce the rate two percent more."

Griffin suggested that all police officers below the rank of sergeant be given a 10 percent pay increase on July 1. To do this for all city employees would cost $2.2 million. Hanbury said that the cost for implementing the 10 percent raise for all police employees would be $120,000 but he did not have the breakdown for those below the rank of sergeant. He said, however, that such a policy would result in inequities with some master police officers making the same salary as sergeants and almost as much as some detectives.

Standing said it would "cause havoc with the pay classification plan", although he agreed with Payne that a new pay and wage and salary study should be done.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy Jr. said that he was "concerned with the havoc of the pay scale" but "can't support tax decreases and pay increases."

Griffin noting the "emotional appeal" of police spokesmen Douglas W. Aydtette last week and Cohen this week, said the not all police officers are in hazardous duty. "The garbage collector sometimes has more hazardous duty than police officers."

Payne -- "I'll recommend a rate reduction next week."

Riggs -- "I don't think one group is more important than others."

Hanbury said the consultant's survey should be completed in July or August, preceding the scheduled Oct. 1 five percent pay increases.

Hanbury added that his recommendations in the budget are intended to offset spiraling inflation costs and that the consultant's recommendations will "not offset recommendations I have made."

Following the vote on the budget and the consultant, Cromwell made his appeal to responsibility and council decided to meet to study all the proposals at 10 a.m. next Monday. Payne said he couldn't have his proposals by Tuesday, but would by Wednesday.

Turning to Cromwell, Councilman John A. Baum asked, "How did you ever get elected to office?"

Cromwell, elected to council in and reelected times since, chose not to run for reelection this year and will end his term on council at the end of the current fiscal year. His answer to Baum was inaudible.

Mayor Holland visits sister city

Airfare to Norway paid by council

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon authorized payment of round-trip airfare of Mayor Clarence A. Holland to Moss, Norway, the Beach's sister city.

The action was taken after 6 p.m. toward the end of the council meeting. The mayor and Mrs. Holland had left earlier in the day for New York where they took the Scandinavian Airlines flight to Moss on Tuesday.

A press release distributed earlier stated that city funds of $832 would be spent for an excursion fare plane ticket for the mayor. Mrs. Holland's fare and other expenses the mayor and his wife incurred on the 10-day visit will be borne by them.

An official invitation for the visit came from Mayor Bjorn Barag of Moss on March 23.

At the informal session of council Jan. 30 Mayor Holland mentioned the projected trip and said that he would be glad to pay his own travel expenses. The announcement came at a time when the Beach Council was smarting with criticism of a trip to San Francisco taken by several council members, city administrators and their wives at city expense including first class air fare.

As a consequence the city, which had previously had only an unofficial travel policy, adopted official travel regulations. Regulations require that all travel authorizations, advances and reimbursements shall be made only on the authorization of city council, city manager or the department head of his/her duty authorized representative.

Regulations also require that tourist air fare be used. The mayor's trip or its authorization was not made part of any council agenda.

Monday, however, Councilman Robert R. Cromwell, Jr. who had chaired the committee which prepared the travel policy, noted that the city's payment of the mayor's fare triggered some controversy. He said that the city has made the Norwegian Lady the symbol of the ocean front, has an exchange program for students with Moss, and "now there is some question over whether the council should pay for his air fare to Moss."

"Council should pay the airline," he said. "It's ridiculous not to offer to pay for it," although, he added, he knows the mayor would be more than willing to pay for it himself.

Criticism may have arose, he said, because the mayor "at one time indicated he would pay for it and I think the city should pay for his airline ticket."

Councilman John R. Griffin was it was unfortunate that the true significance of the trip would be lost in the controversy over the fare.

In answer to Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf's question City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the fare for the return visit by Moss's mayor during the Neptune festival will not be paid for by the Beach.

The nine council members present then approved the authorization. Absent were Mayor Holland whose trip cancelled his attendance at the informal session at 1 p.m. and the formal session which starts at 2 p.m., and Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr., who had left the meeting early.

The Hollands' visit coincided with the celebration of Norway's National Day. In addition to tours of Moss, and the Norwegian fjords, Mayor and Mrs. Holland will visit Copenhagen, Denmark before returning home May 25.

Moss has been Virginia Beach's sister city since 1971. The affiliation began in 1971 through the Sister Cities International program which seeks to promote international goodwill and understanding through such affiliations.

Moss, which has a population of about 26,000, is a seacoast city. Shipping and paper manufacturing are its major industries.

The selection of Moss as Virginia Beach's official sister city is the result of ties which were established in 1891 when the Norwegian barque Dictator wrecked off the oceanfront during a storm. Virginia Beach citizens helped rescue the survivors and salvaged the ship's figurehead which became known as the "Norwegian Lady." A monument to the incident stands today on the oceanfront at 25th Street.

Court House Elementary celebrates Metric Week

Centimeters are not bugs

by Joan Coates
SUN Editor

A giant spiderman looms over the cafeteria wall screaming "think metric."
And that's just what the 496 students and teachers of Court House Elementary School did last week in celebration of Metric Week.

The United States is planning to switch to the more universal metric system, but many people tend to shun away from using it, noted Dan Parsons, Court House Elementary science teacher and coordinator of Metric Week.

"We wanted to make the children more conscious of the metric system and to have fun with it. It's easier to learn when you're having fun... that's the key."

Everyone at the school put on their metric thinking caps and came up with a week full of activities to make the school aware of the metric system.

For weeks, students were warned that "Mr. S is coming." Finally, due to the artistic endeavors of three sixth graders, a giant metric spiderman appeared on the cafeteria wall. Students then tried to guess Mr. S's height, which ran from ceiling to floor, in centimeters.

Students also tried to guess how much liquid refreshment Mr. S could drink in milliliters... as well as the weight of their principal, Charles Kelton, and the weight of a stuffed fish which hangs alongside of Mr. S... all in grams.

Students were weighed and measured in metric units and each carried identification cards with all their vital statistics. And at the end of the week during lunch, various weights in grams and heights in centimeters were called out and metric prizes awarded.

Signs all over the school bore speed limits and distances to various locations in metric terminology, making it hard to get around without knowing your meters and centimeters.

In the lunchroom, students had a choice of walking 8 1/2 meters to the trashcan or 7 meters to see a teacher.

Individual classrooms got into the act by coming up with their own ideas. One class made kool-aid with metric measurements, one measured and drew metric animals outside their classroom, a kindergarten class made a metric worm and several made up metric poems.

Each class in the school made likenesses of their teachers, which was displayed on their front door.

Weather reports were given each morning over the public address system using metric terms as well as the daily lunch menu. Friday, students had 84 grams of hamburger, 224 grams of tomato soup, 56 grams of cole slaw and 240 milliliters of milk.

Fifth grader Vernon Watts figured out a metric weather clue and found the hidden treasure chest Parsons had been giving metric clues to all week.

By the end of the week, students were knee deep in metric terminology. And when the U.S. switches to the metric system, the students of Court House Elementary School will be more than ready for the change.

Karen Tobala, Theresa Saunders and Lisa Holcombe are responsible for creating "Mr. S," the giant meter reminder which looms over Court House Elementary's lunchroom.

Principal Kelton checks out Ward Farlow and finds him 122 centimeters tall and 27 grams heavy.

Kindergarten classmates help Julia Henry measure Jamie Jones with Marchette, the meter worm, while Rosetta Clemons, the students' teacher, supervises.

Bobby Brann, who is 125 centimeters tall and 26 grams in weight, keeps his I.D. in place during lunch when the correct height called could mean a prize.

Carol Jordan's second grade class drew metric-measured animals on the outside of their class portal. Arnette Pegram, Chantal Anderson, Jeff Ware and Gerald Reid do some quick figuring.

When Principal Kelton called out 110 centimeters, James Davis and Ward Oliver came up just the right height, both winning meter rulers.

Jean Elliott stands beside a likeness her third grade class found in metric measurements.

For lunch Friday, students had 84 grams of hamburger, 224 grams of tomato soup, 56 grams of cole slaw and 240 milliliters of milk.

All Saints Church hosts eighth annual spring bazaar

All Saints Episcopal Church will hold their annual spring bazaar May 20 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. at 1968 Woodside Lane, just off Great Neck Road.

Mickey Redavid, the world champion paddleball performer will be the main feature of the eighth annual event.

Other events will include an oyster bar, Finger Whims by Joyce Coakley, portraits sketched by Alice Vaitkus, a country kitchen, white elephant booth, holiday shops and a two-story doll house.

Champion paddleball performer Mickey Redavid will entertain and sign autographs at the "Spring Thing" May 20.

Making crafts for the All Saints Episcopal Church "Spring Thing" are Reed Eckhardt, Susan Banks, Lin Annas, Peggy Pezzella, Keith Pezzella, Jeff Shubart, Richard Eckhardt, David Carlson and Jamie Lacey.

Area farmers consulted in nationwide survey

A nationwide survey to identify 1978 crop acreages and livestock numbers will include contacts with Virginia Beach farmers, the Virginia Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced recently.

Mrs. Virginia B. Gibson, representing the service, said that she will be contacting local producers in late May or early June for information about acreages actually planted or planned for 1978 and the number of livestock and poultry on hand. All the information will be kept confidential and used only in developing official state and national estimates.

Mrs. Gibson said that estimating this year's acreages and livestock is even more important than usual because of the influences of changing farm policies, the fluctuations of crop and livestock prices over the past several months, and the possible impact of some producer unrest. These reasons make farmer cooperation all the more necessary to the development of reliable and current estimates.

The report on spring planted acres will be published June 30, followed July 11 with estimates of yield and production. Hog and pig numbers will be reported June 22 and cattle numbers on July 26. All estimates are available to the public and can play a major part in helping producers and others in agriculture make marketing and related decisions.

Contest winners named

The Girls Club of Virginia Beach recently held a poster contest.

The winners in the three age groups were: 11 to 14 year olds, Pam Shesler, 9 to 10 year olds, Laura Walker, and 6 to 8 year olds, Terry Choplinsky.

New memberships was the theme of each poster.

What about now?

Yesterday?
Our words and our deeds,
Our worries and our needs are forever gone, indeed!
Yes, gone but not forgot-

Tomorrow?
Anxious thoughts of tomorrow,
Planning happiness, but maybe sorrow,
Hoping to escape the horror,
We're never sure of our "tomorrow"!

What about now?
That which we have is only "now"!
May we grasp it with "joy" somehow!
And, at peace, may we be serene!
Allowing no evil to come between!

Fourth annual Folk Arts Festival

Old World art prevails despite crafty sky

Beth Schneiderman of Presidential Court works on another creation.

The fourth annual Folk Arts Festival sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation was held at Princess Anne Park last week-end despite the threat of tornados and rain.

About 93 craftsmen from 12 East Coast states displayed their wares in the two-day event. Entertainment was non-stop from such talent as the Storybook Theatre, Western Branch Cloggers, Nothin' Doin' Winged Heart and Bob Zentz.

Three judges were used to select the best of the crafts. Elaine Phelps served as coordinator of the event with Lee Miner and Bea Arline as assistants.

The Old Time Country Store provided a well round of refreshments along with bales of hay which were used as seats for the entertainment patrons.

The food was just what Michael and Michelle Beaven ordered.

Michele Curtin and Jennifer Jackson enjoy the playground at Princess Anne Park while their parents enjoy the festival.

Marshall Wood takes care of business for her mother.

The art of making hammocks for twin oaks were performed by Aja Tachal of Louisa, Va.

Homemade furniture and wall hangings are Paul J. Graves' speciality.

Tom Quinlan of Reasor Court displayed his stained glass.

The concession stand was crafty enough for Ed Draper, Pat Draper, Frances Belcher and Linda Ohge.

Judges Jean Wizeman, Jo Serlich and Fletcher Bryant made rounds at the different craft booths at the Folks Arts Festival.

East Coast Jet Ski Association founded

Beach students combine business with pleasure

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

What runs like a motorcycle on water? What offers the fun of water skiing but is easier to learn? What could become the most popular sport since the frisbee and the skateboard?

"Jet skiing," say Jay Birsch and Ray Ellis of Virginia Beach. The two are the recent founders of the East Coast Jet Ski Association, Inc. and hope to promote jet skiing as a widely accepted sport.

"We're starting a Jet Ski rental business this summer in North Carolina on Lake Gaston," said Ellis. "We'll also be holding competitive races down there."

"Hopefully it will eventually grow into a national contest," added Birsch, who says they have contacted all Jet Ski dealers in this area and written to dealers in Florida and California.

Their rental business will operate out of the American Heritage Campground in Littleton, N.C., and will offer jet skis at $6.50 a half hour or $10.50 an hour. "Those are the cheapest rates on the East Coast," said Birsch.

June 16 is the day scheduled for their first race. "We'll have racing all day Saturday and then we plan to hold a barbecue that night," explained Ellis. "You can bring your own Jet Ski or rent one of ours for the races."

Additional races are scheduled for weekends in late July and mid-August.

"We'll offer 1st, 2nd and 3rd place trophies for each weekend race," said Birsch. "We could eventually start giving cash awards, but when we do we'll have two race brackets. We don't want to scare people off from trying to compete, since it is such a new thing."

The pair said their races this summer will test maneuverability on jet skis, not just speed. Races will be against the clock.

Races will test maneuverability on jet skis, not just speed. Races will be against the clock.

Both young men feel that their new business is a good way to spend their summer as students.

Ellis will graduate from Christopher Newport College this month with a major in history. "With a job as a school teacher I'll have my summers free and can devote them to the association," he said.

Birsch is a sophomore working toward a degree in business at Old Dominion University.

The two feel that the association will offer many benefits to Jet Ski riders.

"If we get people interested in the association we'll be able to get riders discounts on things like wet suits. We'll be able to get parts for the machines more easily and we'll be able to promote good places to ride," said Ellis.

"By this fall we hope to have a publication started," he added.

"In December we're going to Florida to talk to people there about the association."

"We've made contacts with the surf shops here and they are willing to give discounts to riders if we can get people interested in the association," said Birsch.

Although Birsch and Ellis can ride a Jet Ski backwards and are able to handle one in choppy ocean waters, both agree that a lake is the best place to learn to ride.

"The ocean is a fine place to operate a Jet Ski on a glassy day," explained Birsch. "But a lake is really an ideal place because the water is calm and it's large enough to have room to really move around. That's why we chose Lake Gaston for our operation."

"There's literally no limit to the things you can do on it, like turning and cutting."

"Learning to ride a Jet Ski is something the whole family can do," he added. "We usually start a person lying down on the ski. When you get your speed up you can get on your knees. Eventually you can stand up and jump wakes."

The pair points out the safety of the Jet Ski as a very desirable feature. "It works by jet suction, so there's no propeller to get cut on," said Ellis.

"The hull is specially weighted so if you fall off, the machine automatically slows down and begins moving in a wide circle. All you have to do is swim in the path of the circle and jump back on."

Jet skis have been in this area for only three years, Ellis pointed out, adding that Kawasaki is the only company manufacturing the machine.

"The ski has a 440 engine and has 27 horsepower," said Birsch. It weighs about 200 pounds and can go up to 30 to 35 miles per hour.

"It's like a motorcycle on water," he described. "There's literally no limit to the things you can do on it like turning and cutting. That's why we think it could really become a challenging sport that will be enjoyed by a lot of people."

Birsch and Ellis added that anyone interested in the association may write to them at 4024 Glen Road, Virginia Beach, 23452.

Jay Birsch operates a Jet Ski in choppy ocean waters, but says a lake is the best place to learn to ride.

Jay Birsch and Ray Ellis say their involvement in the East Coast Jet Ski Association is a good way to spend their summer as students. Birsch, left, is a sophomore working toward a degree in business at Old Dominion University. Ellis, right, will graduate from Christopher Newport College this month with a major in history.

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation is beginning a "Plant a Tree at Mt. Trashmore" program. With the expansion of parking facilities, replacement of trees damaged by the weather and park users, and with the continuing up-grading of the park, there is a need for a helping hand.

The city will gratefully accept a donation of a tree or a monetary donation. If a group or individual desires to make a donation, they should contact the parks division at 467-2027.

Generally, a donor orders and pays for the gift at the nursery and the city will do the planting and provide perpetual maintenance. If a check is forwarded to the city, it will be placed in a special "City Beautification Fund."

Citizen support of this program is greatly appreciated.

Ms. Muschna designated specialist

Realtor-associate Pamela Muschna has completed requirements for award of the Estes Professional Associate designation as a residential specialist at Estes Realty Corporation in Virginia Beach.

Ms. Muschna completed eleven specialized real estate courses through the Distributive Education Department at Kempsville High School and is a graduate of Virginia Realtors Institute (G.R.I.).

Advanced lifesaving class set at the Beach YMCA

Advanced lifesaving is being offered at the Virginia Beach Family YMCA located in the United Way Family Center next to Mt. Trashmore. Red Cross certification can be obtained or renewed.

Classes will meet two nights a week for five weeks with the first class beginning May 29th. Registration is now underway. Call the "Y" at 499-2311 for further information.

Puppets present play

On Friday, May 19, at 10 a.m. the Great Neck branch of the Virginia Beach public library system will present a special puppet show for your children ages three to five only.

The Zig Zag Puppets will present the play "The Three Billy Goats Gruff." The program will last about twenty-five minutes. There is no registration as this program is being held as part of the regular weekly story time.

For further information call C.A. Pauley at the library at 481-6064.

June Lillard is graduated

June Lillard, daughter of James Bradley of Virginia Beach, was graduated from Columbia College in commencement exercises May 6. Mrs. Lillard majored in English.

Swimming set at Beach YMCA

A learn to swim campaign is underway at the Virginia Beach Family YMCA located in the United Way Family Center near Mt. Trashmore.

As the weather turns warmer and minds turn to thoughts of swimming, boating, fishing and other water-related activities, it is vitally important that everyone be trained in the proper techniques of swimming and personal safety. Emphasis is placed on effective stroke mechanics, personal safety skills (floating, "drown-proofing," treading, boating safety and basic lifesaving skills).

Registration is now underway for classes beginning the week of May 22nd. Call the "Y" at 499-2311 for further information.

Pari-mutuel betting topic of chamber breakfast

"Pari-Mutuel Betting -- a Closer Look" will be the topic of a panel discussion at the third annual breakfast meeting of the members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce on May 25.

Two Virginia Beach delegates to the Virginia General Assembly, Owen Pickett and Bernard Barrow, will be featured on the panel with Frank H. Callahan Jr., associate editor of the Ledger Star, serving as the third member.

The Virginia General Assembly passed legislation earlier this year that will place the pari-mutuel question on the ballot

Delegate Pickett voted in favor of the bill in the last general assembly while Delegate Barrow voted against the measure. Each will be given ten minutes on the program to air their views and emphasis is to be placed on the economic aspects of pari-mutuel betting.

The breakfast meeting will be held in the original Cavalier Hotel's main ballroom and is scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Tickets are available through the Chamber's Pembroke office and may be obtained by calling 490-1221.

Gator Judo Club to host annual championship

The Fifth Annual Gator Judo Championships will be held Saturday, May 20 in Rockwell Hall at Little Creek Amphibious Base. Host club for the event is the Gator Judo Club.

The meet is open to male and female competitors age six and up. All contestants must be registered with the Amateur Athletic Union. Clubs from several states have been invited to attend.

First place winners in each group will receive plaques and second and third place medals will be awarded. In addition, outstanding trophies will be presented in the junior boys, junior girls, senior men and senior women categories.

Registration will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. After a rules clinic, the tournament will begin at 11 a.m. Three mats will be used.

The entry fee for the event is $4. For more information, contact Charles Hickman, tournament director, at 340-4878.

Back Bay citizens to meet

The regular meeting of The Back Bay Civic League will be held Thursday, May 18 at 8 p.m. at the Creeds Fire Station, Morris Neck Road.

Interested newcomers are invited to attend.

Tennis lessons offered at Y

Tennis lessons are being offered by the Virginia Beach Family YMCA located in the United Way Family Center near Mt. Trashmore. Lessons for beginners through advanced, as well as, specialty clinics begin the week of May 22.

Registration is now underway. Call the "Y" at 499-2311 for further information.

Hellman's 'Little Foxes' opens at Little Theatre

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is presenting "The Little Foxes," a drama by Lillian Hellman set in the deep South in the year 1900.

Performances will be held Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 on May 19 and 20, May 26 and 27 and June 2 and 3.

A matinee will be held on Sunday, May 28 at 3 p.m.

Tickets are $3.75 for adults and $2 for students. For reservations, call the theatre box office at 428-9523.

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is located at 24th Street and Barberton Drive.

Sand volleyball makes splash at Beach

Pete Nolan from Washington, D.C. and Jorge Suarez from Alexandria pose after winning first place in the mens' doubles competition.

Teams as far so north as Washington, D.C. were involved in the Virginia Beach Volleyball Tournament May 6 and 7 at 89th Street.

Team competition was comprised of three different sets. They were mens, womens, and mixed doubles.

Sand volleyball is an exciting sport that features spectacular spikes and driving saves. California is the undisputed capital of the sport but Virginia Beach has been attracting some high caliber players from all over the East Coast.

The sport only involves two players per team, instead of the convention team of six for indoor play.

Tournament dates for this season are May 27-29, June 17-18, July 1-4, July 23-24, August 19-20, and September 2-4.

During last season's Memorial Day Tournament, 67 mens teams and 17 womens teams competed.

Tournaments start at 11 a.m. each day. Entry fees are $3 per person per event and trophies will be awarded to the winners.

For further information, contact the tournament directors, Walter Fleak at 481-5117 or Tom Clark at 481-4656.

Area rezoned for golf course

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

A nine-hole, three-par golf course will be constructed on a 43.85 acre parcel on the west side of South Birdneck Road, north of Bells Road, in the Lynnhaven Borough.

Virginia Beach city council recently approved the necessary rezoning from I-1 Light Industrial District to B-2 Community Business District on the parcel.

Council also granted the petitioner, Robert H. Braithwaite Jr., a conditional use permit for the course, driving range, miniature golf course and recreational building.

A stipulation that a 300-foot drainage easement for Canal No. 1 to run from Rudee Inlet to Back Bay was removed because the U.S. Corps of Engineers will not approve the project. The applicants agreed to a dedication of a drainage easement which would not interfere with development of the property.

Beach master volleyball team competes without city money

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

The Virginia Beach Masters Volleyball Team will get to participate in the AAU championship match in Dallas May 12-14 with the city's blessings, but without the city's money.

City Council Monday afternoon turned down a request for $500 to help with expenses for the team which is composed of over-40-year-olders.

Harry Pinkus, a member of the team, which came in fifth in the nation in 1974, seventh in 1971 and 1975 and ninth in two other national competitions, had asked for the money to make up the $3200 needed for the trip. The team has raised the remainder.

He said that council gave the city team $500 in 1972, which set a precedent. Council, however, after learning that no similar appropriation had been made during the past three years, didn't want to set a precedent.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing said that he would raise the money for the team from individuals.

Elmore rewrites school records

A Camp Elmore Marine's 12 year-old son almost rewrote his elementary school's field meet record book during competition last week at Pembroke Elementary School.

According to Marine Gunnery Sergeant Robert Elmore, his son, Tommy, shattered three of the school's existing meet records, the standing broad jump, the jump and reach and the shuttle run during the competition.

Young Elmore's winning standing broad jump was seven feet, 10 inches. The distance was eight inches more than the old record. His 27 inch jump and reach mark bettered the old height by four inches. The young speedster's nine second shuttle run bettered by one second the old record.

Tommy, who is in the seventh grade, and according to his dad, is maintaining a "B" average, also won second place honors during the event in the 50 yard dash and the 600 yard run. He breezed the 50 yards in six seconds and turned the 600 yarder in one minute and seven seconds.

If last week's success was any indication, Tommy should excel during upcoming inter-school competition.

The Elmore's reside in Virginia Beach at 4417 Chelsea Street.

High school champs battle for wins in Beach district tennis tournament

Valerie Pharris teamed with Beth Lake as the Bayside hope in the girls' doubles competition. The girls lost to Collette Ives and Tracey Eubank of First Colonial.

The Virginia Beach High School District Tennis tournament was held at Kempsville High School last Friday afternoon.

The winners of the tournament will go on to compete in the regional tournament to be held later this month.

In the boys' singles final, Robert Crocker defeated Al How by scores of 6-2, and 6-4.

In the boys' doubles, the First Colonial team of Crocker and Burns beat out How and Rodriquez.

In the girls' singles Stacey Ives from First Colonial beat out Tracey Eubank, also of First Colonial.

In the girls' doubles, the First Colonial team of Ives and Eubank beat Nagley and Compo, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-3.

Virginia Beach Navymen experience culture and heritage of West Africa

It's as different, unique and mysterious as any travel brochure could possibly describe. From the Northern Sahara, where the Moslem way of life still thrives to the equatorial area's of thick, lush, tropical rain forests, Africa is a continent of many races, practicing numerous religions, encompassing countless customs.

From Casablanca, Morocco, to Abidjan, Ivory Coast, recently some 1500 Navy and Marine Corps personnel, many who are residents of Virginia Beach, had the opportunity to experience much of which is truly West Africa.

For those men of Task Group 21.6, comprised of the amphibious assault ship INCHON, the destroyer SPRUANCE and the fleet frigate VALDEZ, the visit to West Africa began in January and ended in late April when the task group returned to Norfolk.

In every port visited, the initial reaction by the American's was one of anticipation. The first time in some 10 years a task group had visited West Africa the deployment offered a unique chance for discovery. As one Virginia Beach crewmember from the INCHON noted, "The chance to see and visit so many different African countries is an opportunity that comes once in a lifetime".

As sailors and marine's from the deployed units browsed the colorful market places of Casablanca, Dakar, and Abidjan, searching for bargains in brass and woodcarvings, and residents of those cities anxiously awaited their chance to tour one of three U.S. Navy ships.

Record numbers of visitors were noted by each ship in all ports visited as Lieutenant R. M. Galecki, INCHON Public Affairs officer commented, "I've never seen anything like it, people stood in line for hours for 30-minute tours".

While African's expressed a keen interest in the American warships, the men of those ships also expressed an equal interest in the culture and heritage of each country.

Snake charming exhibitions in Marrakesh, Morocco, followed by canoe trips in Senegal, gave many the opportunity to view a different side of the continent.

To visit and experience different countries and their customs is a unique opportunity, and for the Virginia Beach residents of Task Group 21.6 the cruise to West Africa will be one especially remembered.

One of the main attractions during the visit to West African ports was a chance to sit in the pilot's seat of one of INCHON's helicopters.

Beach students get close look at competitive fashion industry in New York

"The fashion industry is not all glamour and excitement..." "It's probably one of the most demanding, hectic and competitive businesses you can get into..."

"Sure, it's competitive, but you can move up fairly fast if you work hard, remain flexible and make the right contacts in the industry."

were among the impressions of 30 Virginia Tech apparel design and fashion merchandising students who participated in the 11th annual New York Fashion Study Tour. Kathleen A. Metzger and Deborah L. Harrel were among the participating students.

The trip to the nation's fashion capital is part of an independent study course in Tech's department of clothing, textiles and related art (CTRA). The tour's purpose was to increase the student's understanding of the interrelationships among creation, production, distribution and promotion of fiber, fabrics and apparel.

The tour also was designed to give students an opportunity to observe and analyze fall fashion trends firsthand and to increase their awareness of competition, speed, flexibility and communication channels in the industry, said Elna F. Tozier, Kltty G. Dickerson, assistant professor of CTRA and co-coordinator, added that students got a feeling for the need to predict future trends and for the wide variety of fashion careers. From discussions with Tech alumnae and others in fashion-related jobs, the students learned about both entry-level and more advanced jobs in the field.

The students noted the close working relationships between retail store buyers and textile and apparel manufacturers, as well as the cooperation between manufacturers and fashion magazines.

Among the businesses the group visited were J.C. Penny Co., B. Altman, Celanese Corp., Jerry Brown's Fabric Imports, Glamour magazine and Fairchild Publishing's book division.

The tour included a behind-the-scenes look at the historic costume collection and the costume storage area at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The cataloging system is the same as that used in the historic costume collection in Tech's CTRA department.

While in New York, the group was host to several Tech alumnae from the CTRA department at a reception and dinner. The alumnae, all now employed in the fashion industry, talked with students about careers, the living situation, financial development and personal adjustments required by the work.

Defendants. ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In this proceeding the petitioner seeks to acquire by condemnation the fee simple title to a certain parcel of land situated in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, for the construction and maintenance of that certain public street or highway known as "19th Street," which property is shown and described more particularly in the petition and exhibits attached thereto on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court, to which reference is hereby made for a full and accurate description thereof; and for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation to the owners of any estate or interest in the property to be taken or affected as a result of the taking and use thereof by the petitioner.

For such purposes the petitioner will apply to the Court, on the 25th day of May, 1978, at the courthouse thereof, Municipal Center, Virginia Beach, VA, at 9:30 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard, for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain just compensation as aforesaid.

And it appearing by affidavit filed according to law that the following owners are not residents of the State of Virginia, or their names and addresses are not known and that diligence has been used by and on behalf of the petitioner to ascertain such names and addresses without effect: Carrie Cobb and her lien creditors, if any, and heirs at law, if any; it is ORDERED that the aforesaid "parties unknown" do appear within ten (10) days after due publication of this order in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and to do what is necessary to protect their interests; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that if any of the above named "parties unknown," desire to assert any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners he shall file his answer and grounds of defense designating the property in which he claims to be interested, the grounds of any objection or defense to the taking or damaging of his property or to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the case and to proceed with the appointment of commissioners for the determination of just compensation.

Should any such Party Unknown fail to file his answer and grounds of defense as hereinabove provided, such failure shall not preclude the Parties Unknown from appearing on the date set for the appointment of commissioners nor from presenting evidence as to valuation and damage nor from sharing in the award of just compensation according to his interest therein or otherwise protecting his rights, but such failure shall preclude such Parties Unknown from any other defense by way of pleas in bar, abatement or otherwise.

And it is FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this ORDER shall be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in the Virginia Beach Sun, and a copy hereof shall be posted on the bulletin board of this Court.

Virginia Wesleyan College has a new soccer and tennis coach.

Leonard K. Long, 24, former All-Pennsylvania collegiate soccer player and later assistant soccer coach at national soccer power Lock Haven State College in Pennsylvania, will assume his duties in August.

Long, a native of Levittown, Penn., graduated in 1975 from Lock Haven State College with a bachelor's degree in health and physical education. In 1976, he received a master's of education degree in health and physical education from Trenton State College.

At Virginia Wesleyan, Long will also have an academic appointment as instructor in physical education in the Department of Physical Education and Leisure Services.

At Lock Haven State, Long earned varsity letters in soccer for four years and was co-captain his senior year when Lock Haven advanced to the national quarter-finals in 1974 (NCAA Division III). While playing soccer, Long was named to All-Conference, All-Pennsylvania, and All-Western Pennsylvania All-Star teams.

Long played on the varsity tennis team at Lock Haven State for three years, and served as head women's tennis coach at Pennsylvania's Seion Hill College in 1977.

Long describes his coaching philosophy in two words—instruction and enthusiasm. "Coaching demands not only a knowledge of the sport, but the eagerness to teach young men and women," he says. "I also have an enthusiastic approach toward life, and I believe this serves as an incentive among the athletes."

As soccer coach, Long replaces William W. Davis who resigned in December to pursue a doctorate at the University of Maryland. The Blue Marlin Soccer team has won two consecutive Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference titles, and finished this past fall with a 8-7-1 overall record. The five non-conference losses were all by one goal margins—primarily to NCAA Division I and II teams. VWC is a member of the NCAA Division III.

As tennis coach, Long is replacing Howard D. Mast who is leaving the college at the end of this academic year. Mast has been tennis coach since the first team was organized in 1968. The tennis team had an overall record of 2-14 this past spring.

Prior to this academic year, Mast also served as superintendent of buildings and grounds. He has served as women's basketball coach and taught in the physical education department. A former director of the City of Suffolk Recreation Program, Mast has been associated with the college since its opening in 1966.

Psychiatric Institute sponsors symposium

Tidewater Psychiatric Institute will sponsor its seventh symposium Thursday, May 25 and Friday, May 26. The theme of the one and a half day symposium is "Family Therapy: A Close Encounter."

Featured speakers include two renowned family therapy specialists, Ian Alger, M.D., and James L. Framo, Ph.D. Dr. Alger is a family therapist on the faculty of Bronx Psychiatric Center, and is also a training and supervising psychoanalyst at

New York Medical College. Dr. Framo is a professor of psychology at Temple University and a faculty member of the Family Institute of Philadelphia.

Both therapists will combine a theoretical and live demonstration approach. They will conduct interviews with couples, individuals, a family of origin and a nuclear family.

The registration fee is $35. For additional information and registration forms, contact Joan Marmorato, 481-1211.

Calling all actors for a "Pajama Game"

Little Theatre of Virginia Beach announces tryouts for its upcoming production of "Pajama Game." Tryouts will be held Sunday, May 21, at 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., and Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The musical comedy requires about 30 actors and actresses, ages 21 to 45, including a chorus. All roles are available. An accompanist will be provided; however, those singing are asked to bring a prepared musical selection.

"Pajama Game" will open June 30 and run through Aug. 12 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with a Sunday matinee on July 9.

Director Steve Malik requests that persons wishing to take part in the play's orchestra and crew also come to auditions. Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is located at 24th Street and Barberton Drive in Virginia Beach.

Social Security Administration

Your number's up

By Harvey J. Ridinger
Field Representative

Times have changed. Previously if a person was getting a social security card for the first time, or needed a duplicate card to replace one lost or to show a new name, they just dropped by their nearest social security office and obtained one in a matter of minutes.

In these complex times new procedures have been put into effect to help protect the applicants social security record, to make sure that it was not only accurate but to prevent anyone else from misusing or otherwise abusing the person's social security number.

Now, when people apply for a new card, they must submit evidence of their age, identity and U.S. citizenship or lawful admission status. To obtain a duplicate they must submit evidence of their identity and their applications will be checked against the records at social security headquarters.

Evidence of identity should include documentation which shows the person's picture, signature, date of birth or age or other identifying information. The best evidence of a person's age and citizenship is a birth certificate, although other evidence can be used. Persons not born in the U.S. should present immigration documents showing lawful admittance to the U.S.

In addition, a person 18 or over who is applying for a number for the first time, must apply in person.

Obviously, this procedure takes a lot more time than the old one did. In fact, it will take about 4 weeks to issue the number and deliver the card - after you have submitted the necessary evidence.

So if you are looking for a job and are going to need that card, you should come in today and apply for it.

The Norfolk social security office is located at 3661 E. Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Church sponsors services

Enterprise Baptist Church will again sponsor "Come as you are," Sunday lakeside services at American Heritage Campground and Eaton's Ferry Marina on Lake Gaston at Littleton, North Carolina, through Labor Day Weekend, at 9:30 a.m.

We also have regular worship at our church on Eaton's Ferry Road each Sunday at 11 a.m. We cordially invite and encourage anyone at the lake on weekends to join with us in worship.

Shades of old Roman games bring Beach...

Bayside High's David Rhodes couldn't wait to don his shoes after helping in the joint effort to win first place in the chariot race.

Plaza Junior's tug-of-war team attribute all their first place success to their Latin teacher, Mrs. Bornelsen. Winning over Independence Junior was Bill Gillis, Gina Galvante, Milanie Llovin, Kim Ledford, Randy Fox, Tracie Ashenfelter, Sean Crill and Julie Wesley.

Manor High's favorite son took first place in the boys obstacle course.

It was sheer jubilation for Plaza Junior High School students when Mary Ann McChesney won first place in the girls' obstacle course.

Hanging on tight is Julie Wesley and Randy Fox.

Carolyn Porter held tight to the Bayside High reigns in the chariot race.

Referees Lorraine Gutherthuth and John Crute check the time.

Touching the sides of the tires going in is a five-second penalty and competitors watched as they glided.

...the Virginia Invitational Olympics

Sheryl Artis of Waters Junior High readys her pogo stick just before take off.

Latin students of area high schools came together last Saturday for a day of Olympic games in the fourth annual Virginia Invitational Olympics held at Bayside High School.

Manor High School took top honors in the day-long event, which featured field events somewhat similar to the ancient Greek games. Events included a frisbee throw, egg toss, tug-of-war, obstacle course and chariot race.

The games were begun by John Crute, Latin teacher at Manor High School so that Latin students could compete in athletic contests as well as scholastic, art and craft competitions.

Participating in this year's games were Plaza Junior High, Independence Junior High, Waters Junior High, Bayside Junior High, Bayside High, Cox High and Manor High.

Kellam High's chariot team finished in third place, missing second by a judge's decision.

Shades of old Rome... and the chariots were off.

Lorrie Garber takes off in a flash to start the Cox girls relay team on the road to success.

Annual art show presented

The Virginia Beach city public schools will hold the annual student art show at Pembroke Mall through May 20.

The exhibit will include the work of elementary, junior high and high school students from all schools in Virginia Beach.

Judging the show for the junior high and high school levels will be Anthony Radich, administrator, director of the Virginia Beach Arts Center. Awards are donated each year by the Hermitage foundation.

A special event will take place in conjunction with the art show this year. "Artists in Action" -- a program of demonstrations of art techniques by students -- will be presented from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on May 20 at Pembroke Mall.

Beach artist exhibits at war museum

Virginia Beach artist Bill Summerlin of Indian River Road, has had his painting, "Midnight At Guadalcanal," accepted for permanent exhibition in the Guadalcanal Campaign War Memorial Museum on the Solomon Islands.

Summerlin who is registered with the Virginia Commission for the Blind, has only 20 percent vision in one eye. He will represent Virginia in the National Exhibit of Art by the Blind this year at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

The Guadalcanal painting is the fourth of Summerlin's works to be selected for permanent exhibition in museums. Locally his work is currently displayed at the Art Cove in Kempsville Plaza.

Gatsby site of "Breathe Easy"

The Virginia Beach and Norfolk Board of Directors for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation presented a "Gatsby Breathe Easy" at the Great Gatsby Restaurant recently.

The brunch-fashion show, hosted by honorary chairman Mike Deason, raised $1,800 towards the purchase of a pulmonary function testing machine for the Clinic for Respiratory Diseases at the King's Daughters Children's Hospital.

Area stores donated clothing worn by volunteer models Brenda Wood, Maureen Sader, Anne Ege, Sheryl Vann, Marlene Nage and Kelly Thumel. The clothes were auctioned off by Mike Deason who insisted he was "no fashion coordinator."

The restaurant service, complete with food, wine and piano player, was donated by Roy Bagley, a Cystic Fibrosis board member.

Byler takes Jaycee award

The national organization of Jaycees has announced that Gary Clarence Byler is the recipient of the "Outstanding Young Man" award for 1978. This is the second consecutive year that Gary has received this award.

Byler, son of Virginia Byler and Clarence Byler of Virginia Beach, is a dean's list student at Georgetown University.

Gary Byler is also chairman of the Southern Area College Republicans and a candidate for the Rhodes Scholarship.

Announcing GREAT new place to RAISE CANE also Land that's Not hard to BEET.

A growing country needs lots of growing things. Like sugar for food. Cotton for clothing. Even trees for lumber.

And the South was a perfect place to raise just about anything. With acres of fertile land and warm sunshine.

Feeding the hungry industrial regions to the north, the South helped make a new and struggling country grow strong and prosperous.

Today, America keeps getting stronger every day. Thanks to over 9 1/2 million Americans taking stock in their country by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

They know that as they're working for their future, their Bonds are working hard for America's future, too.

So, buy U.S. Savings Bonds through your Payroll Savings Plan.

Whether you're growing vegetables or a family, they're a great way to live.

Series E Bonds pay 4% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/4% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Celebrate Life with Dixieland Jazz

"Celebrate! Celebrate! Listen to the music!"

That's how a recent rock hit begins. Dixieland and rock have much in common: a driving beat, a happy sound, a strong influence of the blues, and sometimes considerable volume. Both are conducive to partying.

For some reason, Dixieland only makes it on Sundays in this area. It should be available nightly. But Sunday IS appropriate, for this music celebrates LIFE just as many people celebrate life on Sunday mornings.

Much of jazz' beginnings were in church (gospel music) or at "religious" activities such as funerals. The band would walk sadly as it marched to a New Orleans funeral, and then would play joyous hymns afterward (Just a Closer Walk With Thee, When the Saints Go Marching In).

So if you are in need of musical therapy, make it to the Yardarm on Sundays from 5-8 p.m. to hear Jeep Bennett's Dixieland Band. In fact, one of their songs is called Doctor Jazz, which indicates the healing qualities of the music.

The Yardarm is on the north side of Laskin Road, a few blocks from the Ocean. It has ample parking out back, and an atmosphere that goes with seafood or Dixieland.

The seed that led to the birth of this column over a year ago was Jeep's music... trad (traditional) as the British would say. I have in my "In Case Of Death" file instructions that a Dixieland band is to play at my funeral, thanks to their inspiration.

There have been a few changes in Jeep's group in the past year. Irreplaceable banjoist Vernon Piland has joined the band of angels. So has bassist Alton Smith. Trumpeter Tommy Archerd has returned to active duty: Billy Mitchell now plays ELECTRIC piano.

But that indescribably happy SOUND is still there. The sound of trumpet, clarinet, and trombone interweaving joyously over a swinging rhythm section of piano, bass, and drums. And after their stretch in the Mace City, we're glad to have them back. Thanks to Daylight Saving Time, they play while the Virginia Beach SUN still shines.

Leader Norman Bennett is a Leo who lives at Sandbridge. He literally jumps for joy while playing clarinet... and makes you want to do the same.

Trumpeter Ronnie Hallman is a lawyer... Pises I believe... whose bell-like tone and liquid phrasing have been pleasing Tidewaterites for nearly two decades. He is a William and Mary grad. Pardon me, Women's Lib... Mary and William.

He and trombonist Al Morris go back to Granby

High together as original members of the Chesapeake Bay Bearcats. Al also sings and clowns, and must've been born a day late. His December 22nd birthday makes him a Capricorn, but if I ever met a Sadge it is this gutbucket tailgate bone man.

"Mr. Consistency" Billy Mitchell of Green Run is at the keys. A soft spoken Scorpio, Mitch plays like the Scorpio's Scorpio, Teddy Roosevelt, might've played: softly, but with a big stick.

Just as Babe Dahlgren had the follow Lou Gehrig at first base, someone had to follow Alton Smith on string bass. George Henderson, a Gemini from Portsmouth, handles the position well. The universality of Dixieland is reflected by his age: 24. I wish the combo "Chicago" would make some Dixieland records; they could turn on a whole under-24 generation to the music.

Swinging the group authoritatively is drummer Lee Guthrie of Sherry Park. Lee's an Aries, and, big surprise, a salesman. If you have an ad agency and need someone for a toothpaste commercial, look no further.

Being an old pro, Jeep knows how to pace things to a hair-raising climax. Ten minutes before closing they electrify the people with Tiger Rag. Then comes a medley of Battle Hymn Of The Republic with Dixie. Finally, a tearjerker When It's Sleepy Time Down

Jeep Bennett

South, theme song of the man whose instrumental and vocal influence is present... at least indirectly... in EVERY jazz and pop performance: Louis Armstrong.

Ed. Note: Eric Stevens is active in the area as a band leader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit record, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show, worked as a disc jockey and floorshow act, and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers. If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Va. Beach, Va. 23454.

Rogers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" opens at Tidewater Dinner Theatre

"Carousel," generally regarded as one of the greatest musical plays of American Theatrical history, the current attraction at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre, opened on Tuesday, May 16.

Written by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, the fabulous team have also given theatre goers "Oklahoma," "South Pacific," "The King and I" and "The Sound of Music."

"Carousel" tells the touching story of a ne'er-do-well's marriage with a gentle factory girl whom he fails in every possible way except that he illuminates her life completely. Bill Loconsolo, who comes to the Tidewater Dinner Theatre via New York and Los Angeles, will have the role of the roistering barker of the amusement park, whose swagger is tamed by the sweetness of Ann Marie Smith as the delicate Julie Jordan.

When the barker learns that he is to be a father, he sings one of the most memorable and moving songs of the entire Rodgers and Hammerstein repertory, called "Sililoogy." In this, he fondly imagines how he will bring up his son. Then as he abruptly realizes that his child might be a girl, he grows ashamed of his shiftlessness and worthlessness. He makes a mighty resolve, to achieve money and position for his unborn daughter. Blindly he sets about doing this by committing robbery.

And even in this, he fails. Trapped by police and overwhelmed with the thought that his imprisonment will be a shameful inheritance for his unborn daughter, he commits suicide. Years later, the Heavenly Starmaker gives him a chance to make amends for his failure to his wife and daughter by going back to earth for a single day - and again he fumbles. But in spirit he cries out to his daughter at her high school graduation, during a country doctor's speech, saying that children, no matter how lowly their origin can make something of themselves.

While a vein of joyfulness runs through "Carousel" it is far from being the old fashioned kind of "musical comedy." Rather it is described as a musical play, and its compassionate tale of the ne'er-do-well, his wife and his daughter has inspired tears as much as laughter in all its productions ever since it was first produced in New York in 1945.

Actually, the story is older than that. Originally, it was a play by Ferenc Molnar, called "Lilium," produced in Europe in 1909, and by the Theatre Guild in New York in 1921, about a braggart barker of an amusement park in Budapest and a quiet servant girl.

Rogers and Hammerstein transformed this story to a New England village in the eighteen-eighties, and make the girl who caught the love of the flamboyant barker into a millhand. As translated into "Carousel," the European story became as American as apple pie.

This production of "Carousel" is under the stage direction of Marty McGaw, the choreography by Gene Hammett, and the musical direction of Chris Kypros. The settings have been designed by Hank Sparks and Dottie Holtz is responsible for the colorful costumes.

Holly Road Incinerator to be garden

A fair and carnival promoter informed City Council Monday he wants to "make a garden spot out of waste land" by developing a 17 acre city-owned tract near the oceanfront.

The unsolicited proposal was made by Steve M. Rose for a $1.3 million amusement park on the property, a former incinerator site at Laskin and Holly Roads. He said he has been trying to acquire the property for a year through purchase or lease but charge that the city has been "stalling".

His attorney A. Joseph Canada asked Council to let his client know whether or not he can lease the property. The discussion took place at an informal afternoon meeting of the council.

Rose said he expected to spend $300,000 to improve the property and another three quarters to a million dollars for the 15 rides. He said that the park could have been ready this summer if the city had leased the property to him last year.

Rose operated the Greater Tidewater Fair at the Pungo Fairgrounds for 12 years, discontinued two years ago.

He also promotes carnivals at three shopping centers. He said the city does not anticipate selling the property at this time. Part of it will be needed for water tanks in conjunction with the train along Laskin Road. Another two acres has been requested by the Tidewater Transit Authority for parking.

He also said the city has yet to acquire the 50 foot right of way for access from Holland

Donald L. Gallup, Jr., industrial development coordinator for the Economic Development Department, said that negotiations are under way for the right of way acquisition and should be completed within six weeks. At this time he plans to ask for design proposals.

He said the city has been viewing the property as a site for family entertainment as an adjunct to the tourist industry. He added that he has received several inquiries about the property which still contains the old incinerator building and some concrete structures.

Gallup said he has been instructed not to negotiate a sale of the property but to work on a lease agreement.

Rose has submitted a preliminary plan to include rides, picnic areas, trees and grassy areas. The city has one other amusement park - Seaside Amusement Park at 31st Street and Atlantic Avenue.

It's still expensive...

Drivers get better break with towing

Illegal parking will continue to be expensive parking for Virginia Beach motorists, but they'll get a better break under a tow truck ordinance approved by City Council Monday afternoon.

The ordinance, designed to protect the general public from unreasonable towing practices, was developed by the city staff with members of the Virginia Beach Innkeepers Association and local tow truck operators. It applies to business or private lots and is of most concern to parking lot owners along the resort strip.

Although tabled by opposition in City Council three times last year, the ordinance passed 9 to 1 in Monday's meeting. Councilman George R. Ferrell cast the only negative vote.

Effective in 30 days the ordinance requires:

- Posting signs which state that improperly parked cars will be towed;
- Notifying the police dispatcher that a vehicle is being towed and reporting its destination;
- Maintaining a log of vehicles towed;
- Charging minimum towing fees when a car owner arrives before his vehicle is towed;
- Responding within two hours to a reclaim request.

•Displaying towing and storage rates at tow truck storage yards and marking all tow trucks with the name, address and telephone number of the owner.

At a request from tow truck operator Richard Templeton, Councilman R. L. (Buddy) Riggs amended the ordinance to require that all tow truck operators provide enclosed storage areas to protect cars.

Attorney Grover C. Wright, Jr., said the ordinance will promote better relations with the public while it protects the rights of business owners and their visitors who are legally using the lot.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said the regulations should protect the private property owners from illegal trespass by the public and should not interfere with the tow truck's right to establish rates for his service.

Acey knocks 'im out again

By Eric Stevens
Special to the SUN

So what else is new?

Bobby Acey scored his 12th KO in 12 pro bouts May 18th at the Dome before 1515 fans. Actually, it was a TKO (technical knockout), with the ref halting the middleweight scrap in the sixth.

Acey, a Beach resident and Norfolk cop, displayed boxing skill this time. His Cleveland opponent, Ron Pettigrew, took the first two rounds. Bobby felled him once in the fifth and twice in the sixth.

More than once in the game, Pettigrew jumped to his feet immediately as if to say, "That was nothing." Ron was bleeding, but to this reporter's eyes, he was able and eager to continue when the ref stopped it all. Ron protested furiously. After a moment in the dressing room, he was back during the departing crowd, pleading his case to any and all who'd listen. He is clearly outclassed by Acey, but deserves more action here against a lesser foe.

The semifinal bears investigation. Chesapeake cop Greg Larmour, a light-heavy, was awarded a KO over Donnie Norwood of Winston-Salem in the fourth. Norwood took the first two rounds on points. In the second, he floored Greg and had him bleeding. The ref called for the doctor to examine Greg. The doctor had apparently gone to the rest room. After a lapse, a corpsman declared Greg fit to continue.

It was not the ref's fault that Greg got this long rest, but why was Pettigrew not granted an examination?

Ron Pettigrew withstood Virginia Beach's Bobby Acey for six rounds but took a technical knockout after two minutes and 26 seconds into the sixth.

An incognito mayor for Virginia Beach

Virginia Beach will be getting a new mayor soon. Most political observers who venture an opinion give the office to Pat Standing. And others speculate that Payne or the newcomer Merrick will take the office Clarence Holland is vacating.

But must agree on the one person who won't become the new Beach mayor. And that's Meyera Oberndorf.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

The lady is just too out-spoken and too controversial. During her stay on the council, she has constantly been in the political spotlight, a place few if any, on the council want her to be.

Her sharp criticism of the present council and their way of conducting city business has earned her the strong support of the people but has in turn alienated her from the council members. And with the recent overwhelming strength of the vote for Oberndorf-endorsed candidates in the May 2 councilmanic election, the present council is watching Meyera with growing concern.

She now has a "semi"-coalition for her populist philosophy with the addition of Merrick, Henry and Ervin to the council. Her fight is steadily growing in council numbers.

But with the council deciding the new mayor, Meyera is surely out. The council will probably select a candidate for the job who has stepped on the least toes. They will pick a candidate of compromise.

But no matter who is selected to fill the job of Beach mayor, no one can dispute the fact that Meyera Oberndorf has the support of the people. Undeniably, she attends as many civic functions and community events as any mayor.

Perhaps the council could come up with a title just for Meyera...mayor incognito.

Social Security Administration

Your number's up

By Harvey J. Ridinger
Field Representative

At one time or another, you've probably thought about what your family would do if you died and they no longer had any income. More than likely, you have some kind of life insurance to help provide for them. Have you ever thought of Social Security as insurance? Probably not, but one of the most valuable parts of the protection under Social Security, and one often overlooked, is survivors benefits - a form of life insurance.

One reason it's so often overlooked is a person's natural aversion to thinking about death. But the protection is there. About 9 out of 10 children and their mothers or fathers could count on benefits if one of the parents should die.

The potential value of this protection totals about 2 trillion dollars, an amount equal to all of the commercial life insurance now in force. It is possible, for instance, for a single family to receive as much as $200,000 before benefits stop in certain situations.

Obviously this protection has a cost. About one percent of the 1978 Social Security tax rate of 6.05 percent goes to pay the cost of survivors benefits. Currently about 7½ million men, women and children receive survivor benefits which includes about 3 million children and nearly 4 million older widows and widowers. Survivor benefits are being paid at the rate of 1½ billion dollars each month.

So it's easy to see why families should be aware of the protection provided by Social Security so they can take advantage of the benefits should the need arise.

Free leaflets describing Social Security protection can be obtained at any Social Security office. The Norfolk Social Security office is at 3661 E. Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Beach residents fear new park will spur uncontrolled growth in agricultural area

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Whether they want one or not residents of the South end of Virginia Beach are going to have a park right in their own back yard.

What the residents fear is not so much the park but what it will bring in the way of development to a primarily agricultural region.

City council, however, by a vote of 6-3 decided to purchase a 100-acre tract at Munden Point on the inland waterway from Gordon Campbell for $365,000, the latest independent appraisal of the property. Of the purchase price, the city will pay $205,000 and the Federal government $160,000. The total project, including land, development and the access road will cost $1,197,000 with the city paying a total of $540,000 (land and development), the Federal government $496,000, (land and development), and the state paying $160,000 for the road.

William Peffley, who said he had been a real estate developer and broker for 35 years, supported the purchase of the land, and cautioned city council against "letting this beautiful site get away."

Marion Bright, of Pungo, representing the Back Bay Civic League, said that the site hasn't the type water for swimming and obstructions are in the water which make it hazardous for boating. Her main concern, she said was the spread of development wherever there are parks, water, sewer and roads. She said the park would cause uncontrolled growth in an agricultural area at the expense of farm land which has already been gobbled up. She said she has already seen the park used as promotion in ads for property sales.

"Developers are waiting in the wings, ready to pounce."

"Developers are waiting in the wings, ready to pounce," she said. "Why should they get all the breaks? We should have improved roads for farmers to get their produce to market."

She said that a petition circulated in the area showed that 75 percent of the people did not want the park and preferred having the city spend the money to improve the Creeds Air Field where the city owns 200 acres. She said that the agricultural industry is at stake.

Approximately 40 area residents attended the Council meeting to oppose the purchase.

Don Merritt, councilman-elect from the Lynnhaven Borough, said that he walked over the 100 acres. He maintained that only 33 acres were above the six-foot contour line. He said that he was not against parks and recreation as such, but against the purchase of the land as currently proposed. He said that last year's appraisal for the property was $400,000.

He said that if the useable land were developed as a subdivision, it would be uneconomical if the land price is $365,000.

He added, the property was landlocked - a 160,000 30-foot road will have to be built. The purchase agreement includes the receipt of a 50-foot dedicated right of way from Munden Road to the park property.

The city assessor has assessed the property at $160,000 and improvements at $15,834. The land cost Campbell $65,000, he said, and if the city pays him $365,000 he will make a profit of $300,000 and since the land is not being sold as a subdivision, he owes the city nothing. If the money is reinvested in two years, he will not have to pay the Federal government a dime, he said.

He suggested that the city reject the purchase as too expensive and that "if you think this park is a necessity, condemn it. Let the court set a price."

"It's not as though we're dying for the need of a park."

Councilman John A. Baum said that when an assessor has no comparable sales to go by he will be conservative in his estimate. He said the property is capable of being developed with agricultural zoning which permits one-acre lots or more depending on the condition of the soil.

Baum, who lives in Pungo, said that he was "not at all enthusiastic with the way the life style is changing," but that "this would ensure open space."

Baum said the city has shied away from condemnation because of the fear of getting higher prices set.

City manager George L. Hanbury said the city would use all but 15 acres of water and marsh for a park. When the property which is now Princess Anne Park was considered for a park it was not considered useable either. He said.

Vice mayor Patrick L. Standing, presiding in the absence of Mayor Clarence A. Holland, said he was concerned with "the money we have to pay for municipal property - we have to pay for that it could be used for ... When property is condemned," he said, "the city puts itself in the hands of the condemnation commissioners." He said the city has to go out and purchase the property before it increases in price.

He said that when the city developed other parks, like Little Island and Princess Anne, there was a "hue and cry." The people are not really looking to the future, he said. He added that he couldn't "agree that making money off property should be criticized."

Helen Love of Pungo maintained that it's "not as though we're dying for the need of a park." She said the implication was that the park was being built for the people in Pungo and Blackwater. She said that there were only 3600 people in the area and that there was "no way" to justify the expenditure of $1.5 million for them. "The last thing Virginia Beach needs is another park, especially one at the tip of the Beach."

Referring to an earlier discussion on the budget and wage increases, she said, "Give the money to the employers and never mind the park."

"Give money to the employers and never mind the park."

Mary Waterfield of Munden Point, no kin to Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr., was the sole voice of the residents raised for approval of the park. She said there is no place for the children to play and that except for people who live on the water, there was not place where residents could put a boat over without charge.

Waterfield, who was defeated for reelection to council in the Pungo Beach Borough and has backed the park from the beginning, said that people have been misinformed and that there would be a trailer court there. He said they were also misinformed about the city's having to get approval from the Wetlands Board. None of the commercial boat dock owners object to the park, he added.

Another resident said that Peffley made promises to property buyers he never kept.

Councilman Robert R. Cromwell said that, "whether Mr. Peffley made promises has nothing to do with the desirability of the property as a park. Whether Campbell makes a profit has nothing to do with it." He said that 144-acre Little Island in Sandbridge Park cost the city $222,000 for land and $70 for improvements. Last year it was used by 216,000 people and this year is expected to be used by 300,000 people. The value of the land, set by City Assessor Clyde Merritt, is now $4.3 million.

Princess Anne Park, he said, purchased from Norfolk, has furnished the land for community college, Princess Anne Park and the Farmers Market and there's still some property left over. Ten years from now, he said the proposed Munden Point Park will also be considered an asset. "I don't see how you can turn it down."

Councilman R. L. Riggs said that if the park were out to a vote of the residents, "it would be voted down." I don't think it has to be there."

McCoy said he believed the Munden park was "overprioritized."

Riggs, Councilman J. Henry McCoy Jr., and Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf voted against the proposal. McCoy said he had no quarrel with parks and recreation and had always voted for parks and recreation proposals, but believed that the Munden park was "overprioritized."

Councilman John R. Griffin abstained from the discussion and vote because of a business association with Campbell.

Council also approved a resolution asking the Commission on Outdoor Recreation (COR) and the State Highway Department for a Recreational Access Road Grant. COR plans to hold a public hearing on the application on June 5.

Campbell had originally asked for $400,000.

The structures on the property are valued from a low of $100.00 to a high of $147,000 but are in such good condition, Hanbury said, that only about $20,000 in refurbishment will be needed to put them into operating condition.

SUN deadlines

News deadline for the Virginia Beach Sun is 5 p.m. Friday for the following Wednesday's edition.

Articles must be legible, preferably type-written, double-spaced on standard sized paper.

Pictures must be sharp, clear and accompanied by complete information. (All persons in pictures must be identified.)

There is no charge for news articles or pictures.

Pictures cannot be returned unless special arrangements are made.

Take time to check boats and equipment

As the time arrives when Virginia Beach boaters again take to the water, the U.S. Coast Guard Office of Boating Safety is reminding us of precautionary measures to take to help ensure safety this summer.

Last year the Coast Guard listed 6,815 boating accidents which resulted in 1,312 deaths, 1,272 injuries and more than $11.5 million in property damage.

The Insurance Information Institute advises that a boat's fuel, electrical and steering systems should be checked to see that they are working perfectly.

In addition to checking your craft, check your equipment. Do you have the appropriate type of Personal Flotation Devices and fire extinguishers for your boat? Also carry a compass, says the Coast Guard.

Pam Vandevere

SUN News Editor

Boaters are urged to contact the Coast Guard Auxiliary and request a Courtesy Marine Examination of their craft. Boats meeting safety standards are awarded a "Seal of Safety." Owners of unsafe vessels will not be reported to any law enforcement official.

Finally, examine yourself. Do you know and obey the rules of the road? Do you keep an alert lookout? Can you handle an emergency?

Boating courses are offered by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadrons, Red Cross, and other boating authorities.

"The Skipper's Course," a home study program, is available for $1.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20401. Order number 050-012-00050-06.

Refuse collection altered for holiday

Because Monday, May 29, is Memorial Day and a city holiday, the city's refuse collection schedule is being adjusted so that each resident will receive his regular twice a week collection.

If one of your regular collection days is Monday, during the Memorial Day week your collection will be made on Tuesday, May 30, and, as usual, on Thursday, June 1.

If one of your regular collection days is Tuesday, during the Memorial Day week your collection will be made on Wednesday, May 31, and, as usual, on Friday, June 2.

This same schedule will be in effect for every Monday city holiday.

Beach property owners will get tax reduction

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Approximately 50 percent of all Virginia Beach property owners will experience a tax reduction with the imposition of a 77 cents per $100 valuation tax rate.

The new rate, described by City Manager George L. Hanbury as "the lowest rate of all municipalities," was approved by City Council Monday afternoon. Council also approved the implementation of pay increases for all city employees of five percent on Oct. 1 and for another five percent on Jan. 1, 1979, moved up from April 1, 1979 recommended in Hanbury's proposed budget.

The tax rate represents a seven cent decrease over the current tax rate and two cents more than was recommended by Hanbury. The additional two cents decrease represents an estimated loss in taxes of $700,000 for the 1978-79 operating budget while the accelerated pay increase represents a $350,000 additional cost.

The costs were taken from the $4.2 million reserve reducing it to approximately $3.2 million, about the same as the reserve in the current budget or 2 1/4 percent of the budget.

Council also approved a total budget of $153,039,881 increased from the $152,685,881 to provide for the increased expenditures for salaries.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing remarked that "not many people can reduce the tax rate and increase the budget!"

Hanbury said that 50 percent of the city's property owners will experience not only a tax rate reduction but a tax reduction which will be reflected in their bills next December.

Council had considered proposals from members of Council at an earlier informal session before approving the budget on with amendments at the second reading during the formal session.

Both amendments approved by Council on the salaries and the additional two cents tax rate reduction, were on a motion by Councilman J. Curtis Payne. He said that the 6.38 percent net salary increase resulting from moving up salary increases will nearly offset the cost of living increase. He said further adjustments could be made after a new salary and classification plan is available.

Councilman R. L. Riggs made a substitute motion to increase the pay of uniformed personnel in the Police and Fire Department by five percent on July 1 and an additional 4.7 percent on Oct. 1 and April 1, 1979. His motion failed by a vote of 7-3. Voting with Riggs were Councilman J. Henry McCoy and Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf.

All the other items in the proposed budget were unchanged.

McCoy asks for release of city development plan

A recommendation by Virginia Beach Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Jr. for a growth study committee has resulted in a call for the release of the city's Comprehensive Plan for Development.

Also requested of City Manager George L. Hanbury was an update of the Virginia Beach Tomorrow Study.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing said that "it's been so long since the city has been involved in comprehensive planning...that it's time to have up-to-date information." Standing, who asked for the report Monday afternoon, said that he did not ask for it sooner to keep the study out of the politics of the May 2 Councilmanic election. Growth was a major issue in the campaign.

McCoy had suggested that the city form a committee of the mayor, two City Council members, the city manager, the chairman of the Planning Commission, the planning director, the School Board chairman, the superintendent of public schools, two members of the building industry, two members of the business community other than the building industry and two non-employed persons (i.e. housewife, retiree).

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said that some of the people on the Virginia Beach Tomorrow Committee, which completed a report on the way the city should grow and develop 18 months ago, are still meeting. "They asked the Council for direction and didn't get it." The original committee was a good cross-section of the people, she said, and added that she wondered if McCoy's committee wouldn't become "too selective."

Councilman John R. Griffin asked, "Let's see what has been accomplished" against the guidelines in the Virginia Beach Tomorrow report.

Hanbury said that he planned to have an update of the city's accomplishments.

Property owners won't pay for water and sewer

By Lee Cahill
SUN Public Affairs Writer

A change of rules in the middle of the game is likely to hurt some of the very people Community Development funds are intended to help.

The City of Virginia Beach has learned that it will not be permitted to require property owners in the city's target areas to help pay for water and a sewer installation even if their incomes indicate they can afford to.

In an interpretation of Community Development fund rules issued on March 1, the Department of Housing and Urban Development precludes participating of property owners in the cost of utilities construction in areas where Federal funds are being used for the projects.

City Council had voted to establish a participatory policy now in effect for the entire city. That is, in hardship cases the tap-on-fee and line fee are waived in cases where the household's income is $8,000 or less and charges are made on a pro-rata basis in cases where incomes range from $8,000 to $16,000, which has been set by the city administration as the average income.

An earlier interpretation by HUD had permitted participating requiring only that any resulting excess would be returned to the community.

But on March 1 HUD changed the rules. George Tinnies, assistant to the city manager working with the Community Development Advisory Committee, said that participating will be permitted, but only if the city agrees to a detailed documentation of each property. Tinnies said the documentation is involved but that the city has the capability to do it.

Sam Houston, vice president of the Advisory Committee, said that the committee will meet today (Wednesday) to decide what recommendations to make to Council. Houston called the meeting in the absence of Harry Robison, president, who is hospitalized.

During the past three years, the city received $4.1 in Community Development funds and during the next three-year period expects to receive $2,250,000 per year. Approximately 7,407 residents are involved in the target areas of Doylestown, Newlight, Gracetown-Beechwood, Newsom Farms, Brownie Park, Atlantic Park, Queen City and Seatack where utilities are scheduled to be installed with community development funds.

Tinnies said that even with the Federal money, funds will be insufficient to meet the needs of the target areas.

That's why he said, the city wanted a participatory policy, so that the savings could be plowed right back into the communities. The city's income schedule, he said, is set up so that the truly poor would not have paid.

He said that there are individuals outside the target area who will have to participate in the cost of utilities who are less able than some of the people who live in the target areas.

Houston, who said he was speaking for himself and not for the committee, said he thought the city should fight the ruling.

He said that he felt strongly that it was a wrong policy and that it was another example of federal control with states losing their rights. He added that the interpretation of the rules are made administratively by people not selected by the people.

Some of the property in the target area is owned by landlords who are not economically underprivileged.

Houston said that the policy is discriminatory in that people will be required to pay or not pay toward the cost of utilities installation, not on the basis of their means, but on the basis of whether or not they live in the target areas.

Back Bay art on display at Pembroke

Pembroke Mall will be the site of the Back Bay Wildfowl Guild members' show on Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27.

Original wildfowl carvings, paintings and photographs as well as authentic old hunting decoys will be exhibited. Many of the items will be offered for sale.

The Back Bay Wildfowl Guild also sponsors the Mid-Atlantic Waterfowl Festival in the Virginia Beach Dome in the fall of each year. One of the guild's principal goals is the establishment of a waterfowl museum in the Tidewater area.

Sun lovers pack Beach as warm days finally arrive

Kim Ayars of Richmond got a chance to wet her tootsies in the Virginia Beach surf last week-end.

Thousands of sun lovers packed the beach last week-end with the long awaited arrival of warm temperatures and sunny skies.

The temperatures were in the high 80's and low 90's Saturday and in the 80's Sunday. Saturday was nothing but clear although a few clouds showed up Sunday to create a slightly cool breeze.

Crowds lined the beach as well as the parking areas and Atlantic Avenue was a scene of typical summertime traffic jams. Bathers tested the still cold water and sun worshipers began to sport tans...although most had the markings of burns.

Even though Memorial Day is the symbolic opening of summer at the Beach, the weather finally cooperated for the early birds and allowed summer in a week early.

The sun was a little bit too much for newborn Brandon Scott MacKellar. Mama Brenda hangs on.

As always, "Virginia Beach is for lovers". Visitors from Montreal Johanne Bruneau, Diane Courcheane and Johanne Therrien met up with Doug West and Bubba Camden, of Portsmouth, while enjoying the summertime temperatures at the beach.

Kelly Brooks and Allison Jones, tooled down to the Beach from Richmond to enjoy the day of sunshine.

Eric Perez of Mexico came to visit Virginia Beach with his parents, Rudy and Barbara.

Acey scores 12th KO in Beach bout

Winston-Salem's Donnie Norwood sends Chesapeake policeman Greg Lamour through the ropes in the second round.

Sun photos
by Steve Vining

Greg Lamour is down for a count by referee Al Rothenburg after being hit by Donnie Norwood.

In the next round Larmour made a dramatic comeback, flooring Norwood with a solar-plexus punch. In round four, Greg, a body puncher, hit Norwood with three low blows, unintentionally I am sure, but resulting in a KO. I was five feet away, and the punches were not borderline. They were within clear view of at least two judges. An off-duty official sitting beside me was incensed at the inaction of the officials.

After the fight, "Big Tom" Lawrence, Norwood's manager protested. In all decency I must appeal here in print that the bout be declared a no-contest and a rematch arranged. Normal procedure would have been to grant the victim a time-out, and to take one or more points, or even the round, from Larmour.

In a special added attraction, classy Hilbert Stevenson, a ranked Junior Lightweight, fought his stablemate Rhondell Stephens for the sixth or seventh time. Each time he has KO'd the game youth, this time in the fourth. Since most boxers that weight are Hispanics from Texas or California, it is hard to find opponents on the East Coast.

Another rematch is due between stylist Charles Carey, Norfolk middleweight, and Mickey Lewis, a Charlottesville slugger. I gave the four rounder to Lewis 19-18. One judge had it 19-19 but the others gave a hairline decision to the hometown.

A rematch is already scheduled between middleweights Jesse Carter (Norfolk) and Frankie (The Waiter) Crossan of Atlantic City. For four rounds they doled out continuous excitement, with a much-improved Carter turning slugger and battling toe-to-toe with the tattooed Italian-American. It is traditional to touch gloves as the final round begins. Carter hit his opponent in the act, drawing boos. He was already unpopular for his jab-and-run tactics. When the decision was given to the local man the boos were resounding. My card showed it 19-18, Crossan.

After that bout, anything would be anticlimactic, but eight rounds of Bobby Jordan running from aging hulk Bob Stallings was a veritable sleeping pill. The Norfolk heavy was outweighed by 31 pounds, but decisioned his praying, spitting Brooklyn victim unanimously. It is hard to imagine Stallings, having beaten Earnie Shavers, even four years ago.

In the opener, heavyweight John Hunter of Crestwood Manor in Chesapeake decisioned ex-Marine Ben Carr of Roanoke. Both were making their pro debuts. Carr started well but the ringwise 40 year old barber soon took charge.

You can't tell a fighter's ability by his record. Jesse Carter does not impress me as worthy of a 7-2-1 record. Pettigrew is much better than his 17-35-4 would indicate. A bout between them would be a natural.

Ron may lack the skill for greatness, but he has another necessity. Anyone who would step in the ring Twice with Acey, and not want to quit, has it. Call it what you want. Courage. Heart. Determination. I call it Guts.

Jesse Carter tries to psych out his opponent Frankie Crossan.

In pain, Donnie Norwood grips his stomach after a hit from Greg Lamour.

Flea market to benefit rescue squad

Junior American Citizens explore Indian culture

Dr. Helen Rountree shows off her Seminole costume while teacher Connie Para shows off her Kiowa clothes.

The George Washington and Liberty Bell Kids chapters of the Junior American Citizens were able to meet the descendants of the first Americans, recently.

The two clubs are sponsored by the Princess Anne County chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and were organized a year ago with the students of Montessori Children's House on South Lynnhaven Road.

For one month the children studied about Indian tribes of North America. Bill Waters, owner of Reflections by the Waters, visited the children and showed them a Hopi Kachina, Apache carrying basket, Creek hatchet and a Manden peace pipe.

Two weeks later the children met Dr. Helen Rountree, from old Dominion University. Dr. Rountree is an authority on North American Indians and especially Virginia Indians.

Dr. Rountree showed the J.A.C. members many artifacts from the tribes the children had studied: a Penobscot basket, Corn Dance Kachina doll (Hopi), a Creek basket and Seminole and Kiowa cloths. She told the children about the Mattaponi and Pamunkey of Virginia and showed a tortoise-shelled rattle and a water gourd made by the Pamunkey tribe.

After a month of study, excited students and interested parents boarded two coach buses for a day-long trip to visit the Mattaponi and Pamunkey Indians. Both tribes were a part of the Algonquian Confederation and their reservations are a few miles apart near West Point, Va.

Minnie-Ha-Ha Custalow, wife of Chief Custalow, and Princess White Feather gave everyone a warm greeting and then taught the children their welcome dance. The children listened attentively as Princess White Feather talked about her tribes history and customs. Monnie Ha-Ha showed the J.A.C.'s how she made jewelry. Both ladies taught the children the song "Uni High Uni". The children in turn, sang two Hopi songs, "Little Prairie Dog" and "Hay-Vay-Bay-Tah", a rain song.

The children enjoyed lunch at the Pamunkey Reservation and were treated to an impromptu speech by Chief Tecumseh Cook. Chief Cook loves children and explained to them he was not wearing his feathered headdress, because he had been fishing all morning. The children found out that the Pamunkey men elect the Chief and that they can hunt past the normal hunting season.

Both tribes live in white framed farm houses or neat trailers. There are approximately 40 families living on each reservation.

The Montessori Children's House Junior American Citizen award winners are: Billy McConnell, honorable mention, Lynda Ewald, first place state and national winner, Carol Melnyk, second place in the state, and Stephen Ellwood, honorable mention.

Adam Lischer was a third place state winner and Shannon Winters won an honorable mention in the DAR Junior American Citizen award.

Registration deadline nears for elementary summer school

The Virginia Beach public schools will be offering a wide variety of summer classes for elementary school students again this year.

Basic reading and mathematics skills classes, intensive English for non-native speakers, summer band, marine biology, and a number of other enrichment courses will be offered at various locations throughout the city between June 23 and August 1.

The registration deadline for all programs is May 26. The basic reading and mathematics skills program for be divided into two parts. A federally subsidized program for grades 3-6 will be taught at Alanton, Luford and Princess Anne elementary schools and a similar program for the same age-group will be offered at Brookwood and Fairfield elementary schools.

In the federally-funded program students will be selected by classroom teachers to receive special assistance with their basic skills. In the non-funded program, help in mathematics and reading will be offered to students currently performing below their grade level.

A basic reading skills summer course for students in the first and second grade will also be offered for the first time this summer. The pilot program, designed specifically for the younger, primary grade students, will help the students improve their reading and comprehension abilities.

Classes will be limited to four students to allow the maximum amount of individual attention. Daily classes will last 45-minutes, and will be held at Brookwood and Fairfield elementary schools.

The fee for all the basic programs (except those which are federally-funded) will be $12.50. Classes will be conducted from June 28 to July 26.

Courses in art (grades 2-7), field biology (grades 4 and 5), marine biology (grades 6 and 7), creative experiences (grades 1-3) and creative horizons (grades 4-7) will also be offered this summer. The class dates will be the same as for the basic skills program.

The marine biology courses will be taught at the Marine Science Center at Plaza Junior High school, and all other enrichment courses will be taught at Brookwood and Fairfield elementary schools. The fee for the classes will be $25 each including the cost of at least two field trips weekly. The marine biology course will be taught from July 5 through August 1. All other enrichment programs begin June 28, and last until July 26.

The intensive English course for non-native speaking students will be offered to all current students from kindergarten through grade 12. In order to meet individual needs the class size will be limited to the first 35 who register. There is no tuition for the course which will be taught at Brookwood Elementary School, June 28 to July 26.

The summer band program is for students currently enrolled in grades five through eight. There is no tuition, but an instrument rental fee is charged. The classes are taught at the Virginia Beach junior high schools at other strategic locations throughout the city. The summer band program begins June 23 and ends August 4.

Tennis tournament set this week

The Virginia Beach Junior Tennis Tournament will be held May 24-29 at the Owl Creek Tennis Center.

The tournament is a United States Tennis Association sanctioned event.

"We Own"

The Virginia Beach Community Chapel will be presenting the musical group "His Own" for an evening of ministry and music Friday, May 26 at 7:30 p.m. at 1261 Laskin Road.

"His Own" is a new Christian music group from Virginia Beach, committed to sharing their faith through the expression of music.

They are composers, singers and musicians composed of high-school, college and professional people who amid heavy study and work responsibilities find time to practice, travel and minister through music.

Rob Ullsh, minister of youth at the Virginia Beach Community Chapel, directs the group.

TCC sets astrology course

The Virginia Beach campus of Tidewater Community College will again offer astrology enthusiasts an opportunity to learn more of this popular subject during the summer quarter.

This credit-free class will begin on Wednesday, June 14. The course provides an in-depth study of the mechanics involved in accurately setting up a natal chart from the birthplace, birth date, and birth time of an individual. The class will run one night a week until August 16.

For further information, call the Office of Continuing Education at 428-6395.

Magicians meet for annual banquet

The International Brotherhood of Magicians, Earl Edwards Ring 103 holds its 28th annual banquet May 27 at the Jewish Community Center.

Activities will begin at 7 p.m. with a close-up magic show, buffet dinner, officer's installation and a stage magic show.

Anyone interested in magic is invited. The price is $6 per person and reservations must be made before May 19. For more information call Walter C. Koehler on Overholt Drive after 6 p.m.

Bands audition to play at Mount Trashmore

Auditions for bands to play at the Mount Trashmore Summer Film Festival will be held June 3rd from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center, 800 Monmouth Lane.

All bands are required to furnish their own equipment and sound systems for auditions and actual performances.

The movies will be shown every Wednesday night starting June 21st and continuing through August 30th. Scheduled bands will play from 7:30-8:30 p.m. prior to that night's movie.

This is a family oriented event and entertainment should reflect this accordingly. All bands will perform on a voluntary basis and can expect an audience of approximately three to five thousand people.

Auditions will be conducted on an appointment basis only. Appointments and further information can be obtained by calling Bea Arline at the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation at 467-4884.

Neptune Festival plans boxing show at Dome June 1

Plans for the June 1 Neptune Festival Amateur Boxing Show at the Virginia Beach Dome were released by Mrs. Nellie Bryan, last week.

Invitations have been extended to all of the 1978 Virginia AAU Champions who, as a team, placed third of 54 teams in the National Tournament at Biloxi, Miss. in April. Also invited are groups from New Jersey, North Carolina, and the Navy boxing team.

Two 1978 national champions and two ex-national champions were included on the invitation list. Bish Cullen, 16 year-old National 106 pound champion from Bowie, Md. and Elmer Martin, 1978 Interservice and National 178 pound champion from the U.S. Navy are the champions.

Bernard Taylor, two time National AAU and National Golden Glove champion at 125 pounds from Charlotte, N.C. and Billy Tuttle, 1973 Weltewright Champion from Bowie, Md. are the ex-champions striving to again reach the pinnacle.

John Jarvis, Virginia 147 pound champion from Richmond, who advanced to the finals in 1977 before bowing to Clint Jackson, and to semifinals in 1978 before losing to Roger Leonard, the ultimate champion, is expected to head a Richmond contingent that includes 1978 state champions Will Hicks at 156 pounds, Al Scott at 178 pounds, and Reginald Brown at 112 pounds.

Following written confirmation from the invitees, a twelve bout card will be finalized and announced. The show will be sanctioned by the Virginia AAU and Athletic Commission and co-sponsored by the Tidewater Amateur Boxing Association.

The match will begin at 8 p.m. 12 Bouts Amateur Boxing: Reserved section ring-side tickets are $4 and general admission tickets are $2.

Tickets are on sale at the Dome box office, the Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Beach Neptune Festival Office at Pembroke Mall and all branches of Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Band appears in Fairfax

The Kempville Junior High School Symphonic Braves Band will participate in the Mid-Atlantic Festival Friday at Herndon High School in Fairfax County.

The band will be judged along with nine other junior high school bands from Virginia, the District of Columbia, and neighboring states. Prizes will be awarded to the two best bands in the competition.

The Symphonic Braves are directed by Emmet T. Forbes. They were the first junior high school group to receive a superior rating in Grade V music in the Tidewater area instrumental band festival this year.

In March, the Marching Braves won first place in the St. Patrick's Day Parade, held in Norfolk.

Three-piece suits are believed to be instrumental in bringing back hats for men. More formality, more complete dress.

Folk dancers present international show

The Heritage Folk Dancers of Virginia Beach will present a lively evening of international folk dancing on Wednesday, May 24 from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Kempville Recreation Center.

The program will open with the mod sounds of an "American Dance Set" featuring members of the Virginia Beach Folk Dance Club. Disco, waltz, round dance and mimic tap in "Steppin' Out" will be performed plus the Mexican Hat Dance from South of the Border.

The set which follows will provide a peek into the refined atmosphere created by authentic colonial ball dances complete with costumes of the 1776 era.

Many moods of Israeli folk dancing will comprise the third set as performed by the Heritage Folk Dancers. Major events of life appear in this dance scenario from the hulling music and graceful steps of courtship and harvest movements to the bold dance attitudes depicting life's conflicts.

The Heritage Folk Dancers continue their dance portraits with a choreographed medley of Russian dances which generate the intensity, verve and pride of the nationality. The finale will include, among others, Austrian, Turkish, Polish and Rumanian dance expressions.

All guests and residents of Virginia Beach are invited to attend this culturally fascinating evening. The program is free of charge but due to limited seating capacity tickets will be required. Tickets may be reserved by phone (call 499-1281) or may be requested at the door.

MOMENTS FOR MEDITATION

He walked and fished and rowed a boat — and bared his skin to the sun — this Jesus of mine. He lived life to the fullest. He was aware of His senses, fully aware, even on the cross. No medicinal sop, no pain-killing drug for Him — He illustrated His own great saying, "I am come that you might have life, and that you might have it more abundantly."

Sometimes youthful health and strength is pictured by a driving four masted schooner, bearing into the Southwest wind; or a young girl, radiant and beautiful, the breeze blowing through her hair as she faces the morning sun. But don't forget, the best example of such vigor and joy is in the figure and person of Jesus — Master of men. Son of God.

Bannevich heads Shop 17

Philip Stanley Bannevich recently received permanent promotion to the top post in Shop 17, that of production superintendent GS-13 and head of shop, at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard (NNSY) in Portsmouth.

Bannevich, who is now a resident of Virginia Beach, is a native of Canton, Ohio, and attended Timken Vocational School there. He graduated in 1960 at the top of his class in industrial arts. He joined the Navy in September of that year and served in USS (DD-949) as a shipfitter and attended the Navy's Class A Metalsmith School in San Diego, here again, graduating at the top of the class.

Bannevich said he stayed in this area after his hitch in the Navy because he "liked the area and the people." In addition, he met a girl, who is now his wife, while she was vacationing here. He went to work for Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. as a sheetmetal mechanic and worked there for approximately 39 months.

In May of 1967, Bannevich started his NNSY career as a sheetmetal worker in Shop 17. In July 1970 he became a sheetmetal worker (layer out), WG-11, and in October 1973 was permanently promoted to sheetmetal mechanic foreman, WS-10. Sheetmetal mechanic general foreman, WS-13, was the next step up for Bannevich in November 1975. He held that position until his temporary promotion to Shop Superintendent in December of last year.

Bannevich has received two suggestion awards, two group superior achievement awards, an outstanding performance rating, and a sustained superior performance award.

He said his main objective as shop head is "to create within the shop a new type of environment, in line with the trend of the times." He intends to accomplish his objective by using new techniques with more modern equipment. He also stated that he wants to do this while "reducing overhead expenditures as far as possible to bring the shop to a new standard of performance. Historically, Shop 17 has had a good performance record," he added, "but I want to make it better."

As head of the shop, Bannevich is responsible for the work of some 357 employees who manufacture and install custom-made metal products such as ships' furniture, air conditioning and ventilation ducting, and improvements for habitability on board the ships here for repair.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Bannevich pause for a picture, immediately following the promotion ceremony in which Shipyard Commander Capt. Alfred Kurzenhauser presented a framed certificate to Bannevich, making official his advancement to production superintendent GS-13 as head of Shop 17.

Bannevich is married to the former Mary Anne Bowman of Bluefield, W. Va. They have three children, a son, Philip Scott, 12, and two daughters, Stephanie, 10, and Amey, 8. The family lives in the Lark Downs section of the Kempsville area in Virginia Beach, and the children attend Kempsville Elementary School.

Executive director named for Beach Sheltered Workshop

Commander Matthew A. Krakower has been named executive director of the Virginia Beach Sheltered Workshop Association, according to Harold Gallup, president of the board of directors of the association.

In his new position, Commander Krakower will be responsible for the overall operation of the new Virginia Beach rehabilitation facility which will employ and train mentally and physically handicapped adults.

Born in the Bronx, Commander Krakower received his Bachelor's degree from the Baruch School of Business Administration, City College of New York. Upon graduation, he was accepted into the United States Navy and after attending Officers Candidates School, was commissioned an ensign in the Supply Corps.

Subsequent tours of duty included afloat service in the USS Tioga County (LST1158) and duty ashore in Pennsylvania, Naples, Italy, New York, Hawaii, Virginia, Puerto Rico and Charleston. His assignments included activities relating to financial management, inventory control, aircraft procurement, combat logistics and retail merchandising.

In 1970 Commander Krakower received his master's degree in marketing from Michigan State University.

Commander Krakower will retire in July 1978 after 20 years service as a Naval Officer.

Commander Krakower, 41, is married to the former Shelia Ruth Geffen. The Krakowers have three children: Lynn enters Clemson University in the fall while Cheryl will attend First Colonial High School. Bruce will be a student at Kings Grant Elementary.

The Krakowers will reside at 409 King Richard Drive in Kings Point.

Vernallis commands Fighter Squadron 103

Navy Cmdr. S.L. Vernallis has relieved Cmdr. W. T. Underhill III as commanding officer of Fighter Squadron 103 at ceremonies held in Hangar 500 at Oceana Naval Air Base.

Capt. R.L. Meyers, assistant chief of staff for readiness, COMNAVAIRLANT, was the guest speaker.

Underhill has reported for duty aboard the USS America as assistant air boss.

Vernallis entered the Navy in 1962 and was designated a Naval Aviator in October, 1963. Flying the F-4 Phantom, he participated in three Southeast Asian cruises aboard the USS Kitty Hawk with VF-114 and the USS Ranger with VF-154. He also deployed aboard the Midway as aide and flag secretary to Carrier Group Three.

Vernallis reported to VF-103 as executive officer in January, 1977.

Among his medals and awards are the Distinguished Flying Cross, Aid Medal, Navy Commendation Medal, Navy Unit Citation and Vietnam's Cross of Gallantry.

Vernallis is married to the former Mary Anne Dutt of Bangor, Pa.

They live in Virginia Beach with their sons, Todd and Aaron.

One gallon winner

James A. Routt, a naval architecture technician in the planning department, accepts congratulations from Shipyard Commander Capt. Alfred Kurzenhauser after receiving a new one-gallon pin and card during a Blood Donor Award ceremony. Routt was one of 21 shipyarders who were honored for regular support of the blood program at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth. He lives on Timon Court in Virginia Beach.

"Buckeyes" celebrate flying milestones

Four "Buckeyes" of Attack Squadron Eighty Five, flying A-6 Intruders aboard USS Forrestal, achieved carrier landing milestones during the ship's final training period prior to departing for the Mediterranean area.

Cdr. Rod Bubeck, commanding officer of VA-85, and Lt. Tom McFalls reached their milestones on the first landing aboard as the ship began its at-sea period. Cdr. Bubeck got his 100th landing aboard USS Forrestal, while Lt. McFalls attained a seldom reached plateau logging his 400th 'trap' aboard Forrestal.

Lt. Mike Newman and Ltj. Denby Starling also became 'centurions' by logging their 100th arrested landing each.

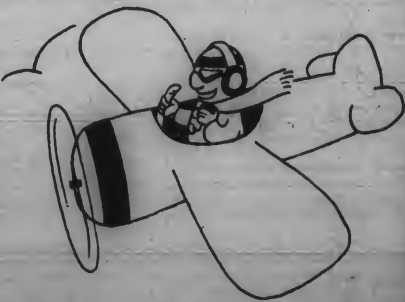

Celebrating their flying milestones are Ltjg. Starling, Lt. Newman, Cdr. Metz, Cdr. Bubeck, and Lt. McFalls.

Palmore receives leadership ribbon

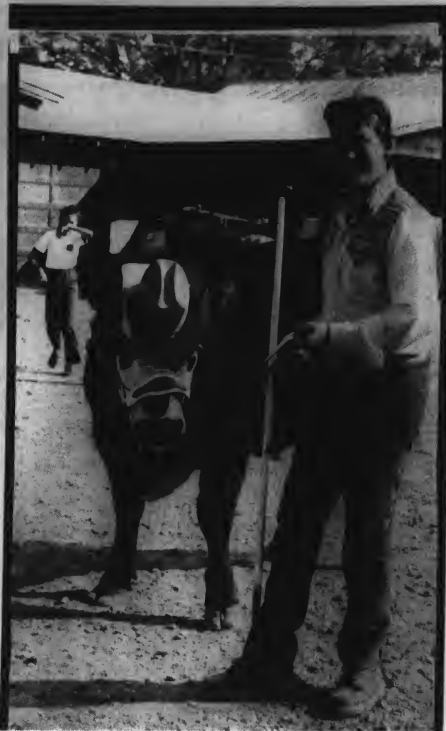

Cadet Capt. Carroll A. Palmore Jr. of Virginia Beach was among 22 Air Force ROTC Cadets at the University of Southern Mississippi honored during dining out ceremonies at the Hattiesburg Country Club.

Palmore received the Leadership Ribbon in recognition of displayed leadership ability above and beyond that normally expected of an Aerospace cadet.

4-H'ers learn showmanship skills in annual steer show

All seriousness aside for a moment, Todd Brown of Virginia Beach took a more informal pose with his black-whiteface steer.

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

The annual 4-H Baby Beef Show and Sale took place last Friday at Princess Anne Stables in Virginia Beach.

The event is co-sponsored each year by the agriculture committees of the Virginia Beach and the Chesapeake Chamber of Commerce.

Twenty-seven prize steers were on display in this year's show. Showing and fitting of the steers began at 4:30 p.m. followed by a catered picnic dinner at 6:30 p.m. An auction sale completed the evening.

4-H'ers ages nine to 19 participated in the competition, showing several classes of steers, including Angus, Charolais, Hereford and black-whiteface, in addition to showing lambs.

Each 4-H'er competed to show his steer to the best advantage. In addition to selecting and feeding his steer, each had to teach it to lead and stand properly, brush and wash it frequently, and trim and clip it.

4-H exhibitors participating in their first show entered in the novice category. The junior category included 4-H'ers ages nine to 13 who participated in last year's 4-H Steer Show and Sale. Exhibitors ages 14-19 who took part in last year's show entered in the senior category.

Virginia Beach 4-H'er and their sponsors participating in this year's competition were:

Novice: Sean Barnes, Be-Lo Markets; Todd Barnes, Horace Malbone; Mary Ann Cannon, G & S Equipment Company; Chris Fogelman, Ticewater Chemical; Robin Holland, Kellam & Eaton; Rodney Phillips, P & L Builders; Melinda Vaughan, R. K. Chevrolet.

Junior: Kirby Sue Malbone, Princess Anne Equipment Co; Scott Miles, Malbon Brother's Farms; Charlie Thomas, Southern States Cooperative.

Senior: Matt Brown V, Stevenson Ford; Todd Brown, F & M Bank; Judith Ann Cannon, Bayville Farms; Mark Dorsch, John H. Malbon Co.; Russell Malbone, Henderson Oil Company; Scott Malbone, F.S. Royster Company; Dannie Miles, Southern States Cooperative.

Mark Dorsch of Virginia Beach posed with his first place winning steer in the Hereford category.

Judy Cannon of Virginia Beach made sure her Hereford stood in place while the judging was going on.

Melinda Vaughan of Virginia Beach stood poised with her Angus steer as judging neared completion. She was soon to find out that she had won first place in that category.

Judge Dr. Arthur L. Eller, left, and ring master Don Horsley were kept busy throughout the various class competitions. Horsley helped lead and direct the 4-H'ers and their steers once in the judging arena. Dr. Eller picked the winners, in addition to giving a critique of each steer.

Revived canal plan to aid corn fields

By Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Flooding of the corn fields in the south end of the Virginia Beach has prompted the city to revitalize ten-year-old plans for a canal to provide relief.

Known on city records as "Canal #1", the canal was first proposed by then Public Works director Kenneth Whitehurst who had proposed a five cent tax on tobacco to finance the project.

Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr., at an informal session of council recently, recommended that the city proceed with documentation of the flooding for presentation to the respective Federal agencies which are required to approve the project.

The project first appeared in the Capital Improvement Plan for 1971-76 and a 100-foot wide canal was constructed from North Back Bay to Dam Neck Road. Waterfield said, however that the canal stops there and "doesn't go anywhere."

The original plan called for it to be continued to Owl's Creek which leads into Rudie Inlet. Completion of this last segment would alleviate flooding conditions which result from northeast westerly winds and from storms, Waterfield said.

Public Works director Oral Lambert said that it would cost approximately $2.5 million to complete the canal which was originally designed to be navigable. The project, however, is not included in the present Capital Improvement Plan. The estimate for the project in 1971 was $1.8 million.

A lock will be included if the canal is to be navigable but only a spillover will be required otherwise, he said.

Waterfield said that the project was abandoned because of political issues — the State of North Carolina objected, and the complications arising from environmental issues.

He said the areas of Blackwater, Pungo and Princess Anne boroughs near the Bay are presently under water inspections from six to eight inches. Standing water on the roads, he said also breaks up the pavement, and the mosquito problem will multiply.

Farmers who invested roughly $150 an acre in corn planting now see their money and their work labor go down the drawn drain, Waterfield said. The fields will lie unused until bean planting time, he said, because even if the water recedes today, it will take another two weeks for the land to dry — too late to plant corn again.

He said that he remembers similar flooding years ago which prevented farmers from picking beans...

Waterfield said the problem has never been documented and feels that such documentation would win approval for the canal by the agencies involved. Waterfield, who was defeated for re-election in this month's council election, said that he would continue to work toward the completion of the project in or out of council.

Mildred Alexander addresses conference on today's women living with change

"Women Today-Living With Change" is the title of a one-day conference to be sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Agriculture/Cooperative Extension Service. This conference will be held at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center June 3 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The conference will feature noted speakers and consumer workshops, which will be of interest to women — single, married, divorced, employed or homemaker.

The morning program will feature Mildred Alexander, who moderates a television program called Bible Study, addressing the topic of "Keep On Keeping On."

Dr. Joseph Maxwell, associate professor at Virginia Tech and author of the book, "The Family as an Ecosystem," speaking on the subject, "Stress Without Distress."

Four mini-consumer workshops will be conducted on "Balancing Family and Career," "A Baby? Maybe?" "Work Smarter, Not Harder," "Men Know It-But Do You?" and "The Law and Domestic Relations."

For more information, those interested in attending may write or call the Virginia Beach Cooperative Extension Office.

First Colonial League rewards best yards

At the May meeting, the First Colonial Civic League gave recognition for the first time to residents with the most attractive yards.

Eileen Davis, chairman of judging, presented certificates to Mr. and Mrs. Litt Zehner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and

Mr. and Mrs. Earnhart for their efforts over the years to enhance the neighborhood by planting trees, shrubs and flowers.

The Civic League will elect new officers in June at their regular meeting which will be a dinner meeting.

First Colonial Road improvements approved

The location and major design features of a project to widen and make general improvements on a segment of First Colonial Road in Virginia Beach were approved last Thursday by the Highway and Transportation Commission.
This project is part of an overall plan to improve Colonial Road in its entirety, and is referred to as Phase II of the plan. The first phase was the improvement of the facility from Great Neck Road to Will-O-Wisp Drive.
Plans approved by the commission pick up where the first phase left off. They begin at Will-O-Wisp Drive and extend 1.6 miles to a point just south of Virginia Beach Boulevard.
The road will be upgraded to a four-lane facility, providing two 12-foot lanes for each direction, separated by a 16-foot raised median.
Curbs, gutters and sidewalks will be provided on both sides of the new facility.
The right-of-way, which has been obtained by the City of Virginia Beach, varies from 88 to 90 feet.
Crossovers with left-turn lanes will be provided at the intersections with Wildwood Drive, Wolfsmare Road, Laskin

Lane, Laskin Road, Old Virginia Beach Boulevard, Wisconsin Avenue and Virginia Beach Boulevard.
The project is expected to cost about $1.8 million for adjustment of utilities and construction. The utility adjustments will be financed 15 per cent with city funds and 85 per cent with state funds. Construction costs will be financed 10 percent with city funds and 90 per cent with state funds.
Traffic volume on this facility has ranged from 10,000 vehicles a day south of Virginia Beach Boulevard to 18,500 north of Laskin Road.
The 1995 average daily traffic is anticipated to be approximately 20,000 vehicles at day south of Virginia Beach Boulevard and 34,000 vehicles a day north of Laskin Road.
At a public hearing in February, several speakers requested additional access to shopping centers and a church parking lot. Adjustments can be made in the plans, and adequate access will be provided.
The City of Virginia Beach adopted a resolution on April 3 approving the project.

Personal property taxes due June 1

Real estate and personal property tax bills, which are due June 1, have been mailed by the city treasurer who is requesting that those who do not receive their bill notify his office to avoid a penalty.
John T. Atkinson, treasurer, warned that failure to receive a bill will not be an excuse to avoid the penalty for those who do not pay by June 1. He is requesting that his office be notified in time to get the bill to the taxpayer before the deadline for payment.

Painting the Beach

...with Eric Stevens

David Breeskin Entertains at Omni

"My right hand will be playing 'Moonlight Sonata,' my left hand will be playing 'Night and Day,' my right foot will be dancing the Tahitian Fertility Dance, and my left foot will be simply panting."

That's how David Breeskin got into his first of two encores on Sunday, May 14 at the Omni International Hotel.

The pianist earned that encore by receiving a standing ovation for his unaccompanied medley from "Porgy and Bess." He garnered another standing ovation at the end of the first set, which offered considerable variety.

Normally, a list of songs would be a bore, but David exercised such taste in his selections that just reading the list is pleasurable: "Our Day Will Come," "My Girl Does It Good," "Bluesette" (The Toots Thielman waltz that is usually whistled), "Feel Like Making Love," "Send In The Clowns," Richard Rodgers' "Lover" (at break neck speed), "When I Fall Love" (a fabulous song I'd forgotten about), an Oscar Peterson tune that was not named by Breeskin, "Greensleeves," a fine composition of David's, Jerome Kern's masterpiece "All The Things You Are," "Evergreen," a medley of "The Look Of Love" and "How Insensitive," "Time and Again" (again Oscar Peterson), "We've Only Just Begun" which Breeskin weaved in and out of "The Way We Were." At this point, he waved his bassist and drummer from the stage for the Gershwin medley. After the encore, he asked for requests: Someone yelled for a blues. I mentally seconded that. But the second encore was "Misty," which is hard to quibble with.

Rodgers. Kern. Gershwin. Fortunately, David is from Washington and didn't realize that those men are forgotten here. How about starting a "preservation society" for the great songwriters, David?

You can see from the way David holds his hands that he is classically trained. But it doesn't get in his way. He keeps enough funk in the game to call it jazz. He uses his blazing speed and trained touch as a means to an end rather than as ends in themselves. Because he is geared to producing a fine tone, David plays only a Yamaha; so in love with Yamaha is he that he began selling them, and he'll rhapsodize at length about the Japanese product... but out of love, not salesmanship. He also handles Yamaha organs at his B&B Music Store at Hilltop. Comes to think of it, Aries is a good sign for a salesman OR a performer.

If you are a Redskin fan, the name Breeskin is familiar. David's father, Barnee, led the Redskin band, and wrote "Hail To The Redskins." The violinist also led "The Singing Strings" at the Shoreham Hotel. When a Metropolitan Opera singer performed there, Barnee informed her at a spotlight that she was going to become his bride. She didn't argue, and David is the product. David acknowledged her presence in the Mother's Day audience by playing "You Are The Sunshine Of My Life," which Stevie Wonder wrote for HIS mother.

David made his debut at such an early age that his mother inadvertently set him up for a faux pas. She told him that after his two songs he would do his encore. Not knowing exactly what an encore meant, he announced that he would play (name of song) and (name of song) and his encore.

David studied at Peabody Conservatory, and once gave a performance for Hubert Humphrey.

Offering a flawless accompaniment through David's tricky arrangements were the long-time rhythm team of Roy Smith and Kenny Harmon, who had to depart hastily to make the second half of the 7-11:00 Sunday session at The Witch Duck Inn. Bassist Harmon played a Rickenbacker through an Ampeg, and sounded like a real bass; his horn-like solos were outstanding. Smith, who is perhaps 49, states that he is the only 85 year old drummer still in the business.

My only reservation is that most of the songs were unannounced... a common omission among bandleaders and disc jockeys.

The next concert will probably be on the Esplanade at the Omni... under the stars, overlooking the river. Perhaps there'll be some organ solos. Then you'll hear what that left foot can do!

David is a resident of Windsor Woods, incidentally.

Hail to the Breeskins!

Ed. note: Eric Stevens is active in this area as a bandleader. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit record, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show, worked as a disc jockey and floorshow act, and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers. If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Va. Beach, Va. 23454.

"Carousel" Opens

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

If you're looking for an evening of heartwarming entertainment, a drive from Virginia Beach to the current show at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre would be well worth your time. Now showing is "Carousel," the 1945 Rogers and Hammerstein musical.

"Carousel" is the story of a ne'er-do-well who marries a simple factory girl, much to the dismay of her friends and neighbors. Throughout their marriage Julie, the wife, is scorned, even after husband Billy commits suicide. With the birth of their daughter, the townspeople pass their rude avoidances down to the innocent child.

Viewing from heaven, Billy realizes the curse he has left for his daughter Louise. He gets a chance to return to earth for one day and proves how much he really does love his family.

Last Thursday's performance of the musical started out well in the first act. But the second act just sort of blossomed and portrayed so much more feeling and emotion, the first act seemed pale in comparison.

Bill Loconsolo as Billy Bigelow simply got better and better as the show went on. His portrayal of a well-meaning husband who just doesn't know how to make it in normal folks' society was superb.

His lusty spirit and frustration with his place in the world really shone through in such solos as "The Highest Judge of All." Particularly touching was his "Soliloquy" where he surmised what his unborn child would be like.

Annamarie Smith as Julie Jordan presented strong acting, especially in the second half of the play. Her display of emotions showing her grief over the death of her husband brought many a tear to those in the audience.

Amy Grant did a commendable job as Carrie Pipperidge, Julie's best friend. Together with Chip Vogan as her fiancé "Mr. Snow," they charmed the audience.

Ms. Grant's performance throughout the show was spritely and full of life. In one duet she and Mr. Snow sang of their future life together. He sang of how he would start with one boat and end up owning a fleet. When the subject changed to the number of children they would have she asked, "Are you building up to another fleet?"

One of the highlights of the play was the ballet scene starring Laura Thoma as Louise, Billy and Julie's daughter. As Billy views his daughter from heaven he sees what kind of life he has made for her.

Without a word, simply through dance, Ms. Thoma did an excellent job of portraying her turmoil and the burden of her father's bad name. Gene Hammett's choreography was beautiful, as was the performance of all the dancers.

Also notable was Red Wiggins' portrayal of the wayward Jigger Craigin, whose most profound statement was, "My mother had a baby once."

Lucille Dowaliby, as Nettie Fowler, offered one of the most poignant moments of the play with her performance of "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Well designed costumes by Dottie Holtz also deserved notice.

Take a story that is sometimes humorous, sometimes tragic, but always touching. Add to it some of the most beautiful melodies of the musical theatre repertory, such as "If I Loved You" and "You'll Never Walk Alone." Together you have "Carousel," a production you certainly don't want to miss at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre.

Shows are Tuesday through Sunday. Admission is $13.90 Tuesday through Thursday and $15.75 Friday through Sunday. Price includes buffet dinner, show and tax.

For reservations call 461-2933.

The WITCH DUCK INN has a little something for everybody. Good food, good music - from disco to jazz - and a congenial atmosphere all make the Inn an up-and-coming nightspot.

Located at 4520 Independence Boulevard, in the Pembroke Meadows Shopping Center, the WITCH DUCK INN features Italian and American specialties: Monday - lasagna dinner for $1.95, Wednesday - all the steak and spaghetti you can eat for $4.95, and Saturday, an 8 oz. Sirloin steak dinner plus 1/2 liter of wine for $3.95. For an added twist the Inn honors any and all pizza discount coupons.

For the disco-lovers, local djs are on hand Tuesday through Saturday from 9 pm to 2 am. Danny Brain handles the music on Wednesday nights, Brad Kerv of Honey Radio on Thursdays and Fridays, and Sandro on Tuesdays and Saturdays.

The HMS Quartet is featured every Sunday at the WITCH DUCK INN with outstanding jazz from 7 to 11 p.m.

If all these attractions aren't enough to spark your interest, manager Bobby Greenfield adds one more to the list: All unescorted ladies can take advantage of half-priced beverages Mondays through Thursdays from 7 pm to 2 am.

Sue Ann Meulenburg

Reign begins for new Miss Virginia Beach

By F. Michael LaRosa
Special to the SUN

The pretty blonde relaxing on the sofa in her Virginia Beach home smiles when she recalls the events of Saturday night two weeks ago.

That was when she won the title of Miss Virginia Beach.

But Sue Ann Meulenburg's smile is not the forced, clenched kind one is used to seeing on beauty queens. It's a smile that disseminates sincerity from her sparkling blue eyes down.

Her kind of smile helped Sue Ann score highest among the ten contestants during the Miss Virginia Beach pageant interviews, an important part of the competition.

Genuine smiles and easy conversation are Sue Ann's specialties, both traits stemming from a family life that could be aired on television, slotted between "The Waltons" and "Eight is Enough."

"We're very close," Sue Ann says of her parents and four brothers. "We're all very active and don't see each other as much as we want, but when we do it's something special."

The daughter of a retired Navy musician, Sue Ann attributes her love for music to her family, and can run off an amalgam of family member's names and the instruments they play.

It was Sue Ann's love for music that prompted the 19-year-old Wesleyan College student to enter the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant in March.

"I lost a $1400 grant," she says, speaking of her desire to obtain a masters degree in music. "That's why I'm working two jobs this summer. That's why I entered the pageant."

Sue Ann, whose original goal was to win the pageant's talent award, feels that her educational ambitions played a role in her winning the title.

"I told them I was planning to go to graduate school," she says. "The title is nice now that I have it, but I really wasn't after that. I really needed the money."

A native of Maryland, Sue Ann has lived in Virginia Beach most of her life and plans to leave only long enough to attend graduate school.

Being a member of the Virginia Opera Association's chorus and having auditioned for parts in the Virginia Beach Little Theater, she feels that the Tidewater area offers all she needs to pursue her newfound interest in opera, now her first musical love.

"I was never interested in opera before I got into the association," Sue Ann says, remembering when Wesleyan College music director David Clayton recognized her interest in singing and offered her the chance to work with Ashley Putnam during the Association's production of "Madam Butterfly."

"I just thought it would sound good on a resume," she explains. "So I did it and I just really loved it."

"People would just sit down and talk to me because they knew I was interested and I soaked it up like a sponge. What better way is there to learn than from people who know everything."

Since her first performance with the Virginia Opera Association in November of 1977, Sue Ann has appeared in the Association's "Mary Queen of Scots" and in New York with Wesleyan College's Chamber Choir, a select group of students who sing and do choreography.

"I took ballet lessons, but that was a long time ago," she says. "My mother always wanted me to be a dancer and I always wanted to be a singer. I guess I finally won."

Sue Ann, who scored well during the pageant's talent competition, based her choice of materials, "Romance" from the musical "The Desert Song," on the idea that "popular songs are okay for pageants, but if you do something that you've really worked on and that has a little challenge to it, the judges like it."

Disappointment seemed inevitable when first runner up Karen Ann Mendoza's excellent piano performance won her the $100 Mary Beth Alexander Memorial Talent Award Scholarship.

Winning the title of Miss Virginia Beach along with the $300 scholarship and a chance to represent Virginia Beach in the statewide Miss Virginia Pageant was a totally unexpected surprise for Sue Ann.

"When they called my name and I went up there all I could think of was that it was Friday night and I was at home in my bed dreaming of what was going to happen on Saturday," she smiles. "It really didn't feel like it was happening."

Sue Ann's priority now is to win the Miss Virginia competition and the opportunity to compete for the title of Miss America.

"That's a $20,000 scholarship," she laughs. "Wouldn't that be great?"

Sue Ann Meulenburg won the title of Miss Virginia Beach May 20. A Virginia Wesleyan College student, Ms. Meulenburg sang "Romance" from the musical "The Desert Song" for her talent competition.

Hot Cakes sizzles Beach with their disco jazz

Hot Cakes is: Steve "Stoney" Smith, George Bell, Doug Cowart, Mark Maynard, Randy Pope and Leon James.

By Joan Coates
SUN Editor

After listening to a night of Hot Cakes, it's almost impossible to walk away without ringing ears full of harmonic melodies and toes tapping to a driving disco beat.

What Hot Cakes gives to its audience is their best. And their best is the finest disco jazz found anywhere at the Beach. Performing regularly at Rogues and Peabody's, Hot Cakes packs them in.

Disco jazz is the hottest thing going in the country today. John Travolta, the Bee Gees and places like New York's Studio 54 have put dance music back on the map.

But Hot Cakes is no fly-by-night group capitalizing on a spiraling trend. They have jammed with some of the music world's best... from piano-vocalist Billy Joel and country rocker Kenny Loggins to jazz great Grover Washington and eccentric rocker Frank Zappa.

And they have just completed a recording in preparation for their first album.

The original Hot Cakes got together about three years ago. Some of the members have changed since then, but the sound has remained basically the same.

"Right now our strong point is dance music," said Mark Maynard, lead vocalist and trombonist.

"We're a combination of disco jazz with some street funk thrown in. You have to do what comes naturally and different groups go in their own direction. You eventually develop your own personality."

Hot Cakes' personality is omin-directional. They count as their influence anything from black funk jazz and the Big Band sound to Dan Fogelberg.

"We're really influenced by just about anything," George Bell, saxophone player and lead vocalist says.

"Our music moves in a lot of directions and it varies."

Current Hot Cakes material consists of Kool and the Gang's "Get Down with the Genie," Carly Simon's "You Belong to Me," Mother's Finest' "Piece of the Rock," and Shiek's "Clap Your Hands," to name a few.

It looks like a musical switch-off when the group really starts cooking. Bell plays alto, tenor and soprano sax and has been known to switch over to keyboards occasionally. Maynard varies between flute, mouth piano, vocals and trombone. And Steve "Stoney" Smith can play some really fine guitar, although he serves regular on the keyboards.

Added together with the virtuoso of Leon James and his drums, Randy Pope's guitar and lead vocals and Doug Cowart's vocals and guitar, and Hot Cakes has a strong mixture of musical talent.

The sum total is music that doesn't allow anyone to stand still long.

But the Hot Cakes sound doesn't come easy for the band. They practice in four hour rehearsals, sometimes five or six nights a week.

"Our hours are irregular," Maynard explained. "It's not just standing on the stage and playing. It's work and it's physical, too."

Cloning nears reality

We've all heard the strange and fantastic tales of cloning Einstein and Sigmund Freud. Or the one about Adolph Hitler's clone popping up in Brazil.

Most scientists reject the idea of a modern day human clone... but Dr. Thomas O. Sitz, assistant professor of chemical sciences at Old Dominion University, says that even though the technology and knowledge is not available for human clones, it could be in the next 10 or 20 years.

Jean Coates

SUN Editor

There are three types of cloning, according to Sitz - molecular, cellular and organism.

The one that has received the most publicity and the most fear is the organism clone.

Organism cloning, "is a means of isolating a cell and causing it to grow into a complete organism again," Sitz said. "The new organism would be identical to that from which the cell was taken."

Even though environment might change the vocation or interests for a human clone, Sitz said they would have the same potential as well as being physically similar.

The technique has been successful with frogs although it has not been proven with mammals. But the professor predicts that in the next decade or so, it could be possible.

But what about the moral issue?

"Who would decide who's going to be cloned and who isn't? Would it be great to have a thousand Einsteins, to clone people with great music ability... or when we need a special group of people, such as garbage men, to clone them?" Sitz asks.

The first thing I'd do is to clone Barbara "Waw-Waw" and have her write my column every week.

Rip-off time comes

Town Crier:

Tourist season arrives and once again it's rip-off time for the consumer.

I went into a Beach bar last week-end and was appalled at the prices. A coke was 75 cents and a glass of beer was 90 cents.

Oh, well. I guess I'll have to accept what the bartender told me... "It's tourist season again."

It's fixed but it's not right

Town Crier:

They fixed Laskin Road only it's not fixed.

It took the highway department weeks to tear up Laskin Road at Baltic Avenue. They paved it back up, but the only problem now is that there are more holes and bumps than there ever was before.

What's going to happen? In the middle of July, will they tear it up again?

Solar energy shines on with the sun

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

The national Sun Day has come and gone, and the sun shines on.

Therein lies the point of the whole affair.

Deeper messages remain, unfortunately, buried beneath the paper mountain generated by the event said to have been started by the people, for the people.

A news release from the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center, one of the many that emerged from government agencies just before the May 3 Sun Day, had an interesting typographical error in it.

"The energy problem won't go away," it said, "we must fact up to it."

Indeed, if we as private citizens want some say-so in energy matters we must "fact up." There WILL be a test later.

But it was easy enough to emerge from Sun Day with the impression that solar energy as a commodity is a lot like sea water.

It's "out there" all right, but try to drink it and you're liable to go crazy.

Ignorance in the case of solar energy - which indirectly includes the wind, biological materials that can give off fuel while decomposing, and even the potential of power from ocean temperatures - is a natural enough condition.

Money talks, as they say, every if it isn't always clear what it is saying.

Solar energy systems to heat water for home or business use are widely available NOW, with the expense to homeowner being approximately $1800 installed.

Solar air-conditioning is available on a more limited basis. Devices to directly convert sunlight into electricity are too expensive at the moment to consider putting them on your roof.

Now, for some of that other information that Sun Day saw printed and distributed:

A federal agency sent out a quote from the president of the Solar Energy Industries Association saying that the $150 million passing through today's solar marketplace in the course of a year could become $10 billion within 10 years, with proper incentives.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development distributed a cartoon depicting sun rays as "economical, inexhaustible, predictable, available to all, non-inflationary."

Dennis Ackerman, President of Solar One LTD., said that if people are waiting for prices to drop before they buy solar, they're getting "bad advice." It's likely costs of materials and labor will climb.

James Schlesinger, secretary of the federal Department of Energy, called solar energy "a major part of the solution," and President Carter ordered an emphasis on renewable energy in federal spending.

What's it all mean? Nobody is really sure, though a national energy policy might help explain it someday.

Perhaps it's enough that Sun Day got us thinking a little harder about that ultimate energy source in the sky, particularly the school children who find themselves beginning life in what is termed "the dusk of the cheap fossil fuels."

One Sun Day pamphlet did offer us a starting point for participating. "Think of ways you can use solar and renewable energy in your current lifestyle," was the advice.

ERA boycotts Beach

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Residents of Virginia Beach should feel proud to be living in such a beautiful and friendly state. I have fond memories of my visits to Virginia. It is unfortunate that I no longer feel welcome in your state.

Myself and many other individuals and organizations are boycotting Virginia because your legislators have failed to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). We will not contribute any monies to your state through tourism, conventions or trade until the ERA has been ratified by the Virginia legislature.

The ERA is simply a constitutional amendment allowing people of both sexes to have the opportunity of free and responsible choice in matters of basic human rights. It is Virginia and just 14 other states that is blocking this goal.

Hopefully I will soon be welcome in Virginia and Virginia Beach, but this will only come about by seeing to it that your state legislators ratify the ERA.

From sun to the skin

I had a suntan once.

Out of all my summers I can really only claim having had a good suntan one time, a somewhat embarrassing record for living in a resort area. While I prefer to think of myself as being fair skinned, most people would call it frog-belly white. Nevertheless, every year we palefaces set out with the determination of a bull to get the best tan ever.

Pam Vandever

But something always seems to go wrong. Burning, peeling and fading from red to white are familiar cycles.

There are other obstacles, and this season so far is a perfect example. Have you noticed how it seems to rain every weekend? I was really geared up for some time outdoors this Memorial Day weekend. But Saturday was bleak, Sunday was bleaker, and Monday we won't even discuss.

There was one good Saturday a couple of weeks ago - I got sick and stayed in bed all day.

I just don't understand why my blond haired, blue eyed friends can sit next to a lighted match and turn brown while lotion that's supposed to transform your skin into bronze beauty does nothing for me.

But I won't give up. Next weekend just has to be sunny. I'll get out there and try again, and with a little bit of luck I might be on my way to suntan number two.

Neptune Festival will start early to avoid conflict

This year's Neptune Festival is going to start two weeks early. The reason is that festival officials do not want it to conflict with the fall Jewish holidays.

The festival usually begins on the last weekend in September and continues through the first week in October.

This year's Neptune Festival will begin on Sept. 15 and continue through Sept. 24.

Festival officials said the early date was set to avoid a conflict with Jewish holidays in early October.

The holidays are Rosh Hashanah (new year) on Oct. 2 and Yom Kippur (day of atonement) on Oct. 11.

Substance abuse hearing scheduled for June 6

On Tuesday, June 6, the Virginia Beach Community Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Board will conduct a public hearing to solicit information concerning community needs and programs in the areas of mental health, mental retardation and substance abuse. The hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the city council chamber, Administration Building, Princess Anne Municipal Center.

The services board, using city and state funds, currently provides such services as mental health outpatient treatment, and as an adult activity center and transportation; and substance abuse services such as alcohol and drug prevention and a jail counseling program.

The services board has now started developing its Comprehensive Five Year Plan. The public hearing will be one method used to obtain input from citizens regarding assessment of community needs, availability of accessibility of present services, identification of service gaps, effectiveness of existing programs, priorities for future program funding.

From the information obtained at the public hearing, the services board will develop a draft plan. A final hearing on the draft plan will be held this fall.

The completed comprehensive five year plan will be adopted by the services board in October. The plan, when adopted, will be the basis of the services board's annual program and funding requests to city council and the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

If you wish to speak at the hearing call 499-3737 to have your name placed on the speaker's list. Persons speaking as individuals will be allotted five minutes, persons representing agencies/organizations will be allotted ten minutes.

Persons unable to attend the public hearing may submit written testimony to the Services Board Administrative Office, 281 Independence Blvd., Pembroke One, Suite 103, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23462.

New public information officer named by Beach school system

Joe Lowenthal, news director at WCMS radio station in Norfolk, has been named to succeed John F. Holgate as Public Information Officer for Virginia Beach Public Schools effective July 1, 1978.

Holgate, who is scheduled to receive his master's degree in communications this month from Norfolk State College, steps down June 30 from the position he has held for six and a half years to seek a college teaching position in communications.

Lowenthal comes to Virginia Beach Public Schools with an extensive background in education and communications. Before becoming WCMS News Director five years ago, he was the Norfolk news editor for WGH radio. He was also managing editor of the Virginia Beach SUN for five years, and he served with the news department of WRVA radio in Richmond for two years.

Lowenthal holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from Richmond Professional Institute of the College of William and Mary (now V.C.U.). He has taught drama, speech and English in Richmond Public Schools and at Princess Anne High School.

Lowenthal's wife, Louise, teaches art at First Colonial High School. Their daughter Joanna is a sophomore at Princess Anne High, daughter Carolyn is an eighth grade student at Independence Junior, and son David is a fourth grader at Malibu Elementary.

The Lowenthals reside in King's Forest.

Ordinance regulates dogs on beach

The Virginia Beach city council recently adopted an ordinance regulating the sand beaches, boardwalk, and grassy area west of the boardwalk from Rudes Inlet to 42nd Street. The ordinance prohibits individuals from walking their dogs in this area during the period from May 15th through September 30th.

In the residential district north of 42nd Street dogs are permitted on the sand beaches in the custody or under the control of a responsible person between May 15th and September 30th from 7 p.m. and 9 a.m. the following day.

In the event that a dog litters the sand beaches, the person having control of the animal shall immediately dispose of same in a sanitary manner approved by the Health Department, such as encasing in an airtight wrapper or container and placing in a garbage receptacle.

If you have questions regarding these regulations or other animal control ordinances contact the Virginia Beach Animal Control Division at 427-4158.

"Stonehenge symphony" set at PA June 1

Princess Anne High School Band will hold its annual Spring Concert June 1 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The advanced band will feature music from the Old Country, climaxing with Virginia Beach's premier performance of Paul Whear's "Stonehenge Symphony", a musical picture of the beauties and mysteries of England's Stonehenge.

The cost will be $1 for students $2 for adults and $4 for a family ticket.

Another famous musical number, "Buglers Holiday," will be played at this concert featuring three of Princess Anne's seniors: Paul Cowell, Paula Svagdys, and Kevin James King.

David Cowell is a 19 year old senior who enjoys his music and can play a variety of brass instruments. He has been a member of the band for the past seven years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cowell.

Paula Svagdys is a 17 year old senior who is an honor roll student and enjoys playing softball and basketball.

She has been a band member for the past six years. She is a member of the Saint Gregory Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Svagdys.

Kevin King, a 17 year old senior and sports enthusiast, who likes all types of sports. He has been in the band for the past six years and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary A. King.

WAVY president appointed to board

Ed J. Frech, president and general manager of WAVY-TV in Portsmouth, has been appointed vice-president and member of the board of directors of LIN Broadcasting Corporation, New York, parent company of the Channel 10 Tidewater subsidiary.

Frech has been the chief executive of WAVY-TV since 1974, having come to the Tidewater area from Richmond, Virginia. In Richmond, he served as executive vice-president and general manager of WTVR-TV AM-FM. Before coming to Virginia, Frech had ownership and management responsibilities with radio and television stations in California.

He currently resides with his family in Virginia Beach.

Fund drive raises money for youth

A fund drive is on in the Green Run, Lynnhaven and Magic Hollow neighborhoods to establish a community youth center at the Green Run Christian Church. The Rev. Bob White has offered the facilities of the church to house the center.

An appeal is being made to business and individuals to contribute to the community center. It is hoped that the outgrowth of the activities at the center will be the opportunity to send young people to Christian summer camps.

$3,000 would launch the center, finance its activities through the summer and provide camp scholarships to youngsters whose families can't afford them.

At the center there will be day sessions for all ages. The activity will include retreats, socials, group trips and personal counseling.

Evening sessions are designed to entertain, challenge and motivate young people "to a more meaningful life," said Lee Locklear, a volunteer.

Advisors to the center will be Roy Ammons, athletic director at Kellam High School, Don Ryan of the Weyerhaeuser Company, Jerry Newberry, U.S. Navy, and the Green Run Christian Church pastor.

On the center staff will be Judy Casey of Shelbyville, Ky., a graduate of Kentucky Christian College. Miss Casey has experience in psychology and youth counseling.

Delena White, a student at Kentucky Christian College, will spend her summer vacation serving on the staff. She has led youth activities in her church and has been a camp counselor.

Entertainment will be provided by The Exhortations, Jay Banks and Tony Krantz. Banks and Krantz have worked at youth rallies, retreats and high school assemblies.

Annual church festival set for June 3

The Church of the Ascension, Princess Anne Road, Virginia Beach, is holding its annual festival on the church grounds Saturday, June 3rd from 9:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, June 4th from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

There will be rides for all the family, games of skill, bingo, foods of all kinds, plant and white elephant

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF A PROPOSED RATE INCREASE BY VIRGINIA ELECTRIC AND POWER COMPANY

On April 24, 1978, Virginia Electric and Power Company filed with the State Corporation Commission an application requesting approval of revised schedules of rates and charges to become effective August 1, 1978. Vepco states that the revised schedules are designed to produce approximately $246 million in additional annual gross revenue. The Commission has suspended the effective date of the proposed increase and has scheduled the following public hearings on the application.

- On September 5, 1978, in the Chesapeake City Council Chamber, Civic Center Building, Chesapeake, Virginia, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
- On September 6, 1978, in the Board Room of the Board of Supervisors, Massey Building, Fairfax County, Virginia, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
- On September 7, 1978, in the Commission's Courtroom, Blanton Building, Richmond, Virginia, convening at 10:00 a.m. and to be continued thereafter from day to day until the public hearing is completed.

Parties who wish to speak at the above scheduled hearings and not participate as a Protest, may be scheduled by contacting the following numbers: (a) To appear at the hearing in Chesapeake call the office of the City Clerk - (804) 547-6151; (b) To appear at the hearing in Fairfax County call the office of the County Attorney - (703) 691-2421; (c) To appear at the hearing in Richmond call 1-800-552-9760. In order that the Commission may hear from the maximum number of persons desiring to make a statement, all public witnesses are requested to limit their oral comments to seven (7) minutes.

Copies of the application, the proposed schedules of rates and charges, and the testimony and exhibits of the witnesses the Company proposes to present in support of its proposed increase may be reviewed in the Clerk's Office of the Commission or at any office of the Company where bills may be paid.

On or before July 20, 1978, all persons who expect to submit evidence, cross-examine witnesses, and otherwise participate in the hearing as Protestants, as provided by Rule 4:6 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, shall file a Notice of Protest as provided by Rule 5:16(a). A copy of the Notice of Protest shall be served on Company's counsel, Evans B. Brasfield, Esquire, Hunton and Williams, P.O. Box 1535, Richmond, Virginia 23212.

On or before August 4, 1978, The Commission's Staff shall file with the Clerk of the Commission ten (10) copies of the prepared testimony and exhibits of each witness expected to present direct testimony, and will serve a copy upon Company and each Protestant.

On or before August 15, 1978, all persons who have filed a Notice of Protest and who still expect to participate at the hearing as a party Protestant must file ten (10) copies of all prepared testimony and exhibits of the witnesses to be offered at the hearing, and shall serve a copy thereof upon counsel for the Company and upon all other Protestants. Not later than August 15, 1978, all Protestants also shall have filed a written Protest as required by Commission Rules.

All written communications regarding the application for increased rates should be addressed to William C. Young, Clerk, State Corporation Commission, Blanton Building, P.O. Box 1197, Richmond, Virginia 23209.

Table tennis champs compete for Beach win

The first annual Virginia Beach Open Table Tennis Championships was held Saturday May 20 at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center.

The tournament was sponsored by the Recreation Center, Virginia Beach Table Tennis Association, Bill Downs Pontiac and Volvo and Harry Mahtani.

Competition consisted of boys and girls under 11 through adult. All events consisted of the best two out of three games, except the mens' finals which was the best out of five games.

Razor sharp reflexes and timing along with strategic placement of the ball made the competition highly competitive for the players assembled.

Ten tables in play at once kept referees and players alert during the entire day of tournament action.

Girls 17 and under competition winners were Barbara Blum with first place and Anne-Mary Werne with second.

Kathy Hart gives her opponent a little of her own medicine.

Michael Bond smiles with his trophy after winning second place in the boys' 11 and under competition.

The top wheelchair table tennis player, Don Davidson, is heavy competition for high caliber players.

After vigorous competition, Laura Vollrath took first place and Sarah Hausermann won second place in the girls 11 and under competition.

Time to register for summer school

Summer school registration for Virginia Beach Public Schools students in grades 7-12 will be held at 7:30 a.m. on Monday, June 19 at Kempeville High School. First class sessions will follow a short orientation. Late registration will continue through June 21. Both required and elective courses will be offered in those subjects having sufficient enrollment.

For the first time free school bus transportation will be provided for the entire summer school session ending August 4. Bus routes have been established using designated elementary and secondary schools as bus stops, except in rural areas where stops on main roads will be utilized. Bus routes are available at all secondary schools.

Students may attend a six-week session for new subject or repeat a subject failed by enrolling in a three-week session.

Morning classes will be conducted from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Afternoon classes will be conducted from 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. for seniors only who need two credits to graduate. The first three-week session will run from June 19 through July 10, and the second from July 11 through July 31. The six-week session runs from June 19 through July 31.

All summer school secondary classes will be taught at Kempeville High School. Tuition per unit of credit for repeat courses will be $15, and tuition for new courses will be $30 per unit. Post graduate and non-resident students will pay $25 per unit for repeat courses and $30 for new courses. In addition there is a $5 fee for social studies and art courses, a $1.50 fee for physical education classes and a $3 fee for English courses.

The tuition and fees are payable at the time of registration. Second session registration will be held July 12.

For further information contact the summer school principal at Kempeville High School, by calling 497-4839.

Beach man retires as educational director

Laying the stepping stones of education

By Rhonda Miller
SUN Staff Writer

A seaside cottage on the Outer Banks beckons At Mitchell of Virginia Beach, as he cleans up his desk and prepares to welcome his replacement as Director of Continuing Education at Tidewater Community College, Chesapeake.

Filled with days of fishing and driftwood collecting with Connie, his wife of 33 years, Mitchell will return to Tidewater in the fall and continue in education.

With plans to work in career counseling and administration at the Ryan School in Norfolk, Mitchell will continue, part-time, with the work he enjoys so well.

His rapport with students of all ages has made Mitchell a man continually visited by former TCC students with tales of success and hope.

"The biggest satisfaction of this job is when students come back with master's degrees or good jobs and I feel like I had a little part in it," says Mitchell with a smile that invites conversation.

His view of dealing with students is simple: "Listen to young people and give them options. Don't dictate. If they ask for advice, give them ideas."

"They'll talk if you're really interested in them."

Departing with a sense of satisfaction, Mitchell decided to retire last September in accordance with TCC policy, when he celebrated his 65th birthday, which was TCC policy.

The policy has since changed, but once Mitchell began to plan a future with a shorter work week and more time to share leisure time with his wife, he decided to continue with his plans.

He leaves with a history of TCC as part of his life.

He came to the school in 1966 and served as its president when it was Chesapeake College, an independent, private, non-profit college.

Through its growth-the change to a state community college in February 1973, and with major expansion presently underway-Mitchell has seen a tiny college become an important part of Chesapeake's educational life.

With the average student age at 28, and ages ranging from 18 to senior citizens, Mitchell has helped to guide the success of all types of students.

His goal has always been to help people find the work that they enjoy, a habit which he always practices himself.

It's part of his three way foundation for a satisfying life: 1) have a job you enjoy, 2) by happily married, 3) take care of yourself, with good eating habits and exercise and keep an active mind.

Mitchell enjoys riding his bicycle four or five miles most days before work, eats a good breakfast each day, and reads alot.

He's seen much of the world during his career in the Army, where he rose to the rank of Colonel, travelled to Europe and the Philippines, and got used to getting up at 6 a.m. each day.

His three way foundation for a satisfying life is to have a job you enjoy, be happily married, and take care of yourself, physically and mentally.

His travelling may pick up again next summer when he is planning a trip to Oregon to visit his son, saying, "We've haven't toured the U.S. in a long time."

"My wife and I had to be separated many times while I was in the Army, and now we're looking forward to having more time together."

Mrs. Mitchell, also involved in education, now teaches homebound students in Virginia Beach.

Mitchell began to see his involvement in education when he taught at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk and earned his master's degree in education at William and Mary.

An active person, he is glad that Congress recently changed the mandatory retirement age from 65, and believes that people should continue to work as long as they are capable of doing a good job.

His good job at TCC included keeping up an active public relations schedule for the college, and he looks at its growth and sees his own work within it.

A native of Newton, Massachusetts, Mitchell earned his Bachelor's degree at Bowdoin College in Maine.

The Mitchell's came to Tidewater in 1959 and now live in Southern Points in the Wolfsnare section of Virginia Beach.

"Listen to young people and give them options.
Don't dictate."

Beach schools qualify for Title I funds

Nineteen Virginia Beach public schools have qualified to receive federal Title I funds for the next term.

To qualify, 12.15 percent of a school's enrollment must be eligible for the free lunch program. The Title I money is used mainly in elementary schools for math and reading instruction. This year, Virginia Beach received $1.37 million in Title I money which served about 3,100 students in 18 schools.

The Title I elementary schools next term are: Alantone, Aragona, Bayside, the Center for Effective Learning, W.T. Cooke, Court House, Creeds, Hermitage, Holland, Linkhorn Park, Louise Luxford, Lynnhaven, Newtown Road, North Landing, Princess Anne, Seastack, Shelton Park, Bettie F. Williams and White Oaks.

These schools were announced at the School Board's regular monthly meeting May 16. In addition, the board was told that the auction of surplus property in late April raised a total of $18,103.

Most of the items auctioned were old buses, which brought $225 to $1,500 each. Surplus furniture also was included in the sale.

Stauffer offered graduate assistantship

Larry A. Stauffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin S. Stauffer of 5320 Providence Rd., Virginia Beach, has been offered a graduate research assistantship in the college of engineering at Virginia Tech.

Stauffer, a mechanical engineering graduate of Virginia Tech this June, has been president and large-group coordinator of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, a dormitory resident advisor, and a member of the Biomedical Engineering Society.

He has worked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Langley Research Center two summers and was awarded a Langley Outstanding Achievement Award in 1976.

Stauffer will begin his graduate work in agricultural engineering this summer.

St. Gregory PTG elects officers

The St. Gregory PTG recently elected new officers for next year. Tom Spivak was elected president; Carol Moon, vice president; Chere Thornton, secretary, and Jack Donahue, treasurer.

The 8th grade gave a performance of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Beach student elected VPI student president

Louis J. "Chip" Fortier has been elected student government president at Virginia Tech.

Fortier received 2,106 votes of the 4,200 cast in the presidential election. He is a junior with a double major in economics and urban affairs, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Fortier of 1529 East Bay Shore Drive, Virginia Beach.

God Is The Cornerstone

Is God the cornerstone of your church?

It doesn't matter how small or how large your church is, how rich or how poor.

The really important thing is the foundation of your church. If God is not the cornerstone, the structure cannot be sound.

God reveals himself through his Word—the Bible. The Bible should play a central part in your church school. Children should continue to learn the important lessons it teaches.
God should also be the cornerstone of your life. If he isn't yet, then start today to build a firm foundation for your life with God as your cornerstone.

Hot Cakes looks towards the stars

The group spends a lot of time traveling, mostly between Virginia Beach and Key West, Fla., their second home.

"It's a different kind of strain," Bell said of their life. "You set up, play, tear down and the risks are a lot higher than in another kind of job. But work has been steady and we're envious for that."

Work has been so steady for Hot Cakes that a cult following has evolved, although the members tend to play down their stellar proportions.

"We have a lot of friends . . . people who travel around with us. They like to take their vacations and come listen to us," Bell explained.

"We don't realize what impressions we're making on people," Maynard added. "When you do it so many nights a week, it becomes ordinary. We're a little bit vagabond, but we're really just regular people."

Although they remain low-keyed about their work, Hot Cakes maintains having a steady job in music is what it's all about for them.

"We're doing what we like to do as a job," Maynard continued. "Any musician is lucky to be earning a living by playing music. It's arty and it's fun . . . and we can express ourselves."

The Hot Cakes sound is largely dependent on the feel of the dancers. Drummer Leon James is very conscious of the basic sound and attack of the music as related to the dancers, and the rest of the band relies on him as the backbone of the rhythm section.

But Hot Cakes wouldn't be Hot Cakes without their light show to add the total disco flair. According to Sugar Bear, Hot Cakes light technician, color intensity and direction depends on his feel for the music.

"I always say there are three parts to the show . . . I'm here to make the production end work."

Right now, Hot Cakes is playing what the people want to hear, but they have hopes of eventually becoming a "convert starband."

"Right now, we're playing for a lot of people so that ultimately we can play what we want," Maynard said.

"We want people to like us for what we are. Ideally, one day, we'll be playing large concerts with people screaming for our album."

For Hot Cakes, it's only a matter of time.

Feldman Quartet's Beach performance is musical treat

By Pam Vandever
SUN News Editor

Last week marked a special occasion for Virginia Beach — the first local performance of the Feldman String Quartet.

Ranking as one of the finest chamber music groups in the country, the quartet's concert at the Virginia Beach Little Theatre was indeed a special treat.

Members Dora Short, first violin; Lawrence Mednick, second violin; Ronald Marshall, viola; and Janet Kriner, violoncello; played an exquisite program which included works by Karl Ditters von Dittersdorf, Robert Schumann, William Kroll and Bedrich Smetana.

More than 100 persons of all ages attended the concert, which was funded in part by a grant from the Virginia Commission of the Arts and Humanities.

The stage of the Little Theatre was an appropriate setting for the program. Props reminiscent of a nineteenth century parlor almost made one feel like he was attending an evening of chamber music at a friend's home.

The ensemble opened the program with the "String Quartet in E-flat Major" by Karl Ditters von Dittersdorf. The work was written in the late eighteenth century, Dittersdorf being a contemporary, if not somewhat of a competitor, of Joseph Haydn.

In the opening allegro the quartet at once displayed its capability for achieving beautiful precision and blend between the instruments. Ms. Short's bow went gliding through the intricate passages with ease and vigor.

The andante movement's two alternating sections offered a nice contrast. The first section heard the instruments playing in four voice polyphony while the first violin carried the melody in the alternate section as the other strings offered supporting accompaniment.

The minuet was nice and crisp, with the second violin stealing a few of the main melodic phrases in this movement.

The finale was a strong movement requiring very good timing within the group, which the Feldman Quartet has mastered. Particularly powerful were the first violin solo sections where the melody was supported by sustained bass notes in the other instruments.

For its second program selection the quartet performed the adagio molto movement from the third of Robert Schumann's three string quartets.

This was a slow, warm work full of pathos and emotion. The blending and echoing of the melodic lines between all the instruments provided a rich and varied tapestry of string colors. Ms. Kriner's pizzicato cello sections added to the musical colors.

This movement used more of the darker, deeper ranges of the strings, as opposed to the light and airy Dittersdorf work. All four ensemble members proved their musical power and feeling superbly in this beautiful piece.

Two short selections from "Four Moods" by twentieth century performer and composer William Kroll preceded intermission. These well-crafted little pieces had to be written by a string player, violinist Marshall pointed, out, because of the way they call upon the capabilities of the string instruments.

The first piece, "Coquet," was charming, light, and brought some chuckles from the audience. The second piece, "Glocoso," used more twentieth century harmonies and techniques. These fun pieces whined, jumped, cavorted and sang — they were truly delightful.

The second half of the concert featured the "String Quartet in E minor, Opus 116" by Bedrich Smetana. The work is unusual in that it is programmatic chamber music, and as such is a difficult work of many elements.

It opened "allegro vivo," depicting Smetana's youthful aspirations and turmoil and was followed by a section titled "a la polka" which represented his young manhood.

The largo movement told of his great love affair and tender feelings towards his future wife. It opened with a deep, rich, emotional cello solo. Later, pizzicato cello notes seemed almost like throbbing heartbeats under the first violin's tender love melody.

The last movement displayed Smetana's nationalistic aspirations. Its light and lively music put the feelings and spirit of his native Czechoslovakia into a classical form.

Suddenly, the mood changed with the first violin holding a piercing high E over the other instruments' tremolos. This has been attributed to the fact that Smetana later became deaf and was the victim of a ringing in the ears pitched at high E. The work finally wound down, depicting his philosophic acceptance on his affliction.

The Feldman Quartet's performance of this large work was commendable in every way — in expression, precision and sheer musicality.

The concert as a whole was pure joy, and one can only hope that this was the first in a series of concerts for the Feldman Quartet in Virginia Beach.

Members of the Feldman Quartet pictured left to right are: Dora Short, first violin; Janet Kriner, violoncello; Ronald Marshall, viola; and Lawrence Mednick, second violin.

"Little Foxes," a haunting tale

by Joan Coates
SUN Editor

As depressing as Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" is, it's a story with a message that is strangely haunting.

The Virginia Beach Little Theatre's current production is a take of survival in the turn of the century South. The Hubbard family, sons Ben and Oscar together with sister Regina, launch a plan to bring manufacturing to the South which will make the well-off opportunist family rich.

The problem arises in getting Regina's share of the investment from her ailing husband, Howard.

The Hubbards are a family who go after what they want. But in the process, they use every dirty trick they can think of to make a dime. They cheat the blacks and the poor by charging high interests and refusing them extra game which eventually goes to waste. As Regina's husband puts it, "You've wrecked the town and live on it."

Howard, his daughter Alexandria and Oscar's wife Birdie, are the perservers lost in the destroyer's world. They fight to keep what is meaningful and traditionally good in the decaying South.

Birdie, played expertly by Dot Jones, is the essence of Southern womanhood. Aristocratic, musical and feather-headed, her Southern charm is the ire of her husband, who has gradually destroyed his wife's heritage. The dreaming Birdie, amid flutters, daydreams and alcohol succumbs to a life she dispires.

Mac McManus and Bob Satterfield, as the Hubbard brothers, are a finely matched pair. One is hysterically cunning and the other calmly cunning. Both give fine performances yet Satterfield's Oscar is highly contemptable.

And Paul Berryman as Leo Hubbard, the son who follows his father's path of destruction of good, is strongly repulsive and greasy.

Perhaps the strongest performance of the show, Vi Ragan's Regina, is superb. As the "cunning woman" who wishes for her husband's death, Ragan is as calculating and forceful as it would seem Hellman intended.

Ragan contrasts the hateful wife, the manipulative mother, the vengeful sister and the tormented woman into a complex personality who keeps the audience enticed by her every move. With a simple gesture such as a toast or a watchful smirk at the death of her husband, Ragan combines the sum complexities of a complicated woman.

Vanessa Golsen as the outspoken servant Addie provides the comic relief. Golsen's timing and interestingly authentic dialect make her an audience favorite.

A three-act play, "The Little Foxes" is handled quite well by the Beach company. A highly ambitious play, the cast does a fine job of bringing excellent material to an audience not quite accustomed to such deeply pensive themes. The Little Theatre deserves a strong round of appreciation for the attempt.

The show will run through June 3 with performances starting at 8:30 p.m. Call for reservations.

A dancing elephant visits outer space

The Virginia Beach Public Library will present a special dance program on Saturday, June 3 at 10:30 a.m. behind the Kemperville Branch Library (832 Kemperville Road).

"The Moving Company - Dance Now" a company of professional dancers, will present the production "An Elephant's Adventures in Outer Space." This is loosely based on the children's story "Behr Visits Another Planet."

The program is open to all family members and the library encourages families to bring a picnic lunch and enjoy the park following the production.

In the event of rain, the production will be held on Sunday, June 4 at 2 p.m. in the same place.

The production will last about one hour. There is no registration or fee.

For further details contact Ann Scott, Children's Coordinator, at 340-2987.

Beach planetarium stirs controversy

The Virginia Beach Public Schools Planetarium program for June will be the "Stonehenge Controversy." In this program the history of Stonehenge will be outlined briefly to establish the background of how Stonehenge was used.

Stonehenge, a puzzle from the ancient world, is a circular structure of huge stones on the Salisbury Plain in England. The sun is seen to rise over the heel stone each year during mid-summer. Modern theories include the facts that Stonehenge may have been the world's first observatory.

The program includes information on how Stonehenge may have been used as a stone computer to predict eclipses.

Planetarium hours are: Sunday, 7 p.m. on the 4th, 11th, 18th, and 25th; and Tuesday, 7 p.m. on the 6th, 13th, 20th, and 27th.

The planetarium seats 120 people and is easily accessible from the 44 tollroad by taking the Lynnhaven exit (exit 5) to the Lynnhaven Parkway and turning right at the first street—South Lynnhaven Road—to Plaza Junior High School, where the planetarium is located.

Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School, 486-1971, for reservations. Admission is free. Children under age 12 may be refused admission unless accompanied by a mature person.

"New Wind" blows in for a Beach concert

On Sunday, June 4, the Thalia Lynn Baptist Church of Virginia Beach will host a musical presentation by "New Wind" from Birmingham, Alabama. It will be held in the church auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

The group is from the Shades Mountain Baptist Church of Birmingham, Alabama. They are on their summer 1978 tour. In addition to the concert in Virginia Beach, they will present concerts at First Baptist Church in Taylors, S.C. and in Connecticut and Washington, D.C.

A twelve piece band accompanies the seventy voice singing group and is under the direction of Aubrey Edwards, minister of music and youth at Shades Mountain Baptist Church, Birmingham. The performance is greatly enhanced by elaborate staging and lighting. The public is invited to this free musical presentation.

A family portrait of the scheming Southern clan featured in the Lillian Hellman drama "The Little Foxes" feature Dot Jones, Vi Ragan, Theresa La Couriere, Bob Satterfield, Mac Macmanus and Paul Berryman.

"The Little Foxes" by Lillian Hellman, currently playing at The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach, features George Meutz as ailing Horace Giddens, and Vi Ragan as his scheming wife Regina.

THE LOCH NESS MONSTER LIVES!

But you won't believe it till you ride it! At The Old Country, Busch Gardens, 3,400 feet of terror! 2 minutes and 10 seconds of head spinning, 100% mind boggling excitement! The Loch Ness Monster is simply the fiercest, tallest, meanest roller coaster in this world. There's a 13-story drop from above the trees! Going from 770 mph in 3 seconds! Pulling 3.5 g's! There are two interlocking loops that turn you every way but loose. Coming and going! And there are two three quarter turns in darkness. Total darkness! The Loch Ness Monster is new at Busch Gardens. Only at The Old Country, Williamsburg, Virginia. And it's the highest reason why there's new excitement in Europe this year.

Painting the Beach

...with Eric Stevens

Roof blows with Rich band sounds

I'd like to fly over Holiday Inn Scope and see if it is intact. Buddy Rich's Band might have blown the roof right off the place on Sunday, May 21st.

It was quite possibly the most exciting evening of music I've ever heard . . . and we had Woody Herman here a few years ago for the Musicians' Union dance . . . and Count Basie was fantastic at Ocean Chief's Club several years back.

I had caught Rich on Merv Griffin's show a few weeks prior, and was floored, as was the audience. But I figured they did their best number, and couldn't go on like that all night. I was wrong.

I stayed for both performances, moving to the front row for the second.

The first show was close to 90 minutes, which the sidemen later called a marathon, but I would expect that much for $7.50. The packed house was absolutely ecstatic, with frequent standing ovations and prolonged whooping and hollering. Although the second show drew only half as many people, they were equally vocal. In the audience were drummers Jimmy Barbour, Bobby Whitehorn, Gene Brown, Ralph Copley, Wilton Ferguson and Pat Curtis, Jr., plus trumpet-terror Pete Beller. Buddy gave but 60 minutes of music, cutting out the stellar bass and piano solos this time. Some people speculate that he was miffed over the small turnout; others claim he disliked having to wait through the warmup band's performance. But his men state that one-hour is standard. They also feel that the crowd was more appreciative than many.

The band started several songs in Count Basie fashion; that is, with bass, drums, and tinkling, bluesy piano. That alone is utter bliss to me. Then the 5 saxes, 3 trombones and 4 trumpets would roar in. As a SECTION, I enjoyed the screeching trumpets best, but most of the solos were by two New York tenormen, Gary Pribeik and Steve Marcus, with the latter getting 2/3 of the space. Pribeik, probably 7 years younger than the 38 year old Marcus, played in a more traditional style at times, unafraid of simplicity. Marcus was out of John Coltrane all the way, playing sheets of sound, and using soprano sax for one song. Steve has more than 30 LPs under his belt with Kenton, Herman, Herbie Mann, and Larry Coryell. His balladry on Thelonious Monk's "Round Midnight" and "Lover Man" left the audience breathless. I felt like my hair was standing on end as Steve's does with his "Afro." A friend of mine claims that Steve's brother Gary is even better; perhaps as good, but it is difficult to conceive of anyone actually exceeding Marcus.

Just as thrilling to me, however, were the bass and piano work. Tom Warrington plays fretless Fender, and is a rocklike rhythm man as well as a sparkling soloist. Pianist Bob Kaye layed down some outstanding blues, and was featured on Fats Waller's "Jitterbug Waltz." Many bands refuse to play if the piano is not tuned before hand, but this band had it tuned again between shows!

Unlike the uniformed band, Buddy wore a sweater. He looked ten years younger than 61. Rich is a colorful vocal stylist, but did not sing. He also failed to announce vocal stylist, but did not sing. He also failed to announce at the end of each concert. This I fail to grasp, for he is so glib that the TV talk shows seek him out. When one audience yelled, "Hey, Buddy, why don't you work out like you used to with Gene Krupa?" Buddy slowly turned his head away and made a face that said a hundred words (none of them printable).

His concluding remark was that he was due to appear on the Tonight Show on Wednesday . . . with guest host Johnny Carson.

EIGHTH NOTES: Dick Besette is back: Holiday Inn Bridge Tunnel; Jimmy Barbour is back at the Sheraton Beach Inn.

Ed. note: Eric Stevens is active in this area as a bandleader. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Russo's hit record, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show, worked as a disc jockey and floorshow act, and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers. If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Va. Beach, Va. 23454.

Kempville's unexcused absences drop

Tracking system nabs class cutters

The number of students cutting class at Kempville High School has dropped significantly, thanks to a new student tracking system designed by Judy Mueller, a school mathematics teacher.

Before the new system began at the first of this semester, daily unexcused absences were running as high as 120-130 per day, about five percent of the 2700-student population.

"First semester, not much was being done about the absences, and I did a lot of complaining," said Ms. Mueller. "With our new system, those absences have been reduced to about 20 to 30 per day."

Each bell of the day, two or more teachers are assigned to duty in the office to carry out the procedures of the system. With the aid of student helpers who act as runners, these teachers summon the students whose names have been turned in as possible offenders.

Each student's absence is checked and if the student does not have a valid excuse, he is assigned the prescribed punishment. The teachers are in charge of giving detention. Administrators must verify each in-school suspension.

Under the system devised by Ms. Mueller, students are given after school detention for their first offense, in-school suspension for the second, third and fourth offenses. If a student continues to cut classes, he or she is referred to the Office of Pupil Personnel for evaluation.

All punishments are recorded, and one of the significant parts of the plan is the feedback to the classroom teachers. They are notified of the status of the skipping offender, which according to Ms. Mueller, has increased teacher cooperation in the program.

Each student has been made aware of the procedures for early release, late arrival and excuse slip use as well as a complete list of penalties and offenses set forth in an administration memorandum.

J. Wylie French, principal, stated he was very pleased with the consistency and efficiency of the new program.

"Next year, the plan will have to be much tighter than it is now. Students have to make a decision as to whether they are coming to school to study and learn or to cut class."

Both faculty and administrators are confident that the plan will function successfully next year despite the increase in student population to 3000 and a planned split shift.

Ms. Mueller and French briefed the Virginia Beach School Board on the tracking plan at the board's April 18 meeting. A presentation of the plan has also been made to all the school system's assistant principals for administration.

Honor fraternity presents trophy, display case to TCC

The Phi Upsilon Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa recently presented a trophy and display case to the Virginia Beach campus of Tidewater Community College.

This school service project by the thirty-five members of the PTK, the national honor fraternity of the junior college, was made possible by the proceeds of a bake sale sponsored by the TCC Chapter.

Stan White, chapter president, hopes that TCC students will soon fill the display case with awards and trophies showing the excellence of TCC students within the community.

Dr. Michael F. La Bouve, left, provost of the Va. Beach campus of TCC, accepts a trophy and display case for the college library from Stan White, president of Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor society of the junior college.

Young Beach authors write their own books

"After a semester I saw no real improvement in my student's grammar, so I wanted them to do something they would be very proud of and that would make them want to use correct grammar."

With that thought in mind, Mrs. Marigrace Thomas, fifth and sixth grade teacher at Pembroke Meadows Elementary, embarked her 40 language arts students on a five-week course in writing and making their own books.

Mrs. Thomas, in her first year in Virginia Beach schools, had taught in Chesterfield County for six years and had seen the effectiveness of similar projects. She felt that students could improve their language arts skills a great deal by writing a composition of their choice, binding it and sharing their "book" with other students.

She divided her course into five segments: background, type of book, writing, use of resource material and binding.

The background phase covered illustrations, the title, the plot, characters, actions, poems and conflict. The students then chose the type of book they wanted to write, such as nonfiction, fiction, science fiction or poetry.

She then urged them to write...freely. As each student turned in a rough draft, Mrs. Thomas would make corrections in a way that would bring the students into the next segment, that of using resource material.

If she spotted a misspelled word, she urged the student to find the correct spelling in the dictionary. If a word was repeated continually, she suggested finding a variation from a thesaurus.

Many students chose to buy a paperback thesaurus for their own use. "We just about wiped out the supply of the thesauruses in book stores around here," she smiled.

The last segment involved binding their publication. The students learned how to miter corners as they made the cover, and boys and girls wielded needle and thread to stitch the pages and cover.

Individual moments of pride came when the students invited their peers to see what they had accomplished. The students explained how they made their books and then read their compositions. All of the first and second grade students were also invited into the classroom where the new authors displayed their handiwork and read (one-on-one) their selection to the younger students.

"They are very proud of their book. It was a new experience for most of them, and they benefited tremendously," said Mrs. Thomas, "particularly the low achievers."

VWC honors athletes at annual banquet

Seven Virginia Wesleyan College athletes who helped post one of the best sports records in the College's history, including Dixie Conference titles in soccer, basketball and baseball, were honored last week at the eighth annual Athletic Awards Banquet.

Heading the honors list were Robert F. Jacobs, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Jacobs, Milford, Del.; and Gary P. Edwards, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Edwards, Virginia Beach.

Jacobs, a senior, received WTAR radio's Senior Athlete Award from sports director Stan Garlin. A four-year letterman on the baseball and soccer teams, Jacobs was one of the leaders on both teams.

Edwards, a junior, received the eighth annual W.B. Shafer

Jr. Award. This scholarship award is given annually to the athlete achieving the highest academic average. The award was established by W.B. Shafer Jr. of Norfolk. Edwards lettered in golf and basketball.

Most Valuable Player awards were presented for seven sports: soccer, Jacobs; golf, Edwards; baseball, Jacobs and Charles K. Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Thornton, Chesapeake; cross-country, Andrew M. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Bell, Norfolk; women's basketball, Sandra M. Silvestre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Silvestre, Chesapeake; men's basketball, Mark E. Butts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Butts Jr., Virginia Beach; and tennis, Kirk W. Kincannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kincannon, Alexandria.

Yo, ho, ho and a bottle goes to sea

The rivers of the ocean provided a lesson in science recently for the second grade class of Mrs. Jackie Hertz at Trantwood Elementary.

A science project evolved from a class reading program in which Mrs. Hertz and her students read about the ocean and its drift currents. The second graders wrote their own notes and sealed them in bottles. The father of classmate Troy Kahley dropped the bottles at sea while flying his Naval Reserve helicopter one weekend before Christmas.

Bobby Kelly's bottle landed at Craney Island where Old Dominion University biologist Robert Anderson picked it up and replied to his note, the first answered from the 13 bottles dropped.

Anderson's reply, dated March 17, described how he found the bottle and wished Bobby and his class success in its study of ocean drift currents.

The class is anxiously waiting for the next reply, particularly its source.)

Bobby Kelly and Mrs. Jackie Hertz discuss the ocean's drift currents and how bottles with notes in them can wind up a long way from Virginia Beach.

Scouting News

Cub Pack 411 presents "Laugh Olympics"

Cub Scout Pack 411 presented its version of "Laugh Olympics" at the pack's recent meeting.

The scouts competed in "balloon or bust" relays and a race that was titled, "Can a Cub really dress himself?"

Since the score was very close, each den was awarded a ribbon.

Scouts given awards included Ben Berner, Andy Congress,

Kenneth Sexton, Aaron Berner, J. D. Ridley, John Registrar and Nicky George.

Webelos awards were earned by Brian Clark, Chet Rhoads, Scott Burman, John Vick and Robert White.

Brian Dunn and Ben Berner were inducted into the Webelos den while Marty Klein crossed the ceremonial bridge into boy scouting.

The following Cub Scouts of Pack 477 were presented with badges and achievement awards during a recent pack meeting at a Tranwood Elementary School: Tony Wright, Paul Hill, Tommy Light, Kenny Welkel, Steve Craig, Troy Keyser, Andrew Franklin, Wayne Miller, Kirby Bragler, Jeff Ellison, Bobby Cannon, Eddie Swef, Markes Holms and Bobby Drugs. Also, Steve Zanetti, Tom Ford, Stephen Loski, John Gallager, Barry Litchfield, Shawn Shelton, Alan Longbotham, Hank Elvin, Chris Richardson and Kevin Crain.

And, Dwight Gibbs, Mike Barry, Jim Bloomquist, and Mike Ford.

Danny Easton to lead webelos in Pack 424

Danny Easton was announced as the new Webelos den leader at a recent meeting of Cub Pack 424 at Louise Luxford Elementary School.

David Beasley and Ernie Rorner received Wolf awards. Arrow points were given to Kevin Lopley and Joseph Steller. Activity badges were given to Donald Easton, Eugene Steller, Tommy Williams and Chris Fanning.

Kattwinkel heads area Girl Scout council

O. Frank Kattwinkel of Virginia Beach has been named to a three-year term as committee vice president of the Girl Scout Council of Greater Tidewater.

The appointment was made at the council's annual meeting held recently at Elizabeth City State University in Elizabeth City, N.C.

Kattwinkel is a retired Air Force Colonel and is president of his own consulting firm, Minuteman Managerial Consultants.

He served on the local council board from 1970 to 1973 before being transferred to Massachusetts, where he continued as a Girl Scout volunteer with the Bay Path Colonial Council. He and his wife Helen returned to Virginia Beach in December. They have six children.

Galloway honored at cub pack meeting

Rick Galloway received the Arrow of Light award at a recent meeting of Cub Pack 488 at Holland Elementary School. In addition to this award, he has earned 15 Webelos Arrow points were given to Frank Roth, Rubin Soliman, Steven Ruppenkamp and Ronnie Schindler. Activity badges were given to John Barnard, Carey Radican, Danny Cliff, Donnie Jones and Paul Thornton.

Back Bay girl scouts camp near Franklin

Back Bay Neighborhood Girl Scouts of Greater Tidewater Area IV recently held an encampment at Camp Darden near Franklin.

The girls participated in camp crafts, nature hikes and neighborhood campfire. Canoeing was available to qualified swimmers.

Two contests were held with Kim Henry of Senior no. 473 Kellam High School as mistress of ceremonies. Chosen for Miss Ugly Leader was Maria White of Junior Troop 90 and chosen for Miss Darden was Hope Hilly of Brownie Troop 77, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Hilly of North Landing Road.

For the first time, the Brownies were allowed to spend the whole weekend. This was a big event for the 6- through 8-year-olds.

Kempsville girls scouts join Spring Fling

Kempsville Neighborhood Girl Scouts recently held their Spring Fling '78, a 3rd-grade campout at Camp Young in Chesapeake. Attending the two-day event were 51 Brownies, three older Girl Scouts, and 19 adults.

Junior Scout Laurie Sanders, taught the Brownies a safety game, helping her to earn the junior aide patch.

Cadetess Karen Delrymple and Cindy Boyd shared with the girls and leaders a few "old scouting tricks."

The weekend's activities included games, songs, crafts, skits, walks on the nature trails and an evening campfire.

Charlie Sanders showed the group how to make a dishwasher strainer from a plastic milk jug.

Since this campout was to help prepare the 3rd graders for junior Girl Scouts next fall, all tent pitching, cooking and cleaning were done by the girls. Leaders were there only to assist when needed.

Troops attending Spring Fling '78 were 74, 300, 605, 181, 604, 811, 395 and 291.

Openings available at Girl Scout camp

The Girl Scout Council of Greater Tidewater has openings resident camp program at Camp Darden and Matoaka. Uses for acceptance and participation in all programs of the council are free and the same for everyone. Resident camp serves girls age 8-18.

The resident camp programs take part in the USDA special milk program. Milk will be made available to all children without charge and without regard to race, color or national origin.

There is a special session for handicapped girls. The program includes swimming, water safety, canoeing, sailing, horse riding, hiking, crafts and environmental studies.

For further information, call the Girl Scout office at 622-1873 or write 314 West Butte Street in Norfolk.

Girl Scouts seek day camp staff

The Girl Scout Council of Greater Tidewater has need of additional day camp staff for its 13 area camps which will be open from June 12 through July 28.

Staff workers will receive training in out-of-doors activities from camp directors and consultants and will be assigned to the camp nearest their home so they can be with their camper daughters. These workers will receive payment to help cover the expenses of working and they will be provided with baby sitting service for their pre-schoolers.

For further information on this special Girl Scout summer program, call Pay McKinney or Elizabeth Seyler at the Greater Tidewater Council office, 622-1871.

Woodbadge course set in June

South and Southeast Area District Woodbadge Course Scouters interested in having fun and learning of camping are invited to attend the woodbadge course under the leadership of Harold Miley at the Pipestem Scout Reservation from June 17 to 24.

The course consists of counselor-led debates on 11 competencies of leadership. There is also ample opportunity for sharpening present Scouting skills and learning new ones.

Those interested should contact Harold Miley at 564 Witchduck Road, 23462 or the woodbadge coordinator at the Tidewater Boy Scout Council office.

Back Bay wildfowl art displayed at Pembroke

Emma Meehan's art was an eye-full for Alice Riggan of Norfolk.

Jason Hoggard of Pungo takes a peek at wildfowl art displayed by the Back Bay Wildfowl Guild exhibition at Pembroke Mall.

Shannon Marie Branch of Georgetown Road was fascinated by the wildfowl on display.

The Back Bay Wildfowl Guild sponsored its member show at Pembroke Mall last week-end.

The art of such local craftsmen as John and Barbara Fahey, Emma Meehan, Archie Johnson, Burt Melchor, George Crossan and Larry Etheridge focused in on the folk art of bird carving, painting, photography and artifacts of wildfowl of the Back Bay region.

Hunting, its habits and life style, is celebrated by the Virginia Beach artists and historians. Like oystering and fishing, duck hunting was a livelihood for the Back Bay natives. Most were guides and caretakers for lodges and gun clubs. Their stories and those of the wealthy northerners who came to hunt and what they saw and caught, are reflected in the works displayed.

The main objective of the show at Pembroke Mall was to "focus the public's attention on wild fowl," according to Chuck Creekman, chairman of the show.

"In September we will have a show where famous people from all over the country and Canada will display their works. Our ultimate objective is to have a wildfowl museum," he noted.

Virginia Beach's Back Bay is the natural habitat for most of the kinds of birds displayed, said Creekman.

Twenty-eight members displayed their own brand of Beach history in the show which lasted through Saturday.

First Colonial wind ensemble wins top music festival prize

First Colonial High School's Wind Ensemble won the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival's coveted Shenandoah Cup.

The band, directed by Max A. Gonano, swept the field of 33 concert bands, taking both the Shenandoah Cup for the band receiving the highest number of points over all, and the Class A title, for bands from schools with more than 1,400 students.

The band played three selections of grade six music, "Seventeen Come Sunday" by Williams, "Third Suite" by Jager, and "Festive Overture" by Shostakovich, receiving a superior rating from judges from five colleges and universities.

The First Colonial Wind Ensemble this year sent five of its members to All-State Band. Those instrumentalists were: Cathy Clark, clarinet; Andy Deloro, clarinet; Jannette Weller, trombone; Richard Kelly, percussion; and Dona Ainsley, string bass.

Parents waiting at the high school Saturday night were as excited as the victorious musicians. They were ready for an instant celebration with cake and punch when the band members returned.

The Kempville High School Concert Band, directed by Billy Cooper, also competed in the Apple Blossom Festival, returning home with an outstanding rating.

VWC hosts annual orchestra workshop

Virginia Wesleyan College will host its eighth annual orchestra workshop from Aug. 13 through 19, according to Dr. R. David Clayton, assistant professor of music and Workshop Coordinator.

Under the direction of Russell Stanger, music director of the Norfolk Symphony Orchestra, the workshop offers young musicians an opportunity for advanced, concentrated study with outstanding teachers in string, woodwind, brass and percussion instruments. Instruction during the week-long program is carried on at the personal as well as the orchestral and class levels.

The workshop, which hosted more than 90 young people last year, is open to students in grades seven through twelve (others by special permission).

Faculty members for the workshop will include Ronald Marshall, principal oboe with the Norfolk Symphony and a member of the Feldman Quartet; Gregory Barnes, conductor of the Tidewater Junior Youth Symphony and orchestra consultant for the Norfolk Public Schools; Linda Decker, a violist with the Norfolk and Peninsula Symphonies; Janet Kriner, principal cellist with the Norfolk and Peninsula Symphonies and a member of the Feldman Quartet; Roy Johnson, principal clarinetist with the Lexington, Kentucky, Philharmonic Orchestra; Betty Johnson, principal percussionist with the Lexington Philharmonic; and Stephen Carlson, principal trumpet with the Norfolk Symphony and Virginia Opera Association.

Applications for this year's Orchestra Workshop are available through high school and junior high orchestra directors or by writing Dr. R. David Clayton at Virginia Wesleyan College, Wesleyan Drive, Norfolk, Virginia 23502.

Application deadline is July 1.

Thrill of victory

There's nothing like the "thrill of victory" and it's all smiles for Virginia Beach native Karen White. A student at Georgia Southern College, Karen recently performed in a one-act play which captured top honors in the 1978 Georgia Theatre Conference competition. The play, "Daddy A Good One For the Red Man," earned the GSC's cast the top prize in the one-act play category. The award was presented recently at the Conference's annual convention in Atlanta.

Hedgespeth granted fellowship

Grady Backus Hedgespeth, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hedgespeth of 921 Antioch Way, Virginia Beach, has won a Danforth Graduate Fellowship for advanced study for the Ph.D. degree, according to a recent announcement from the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri.

The Fellowship provides tuition, fees and an annual stipend for up to four years of study in preparation for a career of college teaching. Hedgespeth was nominated for this Fellowship by The University of Virginia.

Nearly 3,000 baccalaureate and postbaccalaureate persons from colleges and universities throughout the United States competed for the 100 Fellowships scheduled to be awarded this year.

Selection of Danforth Graduate Fellows is made annually in four stages — nomination by campus liaison officers or individual nominations, the assessment of the written application materials by the reading committee, interviews, and final selection by the program's advisory council.

More than 2,500 Danforth Graduate Fellowships have been awarded since the program was established in 1952. Over 95% of the recipients have completed the Ph.D. degree and approximately 85% have become college teachers.

The Danforth Foundation, established in 1927, is a national, educational, philanthropic organization, dedicated to enhancing the humane dimensions of life. Activities of the Foundation traditionally have emphasized the theme of improving the quality of teaching and learning.

Currently, the Danforth Foundation serves the following areas: higher education primarily through sponsorship of programs administered by the staff, precollegiate education through grant-making and program activities, and urban affairs in metropolitan St. Louis through grant-making and program activities.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth, who established the Foundation, along with their daughter and son, Dorothy Danforth Compton and Donald Danforth, maintained active leadership roles in the affairs of the foundation throughout their lifetimes. Family members continue to be involved in foundation activities through participation on the board of trustees.

It's an old story but I'd like to stress again ALL HAIR FASHION REVOLVES AROUND A GOOD CUT. Now that that's out of the way, let's look into ways of enhancing your new summer style.

Henna, an age-old concoction that Cleopatra used on her hair, comes from a plant that grows in Middle East. A common misconception about henna is that it turns your hair red. Nothing could be further from the truth. The leaves of the plant impart a reddish glow on the hair and the roots of the plant turn the hair black. With these two colors plus neutral, which is the absence of color, we can mix any color from strawberry blond to black.

Why should I use henna? In the summer when we sit in the sun, go swimming and just plain abuse our hair, it has a tendency to lose its lustre and the end may split. All the condition in the world won't repair the damage, although it will prevent more damage and help new growth from becoming damaged.

Henna when applied correctly coats each hair, seals the damaged cuticle, and leaves a healthy shine. Because every strand is coated, your hair becomes much fuller. Now all that's nice, but the real benefits come in the color.

A neutral henna when applied to someone with blond hair will bring out the natural highlights. Someone with brown hair could get a mahogany tone if red is applied. The color combinations could go on forever. Everything must be considered before deciding on a color for your hair. The natural color of your hair is the main factor in the application of the henna treatment, so I would suggest you consult your stylist. He is a professional with your best interests at heart — so trust him and have a beautiful summer.

From playground to parties, this wrap sundress by Foxy Lady of San Francisco is the perfect dress for day or evening wear. Women are glorying in the rediscovery that it's fun to look feminine any time of the day or night. Dresses are now two to one over pants in specialty shops.

The summer silhouette is soft and yet curve-conscious because of light-weight fabrics. Natural fibers have swept the fashion industry with pure cotton, pure linen, raw silk and silk tussah among the many. Prints are apt to be much larger and more scattered. Realistic flowers, either single or in small bouquets, are always carefully detailed.

This is the season of definite colors whether vivid or pale. This is also the season for rich-looking accessories and jewelry.

Again swing to the feminine side with high-heeled strappy sandals or low bare sandals that expose all but a strip of patent leather on the top of the foot. Wear ribbons or combs in the hair, or if going out at night add a fresh-cut flower to your braid.

Your jewelry should look as if its home is a bank vault. RICH! RICH! RICH! All this contrived to forecast the dressiest spring and summer in years.

Shown: Black all-cotton wrap sundress splashed with pink, green and brown floral print. $36.

To dress up your sundress for evening, pair it with a shawl and high heels. Her Place at Haygood has a nice selection of open weave shawls in natural colors. Wear them over the shoulder or tied about the waist and team them up with a nice dirndl skirt or sack pants.

—Beach Navyman chosen as "Sailor of the Half Year"—

Storekeeper First Class Terry L. Gomez of 412 Independence Boulevard, has been chosen the Naval Surface Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet (COMNAVSURFLANT) "Sailor of the Half Year" for April through October 1978.

The Virginia Beach resident was runner-up for the award last year and was surprised to hear he was selected this year. "I was proud to have been nominated last year," he said, "but when I was chosen this year, I really felt great!"

As Gomez' wife, Betty, and family looked on, Captain Richard C. Avrit, Chief of Staff at COMNAVSURFLANT awarded the eight-year Navyman with a plaque and a certificate. Gomez was also granted the use of a reserved parking space at COMNAVSURFLANT and was given two days special liberty (time off).

Gomez received the award because of his consistent performance as a casualty report expeditor. A CASREPT expeditor is responsible for ensuring that all repair parts for ships reach their destination as soon as possible.

According to Commander Richard R. Foley, Gomez' supervisor, he has progressed as the most reliable and competent CASREPT expeditor when compared to other men with his experience and rate. "When there's a sticky job that needs to be done," CDR Foley said, "he's the man to look for."

Gomez, a graduate of Princess Anne High School in Virginia Beach, joined the Navy in 1969. His decision to join the Navy was influenced by his father, Foster L. Gomez, a retired Navy Aviation Electrician, reminded his son that the Navy would pay for most of his college education.

In 1970 Gomez attended several Navy schools after which he was sent to the Naval Support Facility in Danang, Vietnam. There he was assigned to training South Vietnamese about our Navy supply system and micro-film facilities.

Following a one-year tour in Vietnam, Gomez was transferred to Mobile Technical Unit Two (MOTU TWO), based in Norfolk.

While there, he met and married Betty A. Harris of Virginia Beach. They have two children — Jeffrey, 3½ and Amy, 1½. Gomez has been assigned to COMNAVSURFLANT since October 1976.

"I have no complaints about the way the Navy has treated me," he said, "in fact, I can use the education and the experience I receive while I'm in the Navy to someday open my own business."

Lopez selected as sailor of quarter

Data Processing Technician Seaman Fernando J. Lopez has been named as Sailor of the Quarter at the Fleet Combat Training Center, Atlantic, Dam Neck, in Virginia Beach for the first quarter of the year.

Seaman Lopez, who checked aboard Dam Neck training center in July 1977, has been serving the Tactical Support Center Training Department as its CV-TSC peripheral manager.

Since reporting aboard, Seaman Lopez has been an active participant in Dam Neck intramural bowling and volleyball leagues, and has somehow found enough time to complete seven credit hours at Tidewater Community College.

Seaman Lopez's three year tour at Dam Neck will be cut short in July when he reports to Annapolis to be admitted to the United States Naval Academy as a plebe; class of 1982.

When asked what he thought about his appointment to the Naval Academy and his being named Sailor of the Quarter, Seaman Lopez replied, "Getting Sailor of the Quarter is a great honor to me. There are a lot of good, hard working young men and women at Dam Neck, and this award really came as a huge surprise. As for the Naval Academy, it's a great opportunity and I'm very proud to have been chosen . . . and right now, I've got just one thing on my mind - plebe summer."

Seaman Lopez, a native Cuban, said that rising tuition and material costs were factors that lead him to enlist in the Navy. His continuing desire to attain a college education eventually brought him to pursue a Secretary of the Navy nomination for an appointment to the Naval Academy.

The 1975 graduate of Hialeah-Miami Lakes High School in Hialeah, Florida, says that the Navy has been "just super" with him, and that as far as he could see, "the opportunities are endless - with no distinction for race, or color, or anything except ability."

Navy Captain Chegin returns to Beach after retiring as head of defense depot

Navy Captain G.I. Chegin, commander of Defense Depot Tracy, retired during change of command ceremonies Friday, April 28. Captain Chegin, commander of the 448-acre Defense Logistics Agency since August 1976, was succeeded by Air Force Colonel Bob M. Pennington.

Employing some 1700 civilians, the depot supplies food, clothing and textiles, construction material, industrial tools and equipment and general supplies to Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine bases in the 10 Western states and the Pacific overseas area.

Captain Chegin began his military career with service in the U.S. Army during World War II. While in the Army, he completed Army specialized training at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., and served with the Army Combat Engineers from 1943 to 1946. After the war, he earned a bachelors degree in economics from Saint Francis College in Loretto, Pa., and was commissioned an ensign in the U.S. Navy upon graduation in 1948. Captain Chegin also completed studies at the Naval Supply Corps School and the Armed Forces Staff College.

Prior to becoming the depot's eighth commander, Captain Chegin had been supply officer at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard in Portsmouth.

He and his wife, Marion, have two sons. The Chegins will live in Virginia Beach, following his retirement.

Naval Air Station Oceana holds wives info school

The next Naval Air Station Oceana Navy Wives Information School will be held June 7, 8 and 9 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd at NAS Oceana. Intended to provide useful, everyday information for Navy and Marine Corps wives, the curriculum includes talks by local experts on CHAMPUS, pay and allowances, Navy Relief, housing, legal assistance, Navy Exchange, Commissary Store, Special Services, survivor benefits and shipment of household goods.

The school is designed to inform the Navy Wife of available services and benefits and to answer questions she might have. For more information and reservations call the NAS Oceana Public Affairs Office at 425-3131 or 425-3132.

Matton receives commendation

In ceremonies conducted in Oceana Hangar 500, "Diamondback" operations office Ldr. Michael N. Matton was presented the Navy Commendation Medal by Cmdr. Drex Bradshaw, skipper of VF-102.

Matton's sound leadership, professionalism, initiative and selfless devotion to duty while serving as Fighting 102's maintenance officer were specified in the citation signed by Vice Adm. H.E. Greer. Matton held the job from September, 1976 to January, 1978.

Matton's innovative management techniques were directly responsible for enabling the Diamondbacks to maintain the highest F-4J aircraft availability and the best full systems capability among any East Coast squadron, said Bradshaw.

Harker earns degree

Walter Reed Harker of Virginia Beach was among the 2,422 graduates who received diplomas at the 103rd commencement exercises April 21 at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Promotions announced

At its regular monthly meeting, the Board of Directors of First and Merchants National Bank of Tidewater announced the following promotions:

Jeffery C. Flowers and William D. Sessions Jr. from management trainees to assistant cashiers. Flowers and Sessions will remain as assistant managers of the bank's Kempville and Princess Anne Plaza offices respectively.

Also elevated were: Donald T. Faison, James N. Banks and Robert J. Keogh, all formerly assistant cashiers to assistant vice presidents.

Rodriguez appointed

Richard Ronald Rodriguez, son of Colonel and Mrs. Robert Rodriguez of Grassy Hollow Place, has received an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado.

A senior at Cox High School, Rodriguez will join his brother, Raymond, a 1977 Cox graduate, who is completing his first year at the Academy.

Richard received his nomination from Florida Senator Richard Stone.

Navy presents retiree with honorary award

The Navy's second highest honorary award, the Navy Superior Civilian Service Award, was presented to Mary S. "Bobbie" Bailey at a ceremony in honor of her retirement after 30 years of federal service recently.

The award was made on behalf of Vice Adm. J.B. Wilson, chief of naval education and training, by Donald E. Davis, comptroller, fleet combat training center, Atlantic, at Dam Neck.

In addition, Betty A. Hambrick, federal women's program coordinator for Vice Adm. Wilson, presented a meritorious achievement certificate for Mrs. Bailey's contribution to the equal Employment Opportunity Program.

Capt. Dwight M. Agnew Jr., commanding officer of the fleet combat training center, presented a citation from the commander of the training command, United States Atlantic Fleet, Rear Adm. K. L. Shugart.

Mrs. Bailey began her career as a leave clerk at Oceana Naval Air Station, and upon her retirement was the deputy comptroller for the fleet combat training center. She was presented a silver tea service by her fellow employees.
